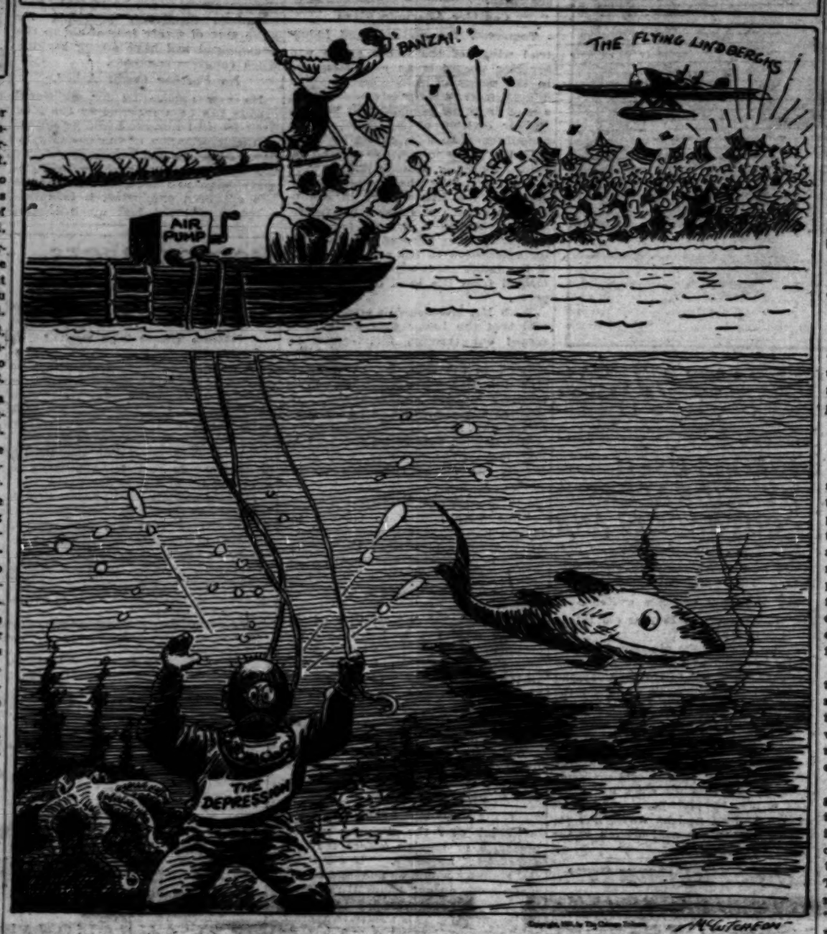
FORGETTING THE DEPRESSION IN JAPAN



ESCAPED TRUSTY TALKS TOO MUCH; HE IS IDENTIFIED

James Miller, 35 years old, a hit-and-run driver, was captured yesterday in Rochelle, Ill., after fleeing from the scene of an accident in Dixon, Ill. He was returned to Dixon and placed in jail pending an investigation of the accident. Being a loquacious individual, Miller was unable to resist telling his fellow prisoners how tough he was, going so far as to state that he was an ex-convict. The conversation was overheard and Miller was ushered into the office of Sheriff Ward Miller.

When they came out of their huddle it was announced that James Miller was none other than Warden Hill's trusty barber at Joliet, who had donned the warden's son's golf suit and disappeared from the premises on July 4 while the warden was away. Miller was serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder.

Miller had stolen the car he was driving when the accident occurred which led to his arrest. He will be returned to Joliet.

DR. ROBERTSON'S WILL DISPOSES OF $60,000 ESTATE

The will of Dr. John Dill Robertson, former health commissioner and president of the west park board, was filed yesterday before N. J. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. It disposes of assets estimated at $60,000.

The will, a rough draft of what was to have been his will, was drawn several days before the physician's death of heart disease in his summer residence at Fontana on Lake Geneva, Wis. The money is left in trust to the Bennett Eclectic College of Medicine and Surgery, with the provision that one-third of the income go to his second wife, Mrs. Helen Robertson, and the balance to his son, Dr. Thomas Sanderson Robertson, during their lifetimes.

Judge Bonelli was told Dr. Robertson had transferred real estate and other holdings, valued near $1,000,000, to his wife and son shortly before his death. The son declined to comment on the transfer.

BUDAPEST MAYOR WEDS A JEWESS; MAY LOSE OFFICE

BUDAPEST, Aug. 26.—Much interest has been aroused here by a report that the mayor of Budapest, Dr. Eugene Sipoes, at present on vacation, will be unable to return to office owing to his marriage with a woman who, although of Christian faith, is of Jewish origin.

Dr. Karl Wolff, leader of the Christian Social party, which Dr. Sipoes belongs to and which is strictly anti-Semitic, is said to have told Mayor Sipoes that he must either get a divorce or resign his office as mayor.

Army Defeats Lisbon Revolt; 42 Are Killed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 26.—[By Telephone to Madrid.]—Another Portuguese revolutionary movement had failed tonight and the Carmona dictatorship maintained its precarious hold over an uneasy country.

At 8 o'clock there was not a car in the streets or a revolver shot to be heard in Lisbon, but the calm followed eleven hours of desperate fighting in which artillery, machine gun units, airplanes and civilians armed with grenades took part. Tonight's check-up revealed 42 dead, among them many women and children, and 240 wounded. Two hundred and fifty rebels are facing at worst the firing squad, and at best, deportation to the colonies.

At 9 o'clock tonight Gen. Antonio Carmona and his ministers emerged from the Carmo barracks whence, under the protection of machine gun squads since 7 o'clock this morning, they dir ted measures against the rebels. Gen. Carmona announced, "The revolt is liquidated."

Fight Rages All Day.

The Portuguese government thinks Cols. Diaz, Antunes, and Marchate, who were captured, are leaders, but apparently the movement was worked up not only by military elements, which are disgusted with the Carmona dictatorship and recent wage cuts, but political elements working at the Spanish frontier with sympathy of the new régime of Spain.

Today's rebellion broke without warning. An artillery regiment and a machine gun unit in Lisbon garrison led off, and civilians, armed first with hand grenades and later with captured army guns, followed.

They entrenched themselves in the Campo Lide quarters and held off attacks from troops of republican guards during most of the day. With desperate courage they fought their way into the barracks, imprisoned the officers and incited troops to revolt.

Planes Bomb Fortress.

Three rebel planes from Alvarca airdome appeared over the city, dropping manifestoes. Two of them bombed the Almada fortress just across the Tagus, the poorly aimed bombs killing many women and children in the slums nearby. The other headed for the palace of Belem in search of Gen. Carmona. He was not there.

During the entire morning artillery from Fort St. George, which commands the town, shelled the rebels in Campo Lide, causing immense property damage. The gunners carefully spared the embassy quarter, which in previous revolts has been seriously damaged.

At 11 o'clock tonight the fleet, such as it is, sailed out of the Tagus for target practice. The fact that they went is a sure sign that the government won, because the fleet, from its strategic position in the Tagus, never passes up a chance to join a winner.

Army Captures Barracks.

By noon today most of the rebellious barracks were taken, but the loyal troops struggled the rest of the day with the civilian element. Fusillades were fired down narrow streets and bombs hurled haphazardly took a heavy toll of lives.

A mother and her three babies were found dead in a kitchen where a stray grenade had fallen. The only survivor in the household was a 6 year old boy.

All afternoon the desires of the curious populace to see how things were going were discouraged by mounted police, who charged through the streets firing into the air.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Sir Hall Caine, noted novelist, is seriously ill at his home, Greeba Castle, in the Isle of Man, it was reported today. The report said his condition was causing anxiety and that Lady Caine and the other members of his family had been summoned.

The noted novelist is 78 years old. He has been a well known literary figure for nearly fifty years, producing novels and plays, many of the latter being dramatized versions of his books.

In 1907 he was declared by the manager of the Lyceum theater in London to be the wealthiest novelist in the world.

NEW CABINET OF BRITAIN MAPS SLASH OF DOLE

Starts Work on Bill to End Crisis.

An article by Henry Wales, Paris correspondent of The Tribune, who was sent to England to survey conditions there, tells of the cost of the royal family. It appears on page 2.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Invested with seals of office by King George in a traditional ceremony at Buckingham palace this morning, the British national cabinet began in earnest this afternoon to discharge its very immediate task of solving the complex problems of dislocated national finance. These problems include reduction of the dole, cuts in pay of officials and government employés, and further increases in taxes.

King George left by special train tonight for Balmoral, Scotland, to resume his vacation. Londoners hailed this as an indication that the king was convinced that the new government will be able to deal quickly and effectively with the crisis.

Prime Minister MacDonald first gathered a full conference of ministers about him, including both the inner circle, which is credited with cabinet rank, and the lesser executives heading smaller departments. This session was followed by a cabinet meeting attended by the political "big ten," at which Mr. MacDonald presided.

Hold Nation's Power.

With him were three others of the late Labor government, four Conservatives, headed by Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister, and two Liberals, the chief of which is Sir Herbert Samuel. Collectively they are holders of almost dictatorial powers in discharging their national obligation.

It became known from the highest source tonight that no opposition to the new cabinet's proposals will be brooked, and that all necessary steps to have the cabinet's proposals made into law will be speedily taken, regardless of criticism from any group.

But if the government is brought as a united body before the British public and the world, which two days ago doubted British solvency, members of this combine have not attempted to deceive themselves. There is ample evidence that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Baldwin drew up this partnership only because they felt compelled to, and that they still are the bitterest of political enemies.

At this afternoon's meeting several committees were appointed to consider the full cabinet's recommendations for reducing expenditure and finding fresh sources of revenue.

Britain Faced Disaster.

It was revealed today that for a time Great Britain teetered on the brink of disaster, facing a financial panic which probably would have equaled or surpassed Germany's past war collapse. Confidence in the pound sterling abroad was shaken and the country was slipping to the brink. Every authority states that the Labor government only realized the extent of the crisis on Saturday when a few hours separated Great Britain from a catastrophic deluge. In the crisis the Liberals attempted in every way possible to keep labor in power to deal with the situation.

As the cabinet settled down to work today two new members of the ministry were added. Sir Archibald Sinclair, former Labor whip and newly appointed secretary of state for Scotland, was sworn into the privy council. Mr. MacDonald hoped to carry Tom Shaw, Labor leader, along into the fusion, but Shaw rebelled and Lord Crewe was appointed to his post in the ministry of war.

Labor Condemns Premier.

The Labor party tonight took definite action in its fight against Mr. MacDonald and his national government. The trades union congress general council, the national executive committee of the Socialist party and the consultative committee of the parliamentary Labor party, meeting in joint session, adopted three resolutions. They are: First, to oppose vigorously the national government in parliament and throughout the country; second, to indorse the action of the ministers who declined to join or support the new ministry; third, to recommend that the parliamentary Socialist party constitute itself the parliamentary opposition.

The resolutions were adopted with loud acclamation after Arthur Henderson, George Lansbury and Herbert Morrison, former ministers, addressed the conference. No personal animosi-

Hunt Marriage Agent, Widow and Children

Messages were sent to the police through the east last night asking that a search be made for Mrs. Ada Eicher, a widow, and her three children, Greta, 14 years old; Harry, 12, and Anabel, 9, who disappeared from their home at 312 Cedar street, Park Ridge, on June 22.

At the same time a search was begun for Cornelius Pierson, also known as Pearson, operator of an alleged matrimonial agency in Fairmont, W. Va., who wooed the widow by letter, and was last seen in the Eicher house shortly after the disappearance of the family.

Arrest Expected Soon.

It is believed that Pierson may be somewhere in West Virginia. Late last night C. A. Duckworth, chief of police of Clarksville, W. Va., wired Police Chief H. W Johnson of Park Ridge that he expected to arrest the man shortly.

Pierson is wanted for questioning. police say. Information in their hands, they state, associate him with the last known movements of the Eicher family. Chief Johnson and Mayor William McKee who are directing the investigation, declined to discuss the importance they attach to his apprehension.

Finds House Stripped.

The West Virginian was last seen in the Eicher home a week ago. At that time Chief Johnson inspected the house. He found, he said, the place stripped, with furniture and personal belongings being packed in the garage in the rear. Pierson, or a man who identified himself as such, produced a letter purporting to be from Mrs. Eicher authorizing him to dispose of her furniture. To this he added: "Mrs. Eicher has gone away. I'm going to marry her."

Having no evidence to place the man in custody Chief Johnson ordered him to report at the station for further interrogation the next day. But Pierson failed to appear. The chief then searched the garage. There he came upon a packet of letters which disclosed an apparent mail romance between Pierson and Mrs. Eicher.

The first letter, dated Jan. 19, 1931, told how the writer had received a description of Mrs. Eicher through the "A. and F. society," a matrimonial agency conducted by Pierson, and described himself as 42 years old and a civil engineer with an income of $400 a month. "But in addition I have a much larger income from oil and gas royalties and other properties, details of which I will give you later," he wrote. "My wife can have anything within reason that money can buy, but above all, I expect to give her that true love and devotion for which we all crave so much."

Writes Fifty-four Letters.

The missive went on to say that the writer was a widower, and concluded with a romantic flourish. On May 25 Pierson wrote that he would be in Park Ridge on June 13 to "arrange our marriage." However, he sent a letter dated June 12 that he would be delayed until June 20. It was two days after his predicted arrival that Mrs. Eicher was last seen.

Between the first letter and the last which was written June 17 Pierson wrote fifty-two notes to the missing widow. Most of them were of an ardent nature and told lavishly the provisions he would make for her. Police observed that he signed his name both as "Pierson" and "Pearson." The last note cautioned Mrs. Eicher that he would arrive at her home at night, and not to advise the neighbors. "Leave all business transactions to me," he ended.

One of the many letters said that Pierson would create a trust fund for Mrs. Eicher of $45,000, the annual income of which was to be for "her own use and not for household expenses."

Letter to Child Is Clew

Investigation among neighbors disclosed that Arnold Graef, 12 years old, 207 North Washington street, Park Ridge, had received a letter early in July from Fairmount, W. Va. It was written supposedly by Greta, a playmate of his. It stated that she, her sister, brother, and mother were in West Virginia, and that her mother was thinking of visiting "the old country." Police last night were seeking specimens of Greta's handwriting to determine if the letter is authentic.

From West Virginia authorities little was learned of Pierson except that the automobile in which he was seen in Park Ridge was reported as stolen.

Rattlesnake in Drawer of Dresser Bites Girl

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Daphne, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mallow, Sherwood, near here, was in a serious condition at her home today as the result of a rattlesnake bite. The reptile had crawled into a garment in a dresser in the girl's home. When she reached in for the dress the snake sank its fangs into her arm.

KIDNAP VICTIM STILL MISSING; CAPONE HUNTED

$50,000 Is Given to Gang, Friends Say.

With the unofficial zero hour for his return past, John J. Lynch, part owner of a racing news bureau, who was kidnaped last Thursday for $250,000 ransom, was still missing early this morning from his home in Lake Geneva, Wis. However, reports were persistently current among his intimate friends last night that he was safe and that a ransom of $50,000 had been paid. Lynch's continued absence and the rumors among his close associates that he was unharmed and that the required $50,000 had been turned over was the latest developments in the mysterious abduction.

AL CAPONE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Early in the evening Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, ordered the arrest of Al Capone on information that the gang boss had acted as negotiator for Lynch in the payment of the ransom.

"Double Cross" Charged.

As a result Capone was accused of being an accessory after the kidnaping. In this connection it was hinted that the gangster had "double crossed" Roche after he had agreed to pay the ransom to the kidnapers at a spot previously revealed to the investigator.

No official word as to the fate of Lynch was received early this morning, but on the west side, where he was a power, friends more than suggested that he was safe. They were certain the "$50,000 ransom" had been paid. They gave no intimation of where he was. It was certain, however, that he was not at home.

Home Under Guard.

Early this morning an investigator calling at the Lynch estate was told that "Lynch had not been returned." Visitors were permitted no closer than two blocks to the home, the only entrances to which are the lake and a private road. From one guard it was learned that Capone had phoned the home yesterday. The boose chief asked that the speaker tell Mrs. Lynch "that her husband would be home tonight."

The message, it was said, served as a stimulant to the shattered nerves of Mrs. Lynch. On Tuesday some one had telephoned her that Lynch would be home that night. When he failed to appear she became almost hysterical. With Capone's call, Mrs. Lynch calmed herself. But at 10 o'clock when her husband was still missing she collapsed again. However, it was pointed out, no hour was set for his return, although friends expected it would not be later than 11 o'clock last night.

Police Hunt Capone.

Roche took sudden action against Capone late in the afternoon. From his hotel in Lake Geneva where he has been staying Roche instructed his detectives to find the gangster. A squad hastened to the Lexington hotel, where Capone maintains an elaborate suite, but failed to find him. They reported that he probably was keeping a rendezvous with the abductors.

Roche then let it be known that he had information that Martin Guilfoyle, northwest side gambling boss and beer dealer, had raised $50,000 with which to buy Lynch's freedom and that Capone had agreed to pay it to the kidnapers.

Hunts Hiding Place.

Roche had been in the Lake Geneva region Tuesday and yesterday seeking clews to the identity of the kidnapers and the place where Lynch was kept prisoner. He believed the hiding place would be somewhere in that vicinity, and for two days he had been scouring that country.

The order to arrest Capone was issued after a conference with Assistant State's Attorney Nat Ruvell, who was in Wisconsin with Roche. They decided Capone could be prosecuted as an accessory if he refused to name the persons to whom he paid the money, although realizing that proving complicity might be difficult. District Attorney Arthur T. Thorson of Walworth county, Wis., in which the kidnaping occurred last Thursday, said he would certainly wish to question Capone, and he discussed with the Chicago officials the possibility of indicting Capone and extraditing him to Wisconsin.

Roche was determined to run down these kidnapers at all costs, he declared. He said he had an idea of their identity and he was bound to put an end to this terrifying business of kidnaping persons for ransom.

"This kidnaping may result in several killings," Roche said. "Lynch has many powerful friends and it is possible that 'hoisting' him may result in a deadly war among gangsters. I want to get these fellows more than any other criminals and I think I will. Perhaps we may be able then to put a stop to the practice. We should make horrible examples of them. The maximum penalty for kidnaping for ransom is death in the electric chair and it should be inflicted on any man who engages in such a nefarious business."

Roche knew for two days that Lynch's friends were appealing to Capone for aid in getting Lynch home safely. He knew of visits to Capone in the Lexington hotel by Guilfoyle and others of Lynch's associates. He said he acted only when he believed Lynch's safety was assured by the turnover of the money given to Capone.

Had he sought to arrest Capone earlier, he explained, the kidnapers might have fulfilled their threat: "We'll kill Lynch if we don't get $250,000." Telephone calls by the kidnapers to Guilfoyle were said to have resulted in the kidnapers acceptance of the offer of $50,000, which Guilfoyle was said to have explained was all the cash Lynch's wife and friends could raise.

Plans to Question Lynch.

Roche said he believed the negotiations might also have involved Lynch's agreement to give up a part of his lucrative business of furnishing race track information to gambling syndicates all over the country. He expects to question Lynch if Lynch should be liberated, and to get to the bottom of any trouble Lynch may have had with racketeers seeking to force themselves onto him as partners.

It was his expectation that—providing Capone handed over $50,000—Lynch would be driven somewhere in the vicinity of Lake Geneva during the night, blindfolded and perhaps in his own automobile, taken by the kidnapers when they forced Lynch off the side of the road three miles south of Lake Geneva. The kidnapers might order him to keep the blindfold on for sufficient time to enable them to escape, Roche reasoned, as it is customary for kidnapers to keep their victim blindfolded throughout the entire time of captivity. Lynch would then be able to drive home, Roche said.

The kidnaping was witnessed by Frank Bordwell of Beaver Dam, Wis., who gave descriptions of two of the men. The descriptions were said to have tallied with the appearances of three men described by an unnamed woman, owner of a summer cottage near Fell Lake, which is 5 miles from Lake Geneva. She told Policeman Frank Cusack of Lake Geneva that three men rented her cottage last Thursday morning.

Describes Mysterious Trio.

One had a scar on his face and wore a brown suit, she said, another was tall and slim and the third was short and swarthy. They paid her $20 for one week's rent and later, when they said two other men were coming to join them, an additional $5 was charged which they paid. They were evasive about the purpose of their visit there, she said, and they didn't fish, swim or go boating.

They had an automobile, the license numbers of which were noted by her as Illinois 1,067,429, for 1931, issued to Edwin C. Johnson, 8358 South Wabash avenue, for a different kind of automobile. A search of the records showed that Johnson had reported the theft of his license plates on July 26 while the car was parked in front of his home.

This fact convinced Roche the kidnapers were Chicagoans. He had a description of the car and also a description of Lynch's car, and until he heard of the Capone payoff he had planned to fly in an airplane over the lake regions of lower Wisconsin and northern Illinois looking for either of those cars, or for possible places of captivity of Lynch. After being told his order to arrest Capone could not be carried out at once he returned to Chicago to direct activities against the kidnapers from this sector.

ROYALTY COSTS $3,525,650 EACH YEAR IN BRITAIN

King to Cut Down Court Expense in Crisis.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—It costs Great Britain about $3,525,650 a year to maintain the royal family, king, queen, prince of Wales, and other members of the crown entourage.

This, however, is less than the sovereign and his family cost in former days, prior to the cession of the crown lands to the state by George III., for these domains now yield the government treasury about $7,000,000 a year.

Salaries and emoluments for the king and his family are voted annually by parliament in what is known as "the civil list," and regardless of the party in power, or the complexion of the extreme left of the house, Socialists or communists, there is rarely ever a word of criticism of these expenditures uttered. Despite the desperate need of economy, which has made itself increasingly evident since the war, remuneration to the monarch and his family is voted automatically and without comment or discussion.

Objects to Increase for Duke.

The last complaint heard on the subject was a remark made by David Kirkwood, representing Glasgow, a left wing Socialist in James Maxton's group, who grumbled over the increase allocated to the duke of York at the time of his marriage.

The duke of York, second son of the king, received a raise from $48,500 to $121,500, in view of his added responsibilities and increased expenses at the time of the wedding, and Mr. Kirkwood, amid ominous silence of his colleagues in the house, proceeded to state that this was exorbitant and unnecessary.

Icy silence, even from Maxton's fragment of thirty Socialist supporters, greeted him as he resumed his seat.

The budget for the royal family is divided into various subheads and categories, in order to disintegrate the rather imposing total into a number of relatively smaller items, although even these headings are all of substantial size.

King's Salary $533,500.

The privy purse, which in simple words means the salary of the king himself, is $533,500 per year. Salaries of the royal household are allocated in a lump sum, totaling $606,250 and out of that sum the royal chamberlain must defray all salaries and wages of the court attachés and employés, the staffs of the various castles and palaces which the king occupies, right down to cooks, chauffeurs, chambermaids, and valets.

Expenses of the royal household is the next item, totaling $606,250, and includes food and general operating costs. "Works" comprising repairs, renovations, new installations and modernization of the old buildings, are covered by a blanket grant of $97,000 a year. Royal bounty, which is the sum provided for the king's bequests to charities, is provided for to the tune of $63,050, and $38,400 is provided for miscellaneous expenditures. Other minor emoluments run the total expense of the king up to $2,276,500.

$276,100 for Wales.

The prince of Wales receives revenues of the duchy of Cornwall as his stipend. This amounts to an average of $276,100 a year and is not deducted from national taxation, being the direct yield from this property.

Upkeep of palaces for the king is not charged against him personally, and amounts to the respectable sum of $421,950 a year.

Regardless of the general trend to the left of all governments, including that of England, there is no movement discernible anywhere in Britain which advocates a change in régime. The last crown to totter and fall, that of Alfonso in Spain, caused not a ripple of reaction here. The persistent attitude of the prince of Wales in refusing to marry has finally become accepted, and the bulk of opinion is reconciled to the next sovereign as a bachelor king, with the succession going on through the duke of York's line.

It is stated that the king has already announced to his prime minister and his intimates that he intends to start immediately on an economy scheme to reduce expenses, in view of the gravity of the economic problem which faces the country. Whether this reduction will be reflected in a return of part of the grant in next year's civil list is not known, but it is believed the monarch will make some concession, in view of the difficulties which the budget is facing for the coming year.

Recall War Economy.

It is recalled that during the wartime food restrictions caused by the German submarine campaign the king restricted himself to the simplest diet, foregoing all banquets and lunching and dining, when alone, on two dishes and a sweet. Only two wines were served at meals, and the simplification of the dietetic problem was carried right through the household and in all departments of the palaces.

Diplomatic circles, as well as London society, are agog over reports that the king will hold no courts or levees next summer. This resulted in a tremendous increase of interest in foreigners and local debutantes being presented this year.

Queen Mary, who also takes the financial affairs of the country extremely seriously, is said to be averse to these court functions with their lavish displays and costly court dresses, and to have agreed completely with the king in the elimination of the functions for 1932.

VANDERBILT HERE TO QUIZ CAPONE, IT IS REPORTED

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., social register newspaper man, who recently achieved notoriety through his "gunning" for Peter Arno, caricaturist, in Reno while awaiting a divorce, arrived in Chicago yesterday. Reports were circulated that he was seeking an interview with Al Capone and planning to confer with dog track owners here with a view to establishing a track at Las Vegas, Nev.

Mr. Vanderbilt refused to discuss the probability of the Capone interview. He said he was not definitely planning to open a dog track at Las Vegas, but might be interested in doing so. He declared he might have an important announcement to make in 24 hours.

Mrs. Mary Weir Vanderbilt obtained a Reno divorce from him Aug. 4 after he announced, through an attorney, he had sought Arno with a gun. He accused Arno of being friendly with Mrs. Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt denied reports he intended to remarry with "That's a lot of hooey. I just got out of domestic difficulties and don't propose to get back into them right away."

PIGEONS USED BY KIDNAPERS OUTRACE PLANE

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The fleet wings of a pair of pigeons which outsped a police plane carried with them today the only tangible evidence of the whereabouts of 16 year old Edgar F. Hazelton Jr.

Police released the pigeons, designated by young Hazelton's abductors as the carriers of the $2,500 they demand for the boy's return, in the hope the birds would lead them to the kidnapers' hideout.

After a short distance the police flyers lost sight of the speeding birds.

Edgar F. Hazelton Sr., a former Municipal court justice of Northport, Long Island, said his son's abduction was a plot by blackmailers who are known to him, and he would ask for indictments in the next session of the Queens grand jury.

TURK "PROPHET" EXECUTES SEVEN; STIRS UP REVOLT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 26.—Sheik Barszan, self-styled prophet, has aroused the hatred of the Moslems in the Mosul region which has resulted in a religious warfare during the last few days. Four women and three school teachers have been executed by orders of the sheik because they did not believe in his mission. Barszan is also attempting to revolutionize the marriage law by placarding the district with posters bearing the words: "Every man or woman who believes in me may take his love affairs freely." The government is taking steps to put an end to Barszan's revolution.

DOLE CUT PLAN UP BEFORE NEW BRITISH CABINET

Labor Forms for Fight Against Coalition.

ties were expressed against MacDonald, but the speeches against his action and against the proposed 10 per cent cut of the dole were particularly militant, especially that of A. Hayday, chairman.

Consider Alternate Plans.

Tomorrow the political and industrial wings of the Labor group will consider proposals as an alternative to the policy of retrenchment. The miners' federation intends to nominate a parliamentary candidate for Seaham Harbor division of Mr. MacDonald's constituency, thus indicating its break with the prime minister is beyond repair. Similarly drastic steps were taken tonight by the executive committee of the Labor party in Hampstead, a suburb of London where Mr. MacDonald has a private residence. The committee adopted a resolution for submission to the general council of the Labor party expelling Mr. MacDonald from the local branch of the party.

With Mr. MacDonald's emphatic denial that the Labor government was forced out through interference by bankers, English or American, still ringing in his ears, Dr. C. Addison, late minister of agriculture, in a strongly worded speech tonight, reiterated the charges and added some of his own.

The speech, first to be delivered by any late Labor minister, was given before the Swindon branch of the party.

Attacks Bankers.

"We were willing to balance the budget and make immense sacrifices, but we refused to have the method dictated from the outside," he declared. "The breakup of the Labor government was clearly a definite objective.

"The industry and security of this country must not be left to the dictation of a great private banking corporation. The pistol put to our heads all the time was not held in the hands of the trade union congress but in the hands of the money market and, according to reports made to us, the demands were very emphatic."

The prime minister appealed to his former associates today in a personal letter dispatched to 280 Labor members of parliament.

Premier's Appeal.

"Think over the situation without prejudice or passion before reaching a decision," he wrote. "If our financial stability would be endangered and a run made on our financial resources the consequences would be too terrible to envisage. This makes temporary retrenchment inevitable and imposes some amount of common sacrifice.

"The crisis was approaching with rapid strides. Latterly it became a question of hours and shelter had to be found immediately."

Gunmen Lock Bank Clerks in Vault and Take $8,000

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Two six foot gunmen today entered a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, locked four clerks and one customer in the vault and obtained all the money in sight—between $8,000 and $9,000. By the time the imprisoned clerks freed themselves, the robbers had vanished.

M'Donald's Battle with Dole May Decide Its Fate Here

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The efforts of Ramsay MacDonald, head of the new British nationalist government to effect economies which will result in balancing the new budget, were watched sympathetically in the capital today. While officials have flatly denied that this government had attempted to force Great Britain to cut the "dole" or had "meddled" in any other way in the British crisis, it is an open secret that administration authorities are vitally interested in the action taken by MacDonald to cut the cost of unemployment insurance and similar government aid.

A sharp reduction in the dole on the part of Great Britain would be regarded by administration forces as the best kind of material with which to frustrate the passage of dole legislation in the approaching congress. From information reaching the White House officials are confident that socialistic legislation providing for some sort of direct federal aid to the unemployed will have strong backing when congress convenes.

No Further Credit Asked.

No new application for additional credits has been received by the New York Federal Reserve bank, according to the information at the treasury today. Although the 250 million dollar credit advanced by the New York Reserve bank and the Bank of France has not been exhausted, it is anticipated it will not last much longer.

An application from Great Britain for new credits either from the federal reserve system or from private bankers in New York is considered a likely development during the next few days.

There was little indication today that the federal reserve system would attempt to place any strings on future credits to Great Britain. All responsible quarters have repeatedly denied that the New York reserve bank had attempted to force the British government to cut the dole as a condition to be met before additional money would go to Britain.

Would Be Private Transaction.

Should additional credits be asked for, the New York reserve bank probably would be first to hear of the transaction. It would notify the federal reserve board. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, himself an ex-officio member of the board, would be notified. He in turn would discuss the matter with President Hoover. Eugene Meyer, governor of the board, also most likely would be called to the White House.

Should the board approve the loan, it would so notify the New York reserve bank. That institution then would decide whether it desired to make the loan as well as how much of its private funds it desired to advance. The other reserve banks also would be permitted to share in the granting of credits. The advance of credits would be purely a private transaction by the reserve banks and no financial liability would fall on the federal government.

MOSCOW URGES REDS IN BRITAIN TO STIR STRIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 26.—The Moscow press, commenting on the new British government, states that Prime Minister MacDonald's compromise with capital gives the British communist party the greatest opportunity to start class warfare in Great Britain.

The Pravda says that the British Reds must do everything possible to gain control of the Labor party.

Moscow officials have prepared fresh instructions for the British communist party, saying that Mr. MacDonald's betrayal of the interests of the workers gives the Reds agitation material of tremendous value, since the British worker must be convinced that he will be the chief sufferer as a result of the economy program.

SWISS AVIATRIX, FORMER ACTRESS, KILLED IN CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 26.—Myriam Stefford, Swiss aviatrix and former movie actress, who had spent some time in the United States, was killed today when a small plane in which she was touring Argentina crashed in the province of San Juan. Her mechanic, Luis Fuchs, and an unidentified passenger, were also killed.

Miss Stefford was formerly the star of a Berlin motion picture company. Fuchs was one of the organizers of the German "Black Air Squadron" in the world war.

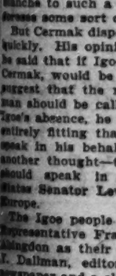
CERMAK AVERTS DISSENSIONS AT PARTY POWWOW

Budding Rivalries Told Wait a While.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Mayor Cermak's first words after arrived in Springfield for Democratic day and state fair put end to all the talk that been going and heavy night before.



THOMAS DONOVAN. (Matsene Photo.)

"This is union of Democratic from all parts Illinois, and not going to mit anything interfere with pleasure of day," said Chicago chie

"We are not here to espouse fallacies or to oppose candidacies. We are here to celebrate our victories, to rejoice at the prospect of more victories to come.

"It is far too early to determine candidates now. The primary eight months away. When the time arrives to select our state ticket, the selecting will be done as it has in the past, in conferences of the leaders of the party from all over the state.

Then Every One Is Agreeable.

This sort of talk, repeated in various but always with the same meaning, as Cermak was interviewed by newspaper men and leaders from various sections, several of whom had candidates of their own, led within an hour to the adoption of a program acceptable to everybody.

The crisis in developments caused by a demand from enthusiastic supporters of Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman and legislative majority leader, that they be allowed place on the afternoon program that one of Igoe's friends could speak in his behalf. The national committeeman is in Europe, but Springfield is flooded with billboards, banners, badges, lithographs, arm bands, automobile stickers bearing the words "Igoe for Governor."

This activity, considered precipitate by many, was said to have been brought about by the belief that having Probate Judge Henry Horner selected as the principal speaker of the day, and agreeing to present him to the crowd, Cermak was putting his own gubernatorial candidate into the field.

Cermak Has No Objections.

For that reason many of the Igoe group insisted that an "Igoe for governor" speech be included in the schedule. State Chairman Thomas Donovan was reluctant to grant carte blanche to such a speaker. He did not desire some sort of a riot developing. But Cermak disposed of the question quickly. His opinion was sought, and he said that if Igoe were on hand Cermak, would be one of the first to suggest that the national committeeman should be called on to speak. Igoe's absence, he said, he thought entirely fitting that some one should speak in his behalf. Then he added another thought—that some one else should speak in behalf of United States Senator Lewis, who also is in Europe.

The Igoe people had selected Representative Frank W. McClure of Abingdon as their spokesman and J. Dallman, editor of a Springfield newspaper and a close friend of Judge Hamilton Lewis, was named to represent the absent senator. Neither of these two orators mentioned personalities—and neither did any other speaker for that matter—but it was believed that Dallman's talk went a long way toward putting over the Igoe candidacy for lieutenant governor with a boom by his friends that began to take strong hold last night.

Igoe Boom Well Defined.

With threatened hostilities thus imposed of, the army of Democrats, totalling 1,600 that Cermak led in Chicago, turned in to enjoy the festivities. Only here and there was there still an undertone of worry about the Igoe situation. This persisted among the best informed when they learned that the Igoe activity here was merely the result of the ardor of a group of his legislative associates. And the full, if somewhat covered, support of another group who would Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.] Mayor Cermak's first words as he arrived in Springfield for Democratic day at the state fair put an end to all the war talk that had been going hot and heavy all the night before.

"This is a reunion of Democratic friends from all parts of Illinois, and we're not going to permit anything to interfere with the pleasure of the day," said the Chicago chief.

Not Every One Is Agreeable.

The sort of talk, repeated in various forms but always with the same meaning, as Cermak was interviewed by newspaper men and leaders from various sections, several of whom had candidates of their own, led within half an hour to the adoption of a program agreeable to everybody.

The crisis in developments was caused by a demand from enthusiastic supporters of Michael L. Igoe, nationalcommitteeman and legislative minority leader, that they be alloted a place on the afternoon program so that one of Igoe's friends could speak in his behalf. The national committeeman is in Europe, but Springfield is flooded with billboards, banners, posters, lithographs, arm bands and automobile stickers bearing the words, "Igoe for Governor."

The activity, considered precipitate by many, was said to have been brought about by the belief that Judge Henry Horner would be the principal speaker of the day, and agreeing to present him to the crowd, Cermak was putting his own gubernatorial candidate into the field.

Cermak Has No Objections.

For that reason many of the Igoe boosters insisted that an "Igoe for Governor" speech be included in the program. State Chairman Thomas F. Donovan was reluctant to grant carte blanche to such a speaker. He could see some sort of a riot developing. But Cermak disposed of the question quickly. His opinion was sought and it was said that if Igoe were on hand he, Cermak, would be one of the first to insist that the national committeeman should be called on to speak. In any event, he said, he thought it only fitting that some one should speak in his behalf. Then he added another thought—that some one also should speak in behalf of United States Senator Lewis, who also is in the field.

The Igoe people had selected State Representative Frank W. McClure of Springfield as their spokesman and V. [illegible], editor of a Springfield newspaper and a close friend of James Hamilton Lewis, was named to represent the absent senator. Neither of the two orators mentioned personal ambition—and neither did any other speaker for that matter—but it was believed that Dallman's talk went a long way toward putting over his candidacy for lieutenant governor, backed by his friends that began to show strong hold last night.

Issue Boom Well Defined.

With threatened hostilities thus disposed of, the army of Democrats, increased 2,000 that Cermak led in from the square, formed in to enjoy themselves. Only here and there was there the semblance of worry about the situation. This persisted among those not informed when they learned that the Igoe activity here was not in the least the result of the ardor of a group of his legislative associates, but rather a move of somewhat covered, support by another group who would not have participated, it is believed, unless they had definite instructions from Igoe himself. This latter group included his brother, James L. Igoe [not Congressman James T. Igoe, who is not a relative], the minority leader's personal secretary from his Chicago office, and a political lieutenant, Milton E. Connelly, secretary of the south park board, of which Igoe is a member.

The worried well informed therefore concluded that Igoe has determined almost beyond reconsideration to make the race and they were almost equally clear in their opinions that when the time arrives for the state conferences of which he spoke, Mayor Cermak will not be for Igoe and may argue firmly for the indorsement of Judge Horner.

Candidacies Are Announced.

There was no indication of this in the brief speech with which he introduced Judge Horner, who, as the principal speaker, had the last place on the program and spoke at some length on the problems of the state and nation. He had been preceded by William H. Dieterich, congressman at large, who at noon announced his candidacy for the nomination for United States senator; State Treasurer Barrett, Wallman, McClure, Scott W. Lucas of Havana, who entered the senatorship race several weeks ago; Bruce Campbell, who has declared for the governorship, and by Cermak, who introduced him.

The jurist opened by outlining the history of the Democratic party in Illinois, setting up in contrast the recent record of Republican administration in Chicago. Turning his attention to the two parties in the national field, he voiced the opposition of Democrats to the "concentration of autocrat power" in Washington, which brought him to the subject of prohibition.

"It was never intended by the fathers," he said, "that those matters which dealt with enterprise and habits and the private life of the citizen should be ruled by federal authority in Washington.

"That is the chief objection to the 18th amendment, an amendment which has done more to defeat the cause of temperance than any one happening in our state or national affairs. Of course, the 18th amendment and the Volstead act cannot really be enforced. The wets are given the liquor and the drys are given the law and they think each other happy by this arrangement.

"Sooner or later the Democratic party throughout the nation, if it be consistent with the principles of state responsibility, must declare for an amendment to or a repeal of this recent addition to our federal constitution so that there shall be restored to each of the respective states its power to determine its own policy toward questions involving the customs of the people such as the liquor question.

States Can Handle Question.

"When the power to control the subject is again in the respective states, those states will be strong enough to control that subject without the necessity of national prohibition with the wreckage of human life and human happiness, and the disrespect for law which the attempted enforcement of the prohibition law has left in its wake."

Other speakers stressed some of these same subjects:

Bruce Campbell: "I pledge myself as a humble member of the party to aid in restoring good understanding, to promote harmony between the two sections of the state [Chicago and downstate]."

VICE LAW SUSPECTS GET FREE RIDE, THEN ORDERED TO WALK ON

Cleveland, O., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A police court lawyer complained to City Manager Daniel E. Morgan today against police taking nine suspected vice law violators for a 20 mile ride out into the county in a patrol wagon and leaving them there on foot instead of holding them for a hearing in police court.

The lawyer, Mrs. Louise Pridgeon, told Morgan the girls were picked up on the streets, held a day, and then taken for the ride.

"Sure, that's right," said Lieut. Joseph Canepa. "It is the way we have been operating for several months. When we pick them up for soliciting we first check to see if they are wanted for anything else. If not, we lead them to a patrol wagon and escort them out of the city and send them on their way with a friendly warning that they are not to become confused and walk the wrong way."

ADVERTISE SALE OF $4,150,000 IN COUNTY BONDS

The county board yesterday advertised $4,150,000 worth of bonds to be awarded the high bidder at the next meeting of the board on Sept. 3. Two issues are involved, the $2,150,000 worth of nurses' home bonds bearing 4 per cent interest, and $2,000,000 in poor relief bonds at a similar rate. The former mature serially 1933-'50, and the latter are due in 1933-'34.

Michael J. O'Connor, assistant controller and secretary of the county board, explained that under the law the poor relief bonds must be sold for an amount which will not bring the interest cost to the county to more than 5 per cent. Because of this fact most of the bids are expected to be uniform on these issues, with the competitive bidding confined to the nurses' home bonds. Separate and combined bids will be considered, O'Connor said, the latter, however, must designate the sum bid on each of the bonds.

200 MORE TAX SUITS ARE FILED BY PROSECUTOR

The state's attorney's office yesterday continued its activity against taxpayers delinquent in their 1929 personal property assessments by filing 200 more suits in the Circuit court. A total of 600 suits has been filed up to now, and Assistant State's Attorney Lee La Rochelle said that approximately 2,000 more would be filed within a few weeks.

Most of the defendants in the suits filed yesterday were business concerns.

George W. Dixon, 1250 Lake Shore drive, president of the Arthur Dixon Transfer company and a Lincoln park commissioner, paid his assessment of $2,516 late Tuesday afternoon, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Dixon was one of those against whom tax suits were filed Monday night.

OLD CITY HALL MEN APPOINTED TO STATE JOBS

Gov. Emmerson Chooses Ward Committeemen.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

EDW. F. MOORE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

From the political standpoint the most interesting of the three was the naming of Edward F. Moore on the west park board. Moore was deputy commissioner of public works under the last city administration and was one of its principal wheel horses. To the same board Gov. Emmerson appointed Waldemar J. Roehler. These two jobs were made available by the ouster of Commissioner James J. Cullen, which had been expected, and the resignation of Commissioner John P. Garner, who has been given a salaried job under the state industrial commission.

Roehler, who is only 29 years old, is a vice president of the Logan Square State and Savings bank. He lives at 2934 Logan boulevard.

Metzger Gets Job.

Another appointment from the ranks of the old city hall organization was that of Andrew C. Metzger, former deputy county commissioner and committeeman from the Eighth ward, to the job of chief grain inspector until now held by George Hitzman of the Thirty-sixth ward, who refused to follow Emmersonian ideas in the Republican primary last spring.

Another ward committeeman to receive an appointment was Charles A. Nowak of the Nineteenth. He was made a member of the state industrial commission and may be elected chairman. Factionally he has been an independent.

The governor also announced the appointment of Clifford G. Roe, Chicago lawyer, as a judge of the Court of Claims to succeed William L. Leach of Dixon. Mr. Roe won fame years ago as a prosecutor of white slave cases.

Mason Boom Started.

Another event on the eve of Republican day, also known as Governor's day, was the launching of a boom for Lowell B. Mason, a former state senator from Oak Park, for attorney general. This occurred at a luncheon at the Lincoln hotel, where the guests included thirteen state senators. They were Senators Cuthbertson, Hanna, Lee, Mills, Smith, Michael, Searcy, Carlson, Bohrer, Wilson, Meents, Thompson, and Lantz.

So far as known this list represents Mr. Mason's full political strength outside of his own district that is, there have been no disclosures that he will have the indorsement of Gov. Emmerson or any of the other big state chiefs. Eden T. Brekk, a member of the west park board, is expected to head a delegation of Mason rooters that will arrive tomorrow. The new candidate is a son of the late William E. Mason, former United States senator, and was once indicted for violation of the prohibition law. He was acquitted and was defeated for the state senate last year.

Huebsch, Barrett Mentioned.

Early gossip about the race for the Republican nomination for attorney general has included mention of the names of State Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, who is a member of the European prison junket commision, and Charles V. Barrett, member of the Cook county board of review. Neither has announced.

Gov. Emmerson's friends here are questioning the wisdom of the announcement in Chicago that 33 ward committeemen have been lined up to come to Springfield for Governor's day. Their doubt is based on the fact that the list consists almost entirely of followers of the old city hall machine.

OPERATORS' UNION PICKET THEATERS IN LABOR DISPUTE

Thomas Maloy, business agent for the local motion picture operators' union, is due to confer in New York today with W. F. Cannavan, president of the International Alliance of Motion Picture Operators, in connection with the union's dispute with 104 independent neighborhood theaters. Meanwhile the union has completed arrangements for picketing and canvassing in the vicinity of these theaters which are running with nonunion operators.

A house to house canvass in which two thousand men and women will take part was started last night. Posters and handbills were distributed asking movie fans not to attend theaters employing nonunion operators. Pickets paced back and forth in front of the theaters. However, Aaron Saperstein, head of the theater owners' association, said the public had shown by its attendance that it was in sympathy with the owners, who rejected the union's demand for the employment of two operators on each shift.

W. A. Jackson, commissioner of gas and electricity, answered charges that the examinations given nonunion operators had been made more difficult than the ordinary examinations. He pointed out that six of every ten men examined were passing the examinations, a normal average.

Official of U. S. Steel Pays Trade Rival Mystery Visit

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Milwaukee. At the Union station he was met by a news photographer, who snapped a picture of him. This attention seemed to try the patience of Mr. Taylor. He expressed surprise that the newspapers had been informed of his trip west. He said emphatically that his trip was a matter of no public interest; that he was going to Milwaukee merely for a friendly visit.

Upon his arrival in Milwaukee last evening Mr. Taylor reiterated this statement. "It is merely a call on a friend whom I have not seen for many years," said he. "Just a friendly visit and nothing else. There's no secret or mystery about it."

Head of Manufacturing Concern.

The friend, it was learned, is L. R. Smith, head of the A. O. Smith corporation, a Milwaukee concern which manufactures pressed steel automobile frames and welded steel pipe. The Smith concern has withstood the business depression better than most of its competitors, including the United States Steel corporation.

Mr. Taylor spent the evening in Milwaukee with Mr. Smith and other officials of the Smith corporation. At Mr. Smith's home the party was reported to have gone to inspect the plant of the corporation, but it could not be learned whether they were there. They were also reported to be in conference at the Wisconsin club, but at the club this was denied.

Report Steel Corporation Hit.

There were rumors in Milwaukee that Mr. Taylor's trip might involve negotiations for a merger of the Smith corporation with the steel corporation. These were denied.

There have been persistent reports for several months that the Smith corporation has cut seriously into the pipe line business of the steel corporation. The Smith concern is reported to have revolutionized the process of making pipe line by a welding process protected by patents which greatly increases speed and lowers the cost of production.

Industrial observers recall that a large percentage of the steel business since the depression began has been the manufacture of steel pipe for the development of natural gas and oil lines. The Smith corporation, which has holdings valued at $10,000,000 in Milwaukee and employs 9,000 workers at peak production, devotes half of its plant to the manufactura of pipe.

A year ago the corporation shipped 712 miles of welded steel pipe in four days. Last February the corporation reported that for the six months ended on Jan. 31 its net profits had increased to $2,868,621, as compared to $2,674,811 for the previous six months.

Since the Smith concern began welding pipe by its new process it is reported competitors have had to remodel their mills to compete with the Smith output. L. R. Smith, the head of the corporation, is noted for his development of machinery to increase the efficiency of the processes of manufacture and for employing scientists to aid his business.

Wife Speaks for Manufacturer.

Mrs. Smith did the talking to the outside world for her husband last night. She said:

"Mr. Smith and Mr. Taylor have been friends for many years and Mr. Taylor always has wanted to get together with him. I may say for my husband that there is no business significance to this visit. As for the pipe welding process, Mr. Taylor is not interested in that. The Smith corporation is not producing anything that has not been known to its competitors for years."

Two Dry Seasons Lower Level of Lake Michigan

The drought of 1930 and a dry summer combined to lower the level of Lake Michigan this year by two feet compared with last year, Horace P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer of the sanitary district, announced yesterday. The present level of Lake Superior is one foot lower than last year, he said. The average level of Lake Michigan during July of this year was 579.2 feet above sea level, as compared with 581.2 feet for July of 1930.

SMILES OF LINDY AND ANNE WIN HEARTS OF TOKIO

Flying Couple Lionized by Japanese.

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—[Thursday.]—Completely winning the Japanese by the charm of their personalities and especially their continuous smiles, which are particularly pleasing to Tokio citizens, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are being lionized here. The flying couple were met with a tumultuous welcome when they arrived here yesterday after a flight from New York.

Thousands have lined the streets since 7 o'clock this morning to see the couple go by on their visit to the Meiji shrine. The Lindberghs awoke at 7:30 and breakfasted alone. They left Dr. R. B. Teuler's home, where they are staying, at 9:30 for the Meiji shrine. From there they will go to the Yasukuni shrine, a memorial to war heroes. They will call on Premier Wakatsuki and other cabinet ministers later.

The arrival of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh crowded out news of the death of former Premier Hamaguchi in last night's papers.

100,000 Join in Welcome.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's journey from New York to the Orient ended in an American home at 7 o'clock tonight when they took over Dr. R. B. Teulers' residence attached to St. Luke's International hospital, which will be their home while in Tokio.

One hour later photographs and interviews were all over, Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes and his staff said good night, and the flying couple were left alone to eat a quiet dinner and enjoy the luxury of sleep. Their temporary home is historic, as it stands on the actual foundation of the first American legation in Japan.

The last part of their journey was like an incredibly picturesque stage scene as they drove along the broad new avenue named after the present emperor, which is the principal feature of the new Tokio. At least 100,000 people were out to welcome them, mostly young and nearly all dressed in white. About 10,000 were mounted on bicycles. The small procession which left the station was quickly separated by the crowds, but universal good humor, assisted by the width of the street, made progress safe though slow.

Ride with U. S. Ambassador.

At the station thousands of youths crowded the approaches and nearly swarmed over the Lindberghs despite the efforts of 150 policemen detailed for station duty. The cars bearing the official party covered the two miles and a half between Uyeno station and St. Luke's hospital in thirty-five minutes, every second of which was panorama. Ambassador Forbes drove with the flyers in an open car and Councillor and Mrs. Neville, Mrs. James Russell, the embassy hostess, followed in the second car.

Efficient arrangements had been made to secure a quiet night for the Lindberghs. They were met by fifty newspaper men in a corner of the garden where a battery of lights had been installed. At the end of the allotted time, all questions having been answered, the Lindberghs shook hands all round, the battery was extinguished and silence settled on the quiet house by the river. Policemen patrolled the grounds all night.

Mrs. Lindbergh Seems Nervous.

Col. Lindbergh looked well. He was sunburned a deep red under the sharp line of his flying cap. Mrs. Lindbergh seemed slightly nervous under the battery of cameras but was soon at home chatting easily.

During the interviews she sat on a Manila chair between Ambassador Forbes and her husband with Mrs. Russell and other embassy women beside her.

"We have no plans," Col. Lindbergh told his interviewers. "We'll go on to China, but I can't say when or where. I don't know if we'll go to Manila. We have been in Tokio only five minutes."

"What was your most dangerous moment?" the flying colonel was asked.

"I would not say we were ever in any danger," he said. "Our worst time was when the anchor rope broke at Ketoi, but the Shinshiru was assisting us. We are under a very great obligation to the captain of that ship."

"What did you think of my country?" asked a Russian correspondent.

"Wonderful. We had a great time at Petropavlovsk. The people did everything for us. We saw a lot that was interesting, especially the experimental farm."

Predicts Pacific Air Route.

"I have no doubt," continued Col. Lindbergh, "there will be air mail over the Pacific. What route it will follow I can't say without more study. Possibly it will go somewhat further south than ours, but not much. As to when, I should say almost any time. It all depends on the demand."

DIES OF WOUNDS

"LION OF JAPAN" DIES; VICTIM OF ASSASSIN'S SHOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—Yuko Hamaguchi, aged 61, former premier of Japan, died this afternoon of complications following three operations for a bullet wound he received by the hand of an assassin last November.

Mr. Hamaguchi, whose shaggy hair, bushy eyes, and stentorian voice won him the name of "Lion of Japan," was a self-made politician. Like his predecessor, Baron Tanaka, who resigned as head of the Seiukai government in June, 1929, Hamaguchi rose from the ranks.

Born on April 3, 1870, in the home of a poor family, he was adopted by the wealthy Hamaguchi family. He was given their name, educated by them, and he later married the eldest daughter of the family. Hamaguchi graduated with honors from Imperial university in Tokio in 1895, and shortly afterward received his first political post, director of the patent bureau of the ministry of finance.

Mr. Hamaguchi became premier on July 2, 1929. He was bitterly assailed throughout his term as head of the government for advocating the acceptance of the London naval treaty.

Wife of Loyson, French Poet, Wins Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Doster Loyson was granted a divorce today from Jean H. Loyson, French poet and grandson of Pere Hyacinthe, ex-communicated rector of Notre Dame cathedral. Mrs. Loyson, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Chase Doster, United States army, retired, was given the custody of her ten months old child after the Nevada courts refused to recognize the divorce decree and custody of the child granted the father by French courts because Mrs. Loyson had not been served with process.

GAS COMPANY CUTS RATE FOR DOMESTIC USE

rate the company plans to market its warm weather surplus at a price which it says will be advantageous to industries able to use large quantities of gas.

Offer Other Sechedules.

Such users, however, will be subject to having their gas supply shut off at short notice when it is needed elsewhere, the company says.

In addition to the house heating and "interruptible" industrial service classifications, the proposed new rate schedule includes five other classes of service, as follows:

Space heating and large volume water heating for office and apartment buildings, applicable particularly to off-peak use from April to October.

Water heating, for off-peak use from May to September.

Industrial, for industries in which the interruptible service would not be practicable.

Space heating, for the present house heating customers who cannot use the new rate.

A world's fair rate. This is designed, according to the company, for corporations not organized for profit who plan to operate exhibits of international scope at the Century of Progress exposition in 1933 and agree not to use any other fuel. The rate under this classification is 6.6 cents a therm.

The gas company is prepared, its officials say, to furnish the commerce commission with full information on costs of production, including that of bringing the natural gas to Chicago.

SHARK AT HAVANA BEACH ATTACKS BATHERS; 1 DIES

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Aug. 26.—For the second time within a week a shark, believed to be the same in both cases, has attacked persons bathing off the rocky coast of the Miramar subdivision, an exclusive residential section of Havana. Pablo Medina, 23, died on the operating table after being badly mutilated yesterday. Laureano Rodriguez lost his right leg to a shark last Sunday.

This stretch of rocky coast is not a public bathing beach but crowds from the poorer sections of the city have been bathing there during the summer.

Several of his swimming companions said Medina was the first to enter the water. Before he had gone 400 feet he was attacked, and when rescuers reached him his right leg was held by the shark, which was attempting to pull him under. After a struggle they were able to release Medina, and started shoreward, but the shark again attacked the youth and, despite efforts of his friends, so badly mutilated him that he died from loss of blood.

End Vengeance in Prison Rule, Judge Sullivan's Plea

The crime problem of Illinois will not be solved until the state transforms its attitude toward prisoners from one of vengeance to one of reformation. This conclusion was drawn by Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, member of the Cook county judicial advisory council, from his month's tour of European prisons with the special prison commission of the legislature. The judge returned to Chicago yesterday in advance of the commission junketers, whom he joined by special invitation.

From the study of English and German prison systems the judge found need for revision of the Illinois system to prevent the breeding of a criminal class. Such reform can reach its ultimate perfection to safeguard society in Illinois only through readjustment of the criminal code so as to achieve a degree of justice impossible under present red tape and legal hair splitting, the judge said.

Subject to Vengeance.

"Under the system of peneology a man found guilty of infraction of law is subject to the vengeance of society," Judge Sullivan said. "He is flung into prison without regard to his associates and with utter disregard to the day he is scheduled to rejoin society, with the result he is more criminally minded on his release than he was on entrance. I do not propose molly coddling prisoners, but I certainly feel efforts should be made to end such a system.

Under English and German prison systems prisoners are carefully segregated, the judge explained. Prisoners are divided into two general classes, those to serve more than nine months and those to serve less than that period. Each of these classes is divided into three general groups, the admission group, an advanced group, and those near discharge.

Promoted for Good Behavior.

Prisoners are promoted from group to group by good behavior. Those in the last group are allowed to go to movies unattended, receive pay for their work, and are permitted to spend the money they earn in leaves to town. Any infraction of rules results in demotion in class. Hardened and dangerous criminals are not permitted to associate with others. Prison government by the election of monitors in Germany and the sporting term "stokes," signifying crew captains, in England bring excellent results.

Guards work with prisoners and carry no weapons. Prison heads are chosen from men studying peneology. Citizens are encouraged to visit prisoners and aid them in the effort to throw aside the blight in their past.

"Behind all this is the thought that the prisoner some day is to return to society," the judge said. "He is constantly educated to assume his rank of full and useful citizenship on that day. The result is that almost 70 per cent of the prisoners return to useful lives, while in our criminal court those sent away a year ago are returning today.

Reformation Spirit Lost.

"We breed a hatred of society and a sense of wrong. After the prisoner is freed only to injure another and another citizen we return him as a habitual criminal. In England and Germany if he be found unfit to return to society he is not returned. Our prisons are nothing more than graduate schools of crime—the spirit of reformation is lost in levying the punishment.

Judge Sullivan described the prisons of France and Holland as too barbarous for consideration here. There prisoners are under strict silence, wear masks, and work in cells. The Joliet penitentiary, without the strict rules, was modeled after a Holland prison.

The judge found probation and parole systems of England and Germany superior to those of Illinois. Probation is granted with justice in more cases, and parole is made a full time job with a mass of accurate information in the hands of parole committees, he said. In Illinois the parole board is a part time job, the board often hearing more than a hundred requests at a sitting.

Finds Speedy Punishment.

In both England and Germany the judge found speedy and certain punishment to be emphasized more than the length of punishment. Criminologists there have found the combination to be a greater crime deterrent than severity, he said.

"We in America began with the same code of law which England had, but in the development of our country we neglected to develop our laws to conditions as England did," said Judge Sullivan. "By comparison I was astounded at conditions we have allowed to remain."

"I was further astounded by the system of handling a person arrested in England. A prisoner is told where he might get bail, offered use of the phone, and told he may consult the police sergeant at any time. He is placed in a model cell. His rights as an English citizen are preserved. He may be asked only certain questions. If he objects to having his finger prints taken, they are not taken until a court order is secured. Evidence is presented against him in keeping with his rights by policemen trained in presentation of cases."

The judge returned with a suggestion to limit gangster guns. He urged licensing of all weapons—such licensing to include a ballistic test of every gun so police could immediately determine what gun fired a death shot.

VACATIONIST FINDS HOME LOOTED.

Mansford Arnold, 7531 Phillips avenue, a department manager of the Quaker Oats company, 141 West Jackson boulevard, returned home yesterday with his family from a vacation in California and discovered that his apartment had been robbed of jewelry valued at $410.

A condensed statement of the condition of the Bain banks in the year prior to their closing on June 9 was procured yesterday from the state auditor's semi-annual report on state banks. The report shows that on closing day the real estate loans were 105 per cent of the time deposits, whereas Auditor Nelson had instructed bankers to keep such loans at or below 50 per cent of time deposits. The statement, covering all the twelve Bain banks, was:

John Evans, 21 years old, a cartoonist employed by the Peoria Star, who has been missing from Peoria since Aug. 11, may be an amnesia victim, his mother, Mrs. Ralph P. GIANT ELEPHANT IS SLAIN WHEN HE GOES BERSERK

Peru, Ind., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Snyder, four and one half ton 30 year old elephant, the largest of any owned by the three circuses with winter headquarters here, was shot to death today when he became enraged and threatened to break loose from heavy chains.

One bullet from a high powered rifle killed the animal instantly.

Snyder went berserk after being brought back to the winter quarters of Sells-Floto and during the last month none of the employés had ventured within striking distance of him.

'ROBBED OF LOVE,' CHICAGOAN'S WIFE TRIES TO END LIFE

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A suicide attempt made by Mrs. Grace Norris Mason, 23, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Norris, a debutante of three years ago, today was revealed by police.

Unhappiness over a reported estrangement from her husband, Edward G. Mason of Chicago, whom she married last year while he was an ensign on the Maryland, was advanced as a reason for her action. Her husband, a Yale graduate, is a son of the late Edward G. Mason, a Chicago utility magnate.

She was taken to Hahnemann hospital yesterday after she is said to have taken poison. She begged hospital authorities to let her die.

After she had been revived Mrs. Mason was arraigned before Magistrate Carney, to whom she remarked:

"What's the use of living when you're in love and can't have the one you love?"

She was released in care of an unidentified friend. At the hospital, which Dr. Norris, her father, conducts, it was said that Dr. Norris, himself a socially prominent clubman, is seriously ill.

LEA MAKES FINAL EFFORT TO SAVE SON FROM PRISON

Asks to Assume Fine and Sentence in Bank Case.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—A vain effort by Col. Luke Lea to save his son from the stigma of a felony conviction today marked the closing scenes of the $1,100,000 Central Bank and Trust company fraud conspiracy case here.

After the Tennessee publisher, his 23 year old son, Luke Jr., and Wallace B. Davis, president of the defunct bank, had posted bonds pending their appeal from the sentences imposed on them yesterday, the senior Lea made his appeal to Judge M. V. Barnhill.

Lea was sentenced to serve six to ten years in state prison, and Davis was given 4 to 6 years, upon their conviction on two counts of conspiracy to defraud and one count of actually defrauding the bank of more than $1,000,000.

Sentence Changed.

Young Lea was directed to pay $25,000 in fines and costs by Judge Barnhill, but the latter today changed the sentence, making it provide a prison term of two to six years, to be suspended upon payment of the $25,000. By this provision, he said, the necessity for young Lea posting a surety bond to cover the amount of the fine in addition to the appeal bond was eliminated.

Col. Lea, former United States senator and commander of an artillery regiment in the world war, arranged bond of $30,000. Young Lea gave bond of $20,000 and Davis $10,000. Judge Barnhill allowed ninety days for perfection of their appeals, which would be reached by the Supreme court in regular order early in December.

Takes Full Responsibility.

Assuming full responsibility for the Tennessee end of the various transactions, Col. Lea asked Judge Barnhill to set aside the jury's verdict applying to young Lea, offering to accept two additional years on his own sentence and to pay the $25,000 in order to remove the stigma of a felony conviction from his son.

"Luke Lea Jr., worked under my instructions and he should not be held criminally liable," said the father.

"I am willing to assume the fine and the additional sentence if only this verdict can be set aside as to my boy. I don't admit that I have done any wrong, but I do insist that these transactions were my own, not my son's. I believe the Supreme court will uphold our contentions."

NEW CRUISER TO BE SENT TO SEA TO HUNT A STORM

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The navy soon will send one of its ships out to sea "to look for a storm."

Heavy weather is needed to test experimental anti-rolling tanks installed aboard the Pensacola, one of the eight new cruisers which were found to roll sharply in a blow.

Since the alterations were completed a month ago the Pensacola, now at Newport, R. I., has encountered nothing but calm seas.

Admiral W. R. Sexton, acting chief of the naval operations, said today the cruiser would be ordered to sea "to try to find some weather this side of Europe."

Pedestrians Flee Gun Battle in Wacker Drive

The policeman sought to question them when he noticed that their car bore no vehicle license tag. The hoodlums sped away firing on Policeman Miller, who was joined in the battle by Policeman T. J. Berquist. The car disappeared west in Madison street. None was injured.

INDIAN WANTED FOR STRANGLING WOMAN CAUGHT

BLACKIE FAUST.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Lester Faust, alias "Blackie" Miller, a half breed Indian, sought for the murder of Mrs. Ann Patterson, 32 years old, who was found strangled to death on a lonely road near Silver Lake, Wis., on Aug. 20, was captured in Indianapolis today.

Lester, an ex-convict and former Chicago waiter, was apprehended when he appeared with parole papers in his hand asking for money from residents in the uptown district of Indianapolis. He admitted his identity when taken into custody and waived extradition proceedings.

Husband Gives First Clew.

A warrant was issued last week for the arrest of a man known only as "Blackie," on information given police by the slain woman's husband, Frank, and Mrs. Alma Leadbetter, 24, and N. B. Nelson, 53, all of Chicago. Mrs. Leadbetter and Nelson were charged with being accessories to Mrs. Patterson's murder when her husband told police that his wife had been in their company on the night of her death.

According to Nelson, a contractor, he and Mrs. Leadbetter and a man known as "Blackie" and Mrs. Patterson went swimming in a lake near Antioch on Aug. 20. All had been drinking, he said. After coming out of the water "Blackie" attempted to attack Mrs. Patterson, according to Nelson's story, and, when she resisted him, beat and choked her into unconsciousness. Nelson and his companion admitted to police that they did nothing to aid Mrs. Patterson. When they discovered that she was dead they decided to leave her body in a lonely road, Nelson said.

Throw Body from Auto.

After driving about, the body was finally thrown out of the car at the intersection of Wisconsin route No. 59 and the Soo Line tracks, northwest of Silver Lake, and all three returned to their homes. Nelson, when asked why he had not come forward to aid police in the capture of "Blackie," said that he was afraid that he would get in a "jam" and his family would hear about the affair.

First identification of Mrs. Patterson was made by Robert Deschneau, finger print expert of the Kenosha police department. She had been arrested in 1926 with her husband and four other persons in connection with a burglary near Twin Lakes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Foreign born whites in the United States on April 1, 1930, numbered 13,366,407 or 10.9 per cent of the entire population of the country, according to figures issued today by the census bureau.

Over fifty-eight per cent of this total, however, it was pointed out by the bureau, are naturalized citizens of the United States. They numbered 7,859,192. First papers toward naturalization has been taken out by 1,246,621 persons, or 9.3 per cent of the total foreign born. Aliens numbered 3,787,086, or 28.3 per cent of the total, while the status as to citizenship of 473,607 or 3.5 per cent, was not reported.

An increase of 111,013 in the number of foreign born whites was reported during the ten year period since 1920.

In 1920 "Mexicans" were included in the total of foreign born whites while in 1930 they were given a separate classification and not included in the total. The increase was registered after 450,000 "Mexicans" had been deducted from the 1920 total.

Four-fifths of the foreign born white population is located in city areas, the bureau revealed. According to the figures, 10,726,859 are in cities, while 1,084,087 are living on farms and 1,555,461 are in rural areas but not on farms.

Of the total number of foreign born whites in 1930, 7,153,709 were male and 6,212,698 were female, the bureau's figures showed.

Illinois, with a total of 1,218,158, had the third largest number of foreign born whites among the states, being led only by New York and Pennsylvania.

NAVY MAY ACT IN FALL DEATH OF YOUNG BRIDE

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Possible court martial action against naval officers concerned in a hotel drinking party which ended in the death of Mrs. Daisy Price, hinges upon action of a board of inquiry, which convened today aboard the airplane carrier Lexington.

Mrs. Price, wife of Lieutenant Commander George D. Price, attached to the Lexington, fell to her death Sunday night from a window of her hotel apartment. Commander Price, at an inquest, testified he believed his wife died while retreating from a man. Whether she jumped or fell has not been determined.

Several civilians and navy officers and their wives who figured in the party were interrogated at the navy hearing, which was secret. Burton Templeton, guest at the hotel, who saw Mrs. Price, clad in pajamas, plunge through a fourth floor window, followed, he said, by a chair and a bottle, also was called.

HIT BY BALL BAT; DIES.

INQUEST TODAY INTO KILLING OF CRAZED VETERAN

An inquest will be held today into the death of Howard B. Young, 36 years old, of Fairview, who was shot and killed by Policeman Fred Kordes early yesterday after a wild pursuit in the northwest side, during which Young drove his car through a crowd waiting for a street car at Imlay and Milwaukee avenues. His mother, Mrs. Maud Young, said her son, a war veteran, had been acting queerly of late. Chief of Police R. H. Gohrsch of Franklin Park, a friend of the family, substantiated her story.

The pursuit of Young was begun by Motorcycle Policeman Frank Stamkowicz of Niles, who picked up Young's trail outside the city limits as he was speeding toward Chicago. The chase continued into Chicago. At Imlay avenue a crowd awaiting a street car was scattered as Young drove amidst them. Policeman Kordes leaped behind Stamkowicz on the motorcycle.

At Dawson avenue Young was forced to the curb. He leaped out of the car swinging a hatchet in a maniacal fury, witnesses said. Stamkowicz retreated and Young turned on Policeman Kordes. Kordes drew his revolver and shot Young through the heart.

DETROIT TO VOTE ON CITY MANAGER PROPOSAL OCT. 6

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Creation of the city manager form of government for Detroit will be submitted to referendum at the municipal primary Oct. 6 by action of the city council last night, approving one and denying three special propositions urged for the primary ballot.

The council refused to submit proposals for abolition of the rapid transit and city plan commissions and for creation of a four man police commission.

Submission of the city manager plan was approved in spite of arguments by opponents that serious technical problems would be created by such a move with little more than a month's notice.

Under the plan tentatively approved last night, voters will ballot Oct. 6, both on the establishment of the city manager form of government and on nominations of 15 members of a charter amendment commission, existence of which will depend upon a favorable vote on the referendum. Aspirants for memberships on the commission must file by Sept. 5.

INGLORIOUS END FACES WARTIME MYSTERY CRAFT

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 26.—(AP)—A ship without a country, the old steamer Chihuahua, was sailing from San Francisco bay in tow of a tugboat today, bound for an inglorious end as a tuna fishing barge off the coast of Mexico. It carried no flag.

During the world war the vessel was one of England's mystery ships. Camouflaged as a slow moving tramp steamer, it was capable of speeds in excess of twenty-seven knots and carried heavy, long range guns concealed behind canvas screens.

After the war it was turned over to the Mexican States line for the coastal freight trade, but it had been laid up here since 1926.

So skinny, dragged out
she thought she never could gain!

Then in 3 weeks added 12 pounds—went back to work brimful of pep

ONE prescription after another—yet still she felt exhausted—still she lost weight. Got so she was afraid to look in the mirror—horrified at her drawn face, her scrawny shoulders. Broken in spirit, about to give up hope and then . . . a discovery!

Just three weeks after that lucky day she was in radiant health—according to the following letter from Miss Scott: "I was ill for months. I tried almost every kind of medicine but still I had that tired, worn-out feeling, discouraged and blue. I am 5 feet tall. My weight was 86 pounds. I had lost flesh until I was at the point of giving up all hope.

"Then I saw Ironized Yeast advertised. I took it for 3 weeks. I began to want to eat. I felt so good I started back to work.

"I now weigh 98 pounds. Friends ask me the secret of my smooth skin. That tired, weary feeling is gone. My headaches have begun to disappear and I do not have that feeling of being no use to anyone." Margaret Scott, 9014 Montgall Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Disappointed time and again. Yet she had the courage to keep on trying. Do you, who read this message, doubt that you can put on weight? Then think of Miss Scott. Not only did she quickly gain a lovely figure—but glorious relief from headaches, skin troubles, low vitality. How grateful she must be to Ironized Yeast!

Acts Two Ways

Not just a weight-builder—Ironized Yeast is a health-builder, too! It completely revitalizes the system at the same time it adds firm, attractive flesh. That's because it contains both choice, super-nourishing yeast and selected, blood-enrichening iron.

The yeast is imported "beer yeast"—concentrated to seven times the health value of ordinary yeast. The iron is a "balance" of three distinct kinds of easily assimilated organic iron. No wonder doctors praise these pleasant, easy-to-take tablets!

GUARANTEED! If, after a generous trial, Ironized Yeast doesn't do for you what it has done for others, your money will be promptly refunded. AVOID IMITATIONS! Make sure you get what you ask for—genuine Ironized Yeast. Look for the "I. Y." on each tablet. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TAX ON INCOME BEFORE REVENUE GROUP TONIGHT

Subcommittee to Make Its Recommendation.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The governor's revenue commission probably be called upon to discuss a state income tax at its secret session in the Union league club tonight. The subcommittee on permanent relief is scheduled to make its report.

This committee is composed of Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association; George F. Nixon of the real estate firm bearing his name, and Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. The two, Smith and Nixon, were generally known to be advocates of an income tax before they became members of the subcommittee. The subcommittee conferred at length yesterday afternoon and will resume its discussion this morning in the hope of reaching the trend of its report agreed upon before noon.

Plan Is Still Uncertain.

Just what sort of an income tax the plan will turn out is uncertain, and there is said considerable doubt of whether the commission will do with it even if it gets it.

The commission started out to curb waste and extravagance in public expenditures, as Gov. Emmerson had recommended, as an effective means of straightening out the revenue conditions of the local governments.

That policy was followed until the tax experts were requested to appear before the commission. Chairman Albert E. Brittain was chief interrogator that evening and he did not ask many prying questions. No representative of the west park system appeared at the meeting, and none has been called in since. The commission has not been so vigorous with its questions in the two open meetings since, and it may be that its policy has been changed without announcement.

Tax to Be Recommended.

In any case, the subcommittee on permanent relief is expected to recommend an income tax this morning. The well known advocates on the subcommittee are said to differ in the method to be used to substitute the new taxes for the present general property taxes.

When the income tax proposal was before the last session of the legislature with the alleged backing of the governor and the agricultural associations, its opponents claimed it was just another tax. They claimed it was another means of increasing the tax burden on the public. It was their contention that an income tax could not be legally substituted for real estate taxes without an amendment to the state constitution.

Such a plan is said to have been worked out by which a tax can be constitutionally substituted for general property taxes, but the alleged method of doing it is being withheld. It is reported, however, that Mr. Smith has suggested that the income from such a tax be levied by the state for school purposes only and then distributed by the state according to the needs of school districts. The principle behind the state return taxes to cities and other communities is part of the law in New York, Massachusetts, North Carolina, and other states. Dr. Mann wants the income tax distributed directly for real estate taxes, which he has asserted are so high they are preventing a return to normal business conditions.

GANDHI DECIDES TO GO TO LONDON FOR CONFERENCE

Compromise Reached with Viceroy.

SIMLA, India, Aug. 26.—(AP)—After months of indecision and "heart-searching," Mahatma Gandhi announced today his "inner voice" has told him it would be to India's interest for him to go to London to attend the second round table conference. A week ago he had announced that "God told him to stay in India."

At the end of almost three hours' conversation with Viceroy Lord Willingdon, who left a sickbed to see him, the mahatma agreed to coöperate with the round table conferees in bringing India a step nearer her long cherished goal of independence.

To Arbitrate Dispute.

His decision was based on an attitude of "mutual accommodation and compromise." The Nationalist leader agreed to drop his demand for the appointment of an arbitration board to determine whether there have been breaches of the Delhi armistice, and the viceroy consented to institute an inquiry into the alleged excesses of tax collectors in the Bardoli district.

Thus, after nearly twenty years' absence from England, Gandhi will set sail Saturday for London, with Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya and Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, also delegates, and will reach his destination Sept. 9.

It is presumed here the British government will postpone the meeting of the federal structures committee, set for Sept. 5, for a week or a fortnight to enable Gandhi to participate.

Technicality Halts Trip.

Gandhi was prepared to leave for Bombay tonight, but at the last minute the government discovered some hitch in the phraseology of the joint statement to be issued by him and the viceroy. This made it necessary that he stay over another day, allowing him just enough time to catch his steamer at Bombay Saturday morning.

The mystical leader's decision to present the case of India's masses at the round table conference caused intense relief throughout India. The lessening of tension was immediately reflected in the stock market, which, in expectation that India would be spared another disastrous civil disobedience movement, at least until the end of the conference, bounded up several points.

AMERICAN GIRL JOINS GANDHI'S CULT IN INDIA

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Forswearing the pleasures of the world, Miss Nilla Cram Cook, daughter of the late George Cram Cook, American poet and playwright, has joined Mahatma Gandhi's movement for the liberation of India.

She is the first American to be admitted to the "ashram" or model colony conducted by India's holy man on the banks of the sacred Sbarmati river. She arrived here recently from Greece, where she played prominent parts in the Delphic festival and where her father died among the shepherds of Mount Parnassus.

For two years Miss Cook, who is 21, has lived in a convent to prepare herself for the life of asceticism, sacrifice and service which she will lead as a member of Gandhi's sisterhood.

Mrs. Louise Gillarde Leach, 6123 North Francisco avenue, who became the bride of F. N. [Lefty] Leach, Northwestern university quarter back in an elopement to Waukegan on Monday night, was taken to northern Wisconsin by her mother yesterday. Reports that the bride's mother, Mrs. Lorenzo Pat Gillarde, was displeased with the marriage and had taken her daughter away because of that, were denied last night by John Gillarde, brother of the bride, who said she had been taken there because of hay fever. He said there was no trouble over the marriage. Leach, whose home is at Gainesville, Tex., is a junior at Northwestern.

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS HEARING BY GOVERNOR'S BODY

Wants Place on Special Session Call.

The Chicago school board yesterday moved to seek an immediate conference with Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission so that the problems of the schools may be put on the call for a special session of the legislature The resolution was introduced by Trustee Joseph P. Savage, who recently characterized the commission as a "burlesque." Seven members of the board who were present voted for the resolution. Trustees English, Hemingway, Caldwell and Carr were absent.

Later in the session a chorus of "boos" from more than 300 teachers present greeted Trustee William D. McJunkin's suggestion that among other retrenchments the board should slash 5 per cent from the salaries of all school board employés. Resolutions introduced by Miss Margaret Haley of the Chicago Federation of Teachers regarding payment of wages in cash were ignored by the trustees.

Savage Introduces Resolution.

Introducing his resolution, Trustee Savage said he was informed that there would be a special session of the legislature and he urged that there be no delay in seeking a hearing before the governor's commission. Otherwise, he said, he feared that the session might be called and the problems of the school board left out of consideration.

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, another trustee, agreed to the proposal after she had been assured that the board would not go before the commission without a definite program. Letters were ordered written to the commission and to each of its members asking a hearing before the entire body.

School Board Criticized.

The conduct of school affairs has been sharply criticized by the governor's commission. The increases in certain school costs have been so great that members of the commission have characterized them as "a fraud upon the public and a cheating of the taxpayers." In the case of one building, the Parker Junior High school, which cost $2,286,313, the commission produced evidence to show that there had been an excess profit of $500,000.

At one hearing Samuel Insull, a member of the commission, told Ernest Withall, business manager of the school board, that his explanations would not be accepted by the responsible head of any large business.

In reply to these criticisms Trustee Savage has been outspoken. "We have been called extravagant and inefficient by critics who have been given misinformation," he told the board at one meeting.

Asks 5 Per Cent Wage Cut.

In addition to the 5 per cent wage cut, the resolution of Trustee McJunkin would abolish adult lectures, Americanization, dental instruction, and automatic increases in teachers' salaries until the end of 1932. With other economies he estimated a saving of $5,389,125 could be effected by his plan in that period. At President Lewis E. Myers' suggestion the resolution was withdrawn and copies were ordered placed in the hands of board members for further consideration.

Bids to supply the school board with approximately $1,000,000 worth of coal were referred to the committee on purchases, which will consider them at a meeting on Sept. 2.

STRIKERS BLAME CITY POLICY FOR WORK SHORTAGE

Teamsters Attack Hiring of Private Trucks.

Charges that the strike of teamsters and helpers, which yesterday tied up the city's garbage collections and street cleaning activities, could have been avoided had the city been willing to substitute idle city trucks for those of private owners which it is hiring at $27.50 a day, were made by Fred Sass, secretary of the teamster's union.

FRED SASS.

The union men, who are working only four days a week under Mayor Cermak's retrenchment plan, walked out in an effort to enforce their demand for a minimum of five days' work a week. The strike followed the failure of four weeks' negotiations by Sass and John Sutherland, president of the union, with Mayor Cermak and Commissioner of Public Works Sprague.

Urge Use of City Trucks.

"The mayor and Col. Sprague told us that if our men worked five days a week, the appropriation for their work would be exhausted before the end of the year," Sass said. "We told them how they could stretch the appropriation to last out the year if they would use the sixteen city trucks which are now lying idle, and lay off some of the private trucks which the city is hiring.

"It is general knowledge that the hiring of those private trucks is a matter of important political patronage.

"Nearly every alderman has been allowed to name a contractor who furnishes one or more trucks to the city in his ward. It costs from $1.20 to $1.58 a cubic yard to haul garbage and refuse in these private trucks, depending on the distance it has to be hauled. Under similar conditions the hauling can be done in city trucks for from 68 to 93 cents a yard.

"The saving made by putting to work the sixteen trucks and sixty trailers now lying idle in city yards and laying off a larger number of private trucks would have been sufficient to give our men a five day week, we contended. But the administration refused to consider any suggestion which disturbed patronage like that."

Manned by Union Members.

Both city and private trucks are manned by members of the Sanitary Teamsters' and Helpers' union, Sass pointed out. At present, he said, the city is operating 113 of its own trucks and 79 private trucks. At this time last year, he asserted, the city found use for only 62 private trucks.

More than 600 members of the union either walked out yesterday or will fail to appear for work today, Sass said. Many of these men had their midweek layoff yesterday.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The DO-X, largest heavier than air liner in the world, rode at anchor in Hampton Roads tonight a short distance from the naval air station, her tanks filled with fuel for the hop to New York tomorrow in completion of a four continent flight begun more than a year ago.

Capt. Frits W. Hammer, in command of the great flying boat, and officers and crew of the German craft, were guests of honor at a dinner given by the city.

The flight to New York will start at 7 o'clock, eastern standard time, and Capt. Hammer expects to be over the metropolis by 11:30.

The great flying ship came up the coast from Charleston this morning at a speed of about 100 miles an hour, most of the time at little more than 50 feet from the sea. Passengers described the trip as delightful.

GROUP TO FIGHT U. S. COMPETITION IN 80 BUSINESSES

National Organization to Be Incorporated.

A group of business leaders will make application today at Springfield for a charter to incorporate an organization which will combat the encroachment of the federal government into competition with private enterprise. It was learned yesterday that 70 men representing 24 industries gathered Wednesday evening at the Union League club and elected a temporary board of directors for the organization. It is to be known as the Federated American Business Men. Charles H. Wilson, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, presided.

Bernard W. Snow, crop expert and Republican political leader who was elected president of the board of directors yesterday that the organization is a nonpartisan organization which will endeavor by means of the ballot box to bring about the elimination of the farm board and 75 governmental agencies which are using taxpayers' money to compete with taxpayers' business.

Seek Action in Congress

Mr. Snow said that inasmuch as congress has the power to order the boards to wind up their business and dissolve, the federation will aim to organize the voters in an effort to have senators and representatives who will favor the abolition of all governmental agencies which encroach upon private enterprise.

The new organization will be national in character and is already organized along in the process of formation in twelve states, according to Mr. Snow. The states besides Illinois in which the movement has been started are Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Mr. Snow said.

Besides Wilson and Snow, the directors are James E. Bennett, J. E. Bennett & Co., William T. Gray of the Middle West Utilities company; Harry B. Godfrey of H. M. Frazier company, Edward J. Kelly, National Syndicate Service; Joseph Coughlin, president of the Hide association; J. A. O. Preus, president of W. A. Alexander company; Ernest T. Mansfield, grain merchant; Frank Staff, Federal Public Service corporation; Mark W. Pickell, publisher of the La Salle Street Herald, and Harrison F. Jones, executive secretary of the National Butter, Eggs, and Poultry association.

Battle Against Socialism

The federation outlined its purposes and the methods which it intends to pursue in a statement.

"The filing of an application for a charter is the first public action in a movement which has been under way for months," says the statement. "Its purpose is to put an end to the undermining of the principles of government by the encroachment of socialism and communism.

"The form taken by communistic encroachment is the putting of government into competition with private initiative in scores of different industries. This form of competition with private business, backed as it is by taxes collected from private business and individuals interested in private business, is completely in conflict with the fundamental principles of our government system.

"Such competition not only threatens the security and the property rights of those who are engaged in the private business that is invaded, but it has created fear in the minds of all other classes of business because of the certainty of continued extension of such unfair competition.

All Security Holders Affected

"The Federation of American Business Men includes not only those active either in labor or in management in industry, but it includes the millions who are interested as security holders and silent partners in the great structure of American industry. It includes the millions of savings bank depositors and of owners

Seddon Wilson and Snow, the other directors are James E. Bennett of J. E. Bennett & Co., William T. Gallogly of the Middle West Utilities company; Harry B. It includes the millions of savings' bank depositors and of owners of insurance policies, the safety of whose accumulations rests entirely upon the safety and success of the industries.

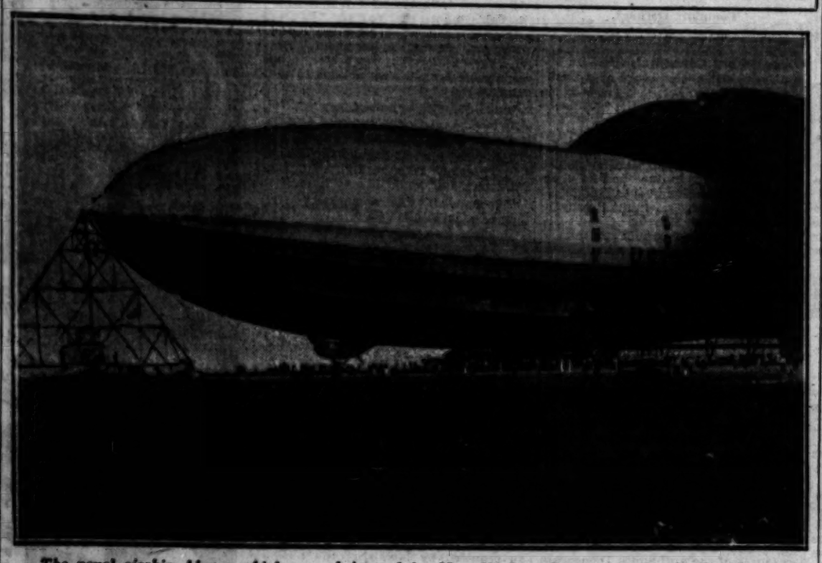
"This organization proposes to crystallize and organize public sentiment, not only against further government encroachment in business, but it proposes to force the government out of the business and industries which it has invaded. It recognizes it as the right of government to regulate the conduct of commerce and business to the extent necessary to insure the security of citizens, but it denounces government competition with its citizens as subversive of the liberty and welfare of its people."

LARGEST DIRIGIBLE TAKES AIR FOR FIRST TIME



The naval airship Akron, which was christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, earlier in the the month, emerging from its hangar in Ohio city for which it is named. A mooring mast was used to bring it forth. [Acme Photo.]

Gets Sun Bath

Akron, O., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The silvery hull of the Akron, the navy's new queen of the air, got her baptism of sunlight today as the ship was walked out of her dock for the first time.

In a practice drill so that there will be no accidents when the new air giant is launched for her maiden flight, 350 men slipped her stern out from the hangar and later nosed her out the other end the same distance.

As soon as the maneuver was completed, engineers resumed their construction tests. The launching of the Akron is not to be made before Sept. 5, according to officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, builders.

The 785 foot craft was pushed by the motors of the ship's mobile mooring mast. Along the ship were stationed crews of 15 and 20 men, part of them on 10 ton handling cars at either side of the Akron, others at a one ton "tail drag" to offset the helium buoyancy of the ship, and others at the handling rail of the auxiliary cabin astern.

Berwyn Chief of Police Denies Beating Motorist

Police Chief Thomas C. Bartunek of Berwyn, put on the witness stand before Magistrate John H. Erhardt yesterday, denied that he had slugged Michael M. Brooks, former president of the Cicero Board of education, while Brooks was in jail charged with driving without lights and with disorderly conduct. The testimony was given in the trial of Brooks, which was continued until Monday. State's Attorney Swanson is investigating Brooks' charges against the village chief of police.

KANSAS ORDERS 50 BARREL OIL WELLS CLOSED

May Permit $1 Sales Ratably.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Interest of midcontinent oil men was divided today between an effort of the state railroad commission to conquer the unruly east Texas field and tightening of a clamp on production in Kansas.

With crude oil and gasoline prices rising as a result of a three state shutdown, the Kansas public service commission ordered the withdrawal today of an exemption for twenty-seven "chat" wells in the rich Ritz-Canton pool of McPherson county, which was closed Monday.

The commission thus rescinded an announcement that the "chat" wells in accordance with an exception made for those bearing water would be permitted to produce 50 barrels daily.

May Take Out Ratably

It reiterated, however, that it had under consideration a proposed order to permit purchasers meeting the top price of $1 a barrel for crued oil posted by the Phillips Petroleum company to buy and take oil ratably from the Ritz-Canton pool and perhaps from the Raymond pool of Rice county, closed more than a year ago.

The Texas commission, at a hearing here, considered questions of physical waste in the east Texas field which was closed under martial law soon after Gov. W. H. Murray ordered out national guardsmen to halt production in Oklahoma in an effort to increase prices to a minimum of $1 a barrel.

New Order Sept. 1.

C. V. Terrell, chairman, said a new regulatory order would be made effective Sept. 1. The commissioner's last order, setting the field's production at 270,000 barrels daily, was openly disregarded and in several instances was blocked by court injunction.

Conservative estimates gave production in the field at 750,000 barrels daily a few days before the martial law shutdown.

THEY TAKE VIC'S MONEY, PICTURE, PEACE OF MIND

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Victor Hoover last night appealed to police against a blackmailing photographer-holdup man. Victor and his best girl rode out to "lovers' lane" last night, picked a secluded spot and prepared to spend the evening admiring the moon in the deep silence.

They were whispering of this and that and pitying the rest of the world for not being so happily situated as they were when two men rushed out of the cornfield.

There was the flare of a flash light and the click of a camera shutter. The bandits took what money Hoover had and warned him they had got a good exposure. The pose, they added, was fine. The film, they said, would be developed and posted on Warsaw's most prominent corner unless Mr. Hoover came back soon with much cash.

GOV. LONG'S BILL TO BAR COTTON CROP APPROVED

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long's bill to prohibit the raising of a cotton crop next year was reported favorably to the Louisiana house of representatives tonight, and will be read, engrossed, and voted on tomorrow.

After a day of discussion in which on legislator challenged the constitutionality of the bill, the committee met and amended the measure to give the governor authority to repeal it by proclamation in the event less than the number of states producing 75 per cent of the cotton grown in the United States agree to adopt the plan. The committee decided to use the federal government crop report of 1930 as the basis for determining the 75 per cent.

GOV. HUEY P. LONG [Acme Photo.]

As the cotton plan bill was being attacked as unconstitutional by Representative Gilbert Dupre, the senate spent its time today in passing Senator V. V. Whittington's concurrent resolution memorializing congress to grant a three to five year moratorium on farm loan mortgages.

The senators were also acting on the Caffery-Fallow bill to exempt farmers' idle lands from taxation and amended it to make its terms apply for 1932 on cotton lands in cultivation during 1931, and fixed the classification of lands which come within the scope of the bill. The measure would call for an amendment to the constitution and was indorsed in committee today by Gov. Long.

WOMEN PROTEST BEING BARRED AS DRY AGENTS' AIDS

Resent Having Morals Protected.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The assertion that "women, as such, don't need guardians," was the reaction of a group of Maryland business women today to Prohibition Director Woodcock's order forbidding the employment of members of their sex as informers or "blinds" in enforcing the dry law.

A letter acquainting him of the attitude of the business and professional women's council of Maryland, which was forwarded by the secretary, Miss M. Le Clare Peach, and the president, Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, asserted the order was "outraging to all sense of justice and fairness."

The letter called the order a case of "sex discrimination," and added that "it is paradoxical that women should be ruled out of the prohibition picture only where there is danger of their receiving a pay envelope."

Object to Arbitrary Rule.

"What we object to is an arbitrary rule about the employment of women," explained Miss Brown, an attorney and a candidate last fall for the state legislature.

"Who is to judge whether prohibition enforcement is more demoralizing to women than men?

"Sex shouldn't enter into the matter at all. Women are out of jobs at present the same as men, and if they are qualified they should not be prevented by any sweeping regulation from taking any legitimate work, just because they are women.

"Every one knows there are numerous places in all large cities where the 18th amendment is violated and which men are not permitted to enter unless accompanied by women.

"I don't see how officials are going to proceed against these places without employing women."

No Pay for Women Dry Aids.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The federal government will spend no more money, "directly or indirectly, to purchase liquor for women."

This was the order dispatched today by Prohibition Director Woodcock to all dry law administrators, deputy administrators, and special agents. The order was as follows:

"The use of any federal funds to pay women for services in the purchase of liquor, directly or indirectly, is forbidden.

"No federal funds will be used, directly or indirectly, to purchase liquor for women.

"Agents when seeking to purchase liquor for use as evidence will not be accompanied by women.

"This order should not be taken as a check upon initiative. It is issued to prevent abuses that have brought discredit upon the bureau and trouble to individual agents in the past.

"Intelligent effort upon a higher plane is bound to produce better results in the long run.

"I do not believe there is any problem in enforcement which you cannot solve within these restrictions. If there is such a problem bring it to my attention by letter."

MAAS PROMISES BILL LEGALIZING PRE-WAR BEER

Burlingame, Cal., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Representative Melvin J. Maas of Minneapolis, Minn., said today a bill would be introduced before the next congress authorizing the manufacture and sale of beer at its pre-war alcoholic content.

"Legalizing such action," he said, "is the logical step toward ending the reign of terror from which the country is suffering at the hands of gangsters.

"Beer and wine must come first, and later congress can deal with the liquor problem. Other countries have done it and added to their revenue thereby.

"If the manufacture and sale of beer were legalized, it would put at least 500,000 men to work, would enable farmers to dispose of their surplus grain, and would do much to end the bootlegging evil. The way to put the bootlegger out of business is to compete with him."

Maas, who described himself as a dry, in that he does not drink, is visiting a brother here.

Runs for President

Monte Ne, Ark., Aug. 26.—(AP)—William H. [Coin] Harvey of Monte Ne and Andrae Nardskog of Los Angeles, Cal., were chosen today as presidential and vice presidential candidates, respectively, of the new "Liberty party" formed at a convention here.

Harvey, an 80 year old veteran of William Jennings Bryan's free silver campaigns, refused the nomination at first but accepted after a motion had been made to select presidential and vice presidential candidates at a later convention.

Planks in the platform call for a five year moratorium on all mortgages and interest bearing debts; a revision of the country's monetary system through free coinage of silver as "coordinate money" with paper as currency and not as redemption money; public ownership of all utilities; freedom of taxation, to be made up from profits of the utilities and settlement of controversial issues through referenda.

SELLER OF RUM TO GIRLS FACES MORE CHARGES

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The prosecutor's office reopened its investigation today of a speakeasy in the adjoining city of Mishawaka where high school boys and girls are said to have congregated for liquor parties, after having obtained the conviction of David Lonergan, 47, the proprietor.

The story of Dorothy Hall, 17, South Bend, who testified she drank her whisky straight, started the inquiry. Her testimony was instrumental in the sentencing of Lonergan to a six months' penal farm stretch plus a fine of $1,500.

Other girls of high school age who frequented the Lonergan place are being sought for questioning with the idea that a charge of contributing to a minor's delinquency can be pressed against Lonergan.

A black note book supposed to contain the names and addresses of young girls was being hunted by prosecutors who considered it possible the case might develop "love mart" evidence.

NYE SAYS CANNON DIVERTED FUND TO OWN ACCOUNT

Formally Charges Transfer of Campaign Cash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Bishop James Cannon Jr. was today formally charged by Chairman Gerald P. Nye [radical Rep., N. D.] of the senatorial campaign fund committee with having diverted political contributions to his own account.

BISHOP JAMES CANNON JR.

Through the testimony of four banker witnesses, the passage of $5,300 from the account carried in a Washington bank by Bishop Cannon as chairman of the 1928 anti-Smith Democratic committee of Virginia and of $8,000 contributed to the committee by E. C. Jameson of New York was traced into the bishop's personal account in the Bank of Crewe, Pa.

"When all the information is put together it will show not only a shifting of funds but will clearly demonstrate an actual diversion of campaign money to the personal accounts of Bishop Cannon," said Senator Nye at the conclusion of the hearing.

Bank Cashier Testifies.

Frank W. Sheffield, cashier of the Crewe bank, testified that on Nov. 1, 1928, Bishop Cannon had sent him a check for $5,300 drawn on the Continental Trust company of Washington, D. C., and signed as James Cannon Jr., chairman. Bishop Cannon asked that a time certificate be issued to him in this amount and that an account be started in his name as executor of the estate of Mrs. Mary C. Moore.

On Jan. 12, 1929, Mr. Sheffield testified, Bishop Cannon wrote him on a letterhead of Bascom Slemp, asking that the money in the account be deposited in a savings account in the name of James Cannon Jr., executor. He also asked and obtained special permission to check on this account. The account, said Mr. Sheffield, fluctuated from $2,000 to $10,000. On Jan. 14 the certificate account was closed out in accordance with the bishop's instructions.

On May 20, 1929, the testimony continued, Bishop Cannon opened a personal account, and on Oct. 3 closed the account as executor and transferred the $5,924 then in it to his personal account.

Jameson Check Appears.

On Feb. 13, 1929, before the account as executor had been turned over to his personal account, it was shown by other witnesses that Bishop Cannon had deposited in it $8,070 which had originally come from Mr. Jameson as a contribution to the anti-Smith committee. First appearing as a check written by Jameson on Oct. 19, 1928, the $8,000, it appeared in the evidence, had been deposited with the First National bank of Blackstone, which issued a certificate of deposit. The certificate was paid in January with $70 interest and then, according to the evidence, the total sum was forwarded to the Crewe bank.

Company Defunct.

From John A. Booker, treasurer of the Citizens Bank and Trust company, where Bishop Cannon also had an account, the committee heard of a certificate of deposit for $8,000 issued to the bishop. In buying the certificate the bishop handed the bank $7,433, which, he said, was held in trust by the Newspaper Supply company.

State records showed the Newspaper Supply company to have had its charter of incorporation revoked in 1912.

"With so many accounts already in existence," said Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], "I cannot understand why the bishop found it necessary to start new accounts for a dead woman and a defunct company."

Chairman Nye termed important, as showing the responsibility for the anti-Smith committee's activities and finances assumed by Bishop Cannon, a letter written by the bishop to C. W. Warden, vice president of the Continental Trust company of Washington, protesting the bank's action in returning certain checks for proper indorsement. The reading of the letter aroused laughter in the audience which crowded the hearing room.

Bishop Counsels Banker.

"We do not split hairs in our office on the matter of the indorsement of these checks," the bishop wrote. "I have been indorsing them right along when they were made payable to the treasurer of the anti-Smith Democrats, etc. I do not think it is the function of your cashier to determine whether the indorsement on the back of the check is satisfactory or not. That I conceive to be the business of the bank upon which the check is drawn or the maker of the check. However, as the Master said when he was asked to pay tribute to Caesar, 'Go and catch a fish and take the gold coin out of the fish's mouth and pay the tribute,' and so I am sending back the check with Mr. Peters' indorsement. But tell your cashier that we prefer to be responsible for our own actions in the future."

Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commerical National bank of Washington, was on the stand at the time.

"To what kind of fish did the bishop refer?" asked Senator Dill. "I'm a fisherman and would like to know."

"Perhaps it was a sucker," Mr. Cooper suggested.

Delving into the allegations made by Representative George H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.], who charged the bishop with misuse of $65,300 contributed to the 1928 anti-Smith Democratic committee of Virginia by E. C. Jameson of New York, the committee drew forth evidence showing that from June, 1928, to March, 1929, the bishop paid off several thousand dollars in personal notes.

The bishop, it appeared, was interested in no less than eight accounts in five banks, some in his own name.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs, secretary of the anti-Smith committee, was shown to have been described by the bishop as his secretary, though at the lobby investigation of 1930 he had denied she had held such a position after 1918.

And on Feb. 11, Miss Burroughs reported to the clerk of the house, as required by law, that the bishop had given the committee $17,000 donated by Mr. Jameson, and that he had received in return $58.50 for expenses, $771 in repayment of a loan, and $17,308.11 in repayment of advances made to the committee.

DRYS' GIRL DECOY WARNED BY JUDGE, PUT ON PROBATION

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Geraldine Jackson, also known sometimes as Ruth Callahan, girl decoy for Ralph E. Dell, the tangoing "buy man" for the federal prohibition office here, was placed on probation for a year today by City Judge George W. Woltz. She had pleaded guilty to being intoxicated a week ago. If she violates her probation, a three year reform school term awaits her, Judge Woltz warned.

"You are only 17 years old and your whole life is before you," Judge Woltz told the girl. "Keep good hours, quit drinking. Avoid bad companions."

The girl also was instructed to appear Monday in court when the hearing of Dell, who is charged with corrupting the morals of a minor, is scheduled to come up. Dell is accused specifically of buying the girl cigarets.

LAWYER, DOCTORS CLASH AT QUIZ ON CANCER CLINIC

Alleged Aid of Quack Put on Witness Stand.

Verbal tilts between the attorney for Dr. Clifford Judson Spruce, 246 North Central avenue, an alleged associate of Leslie Tilton, cancer expert, and the medical committee of the state board of registration and education, marked yesterday's hearing of Dr. Spruce's petition to retain his license to practice medicine will be decided by the committee after hearing evidence on the alleged association with Tilton.

DR. C. JUDSON SPRUCE.

The American Medical association was assailed as "a sort of labor union of doctors," by William McKinley, Dr. Spruce's attorney, who also referred to the trial as "this inquisition" and applied the term of "liar" to an investigator for the department whose record of a conversation with Dr. Spruce was read by the prosecution.

Doctor Warns Attorney.

"If did the doctors who compose the committee confine themselves altogether with soft words. Dr. M. L. Harris, the chairman, ordered Attorney McKinley not to waste their time with irrelevant cross-examination.

"Your time is not as important as the business of defending my client," the attorney replied.

Objecting to testimony of Charles Burns, 8141 Evans avenue, 93 years old, a witness for the prosecution, Attorney McKinley said that it was contrary to the laws of evidence.

"We care nothing for the laws of evidence," Dr. Wilbur H. Gillmore, member of the committee, said.

Testifies for Himself.

Dr. Spruce, testifying on his own behalf, said that he was 61 years old and was graduated in 1907 at the General Medical college of Chicago. He heard of the Tilton "remedies" from a patient, he said.

"Tilton had removed a growth of this patient in his home in Clinton, Ia.," he said. "Incidentally, this patient cannot be called in. He died last year from apoplexy somewhere out west."

Dr. Spruce testified that he had taken over the direction of the Tilton clinic in April, 1930, his only object being "that of any doctor who's got a heart and brain, and wants to do more good than he's been doing."

Far from being connected with Tilton, he said, he specified on entering into an agreement with John Madison Pace, backer of the clinic in the Great Northern hotel, for a $600 monthly drawing account, that he alone and not Tilton should run it.

When Dr. Spruce moved the clinic from the hotel, at the hotel management's request, to 814 South Michigan avenue, under the name of "The C. Judson Spruce Cancer Clinic, Inc.," he failed to get a license to operate, cross examination revealed.

Nun Is a Witness.

Sister Mary Wenceslaus, who conducted a cancer clinic at the Felician convent, 6800 Peterson road, which specialized in the Tilton remedies before it was closed last May, testified for the prosecution that she had met Dr. Spruce when she attended the Great Northern hotel clinic as an observer. Under cross-examination she told of being cured of a growth in her shoulder and breast by the Tilton remedies.

She had been advised to undergo an operation, she said. Attorney McKinley asked her if she would permit an examination by the committee. On returning from an outer room after examining her, Dr. Harris announced that the committee had agreed unanimously that "whatever she had, it was not a malignant growth."

Girl Avers Phone Blast Hurt Complexion; Sues

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A Baltimore girl sued the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company today for $50,000. She answered a ringing phone, she charges, there was a flash, and she was hurled to the floor unconscious.

Congress Street Plan Called Smoke Screen for Governor

BY HAL FOUST.

From the west side yesterday came the charge that George W. Dixon of the Gold Coast was acting as a catspaw for Gov Emmerson in advocating the widening of Congress street as a counter proposal to the construction of an elevated highway on the Austin-Kinzie route abutting the North Western railroad embankment.

SOL WESTERFELD.

"Mr. Dixon's interests are not out here west of the river," said Sol Westerfeld, a director of the West Town Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the public affairs committee of the West Side Kiwanis club. "Mr. Dixon lives at 1250 Lake Shore drive and his place of business is south of the loop, at 423 South Wells street. He cannot speak for the west side.

Seen Speaking for Governor.

"Mr. Dixon, however, might be speaking for Gov. Emmerson, who appointed him to the Lincoln park board. In advocating the widening of Congress street, Mr. Dixon is giving the governor a pretense of an excuse for not starting work on the Austin-Kinzie project at once so as to furnish employment this winter to from 10,000 to 30,000 men. The governor can say that Chicago's west side does not agree on what improvement in traffic facilities it wants from the state.

"Mr. Dixon, Gov. Emmerson's appointee from the Gold Coast, is throwing up a smoke screen for the protection of the governor in evading his duty to the west side of Chicago, his duty to construct a traffic artery for safe and fast travel by the expenditure of some of the gasoline tax funds that otherwise will lie idle in the state treasury this winter while there will be thousands of men hungry and jobless.

Can't Increase Taxes.

"The widening of Congress street, even at the lowest estimate of cost, $27,750,000, cannot be sincerely advocated as a requirement of traffic when for $22,000,000 can be obtained a boulevard free from traffic lights with continuous grade separations. I'm also sure that the west side does not care to have its taxes increased with a bond issue and with special assessment for the Congress street widening, as suggested by its sponsors.

"Mr. Dixon, living on the Gold Coast and desirous of an alibi for the governor, who gave him public office, may believe that the west side disapproved of the Austin-Kinzie project when the west park bond issue was defeated at the polls. Those who live on the west side know that the vote was against taxing real estate for an improvement to be enjoyed mainly by automobile owners.

Want Drivers to Pay.

"The west side wants the Austin-Kinzie elevated highway financed by those who will benefit from the improvement, the drivers of automobiles who pay gasoline taxes. The automobile owners of Chicago pay millions of dollars a year into the state treasury; this elevated highway is what the motorists want in return.

"The obstructionists, in addition to throwing up this smoke screen of a counter proposal, are making other silly charges, such as the one that the Austin-Kinzie highway would be a Chinese wall cutting the west side in two. A resident of the Gold Coast may believe this, but those who live on the west side know that the North Western railroad has an embankment on the Austin-Kinzie route and that the highway will be part of this wall and not an additional wall, if you want to call it that.

"It seems a waste of breath to argue against the Congress street counter proposal, when the sponsors themselves cannot be considering it seriously. I'll say just one sentence. If Congress street were widened as planned, there would still be seventy-five street intersections causing delay and adding to the city's motor death toll.

A Question of Jobs.

"Also, we must take into consideration the fact that this is a period of widespread unemployment. If the state is going to get any major project under way this winter it will be the Austin-Kinzie elevated highway and not the Congress street widening. And on the widening of Congress from Canal street west, the Chicago plan commission estimates that $22,827,600 would be spent for land and buildings to clear the right of way, not to mention the millions that would be spent in opening a new right of way through the business district where there now is no Congress street. The cost of the land and buildings on the Austin-Kinzie route is placed at $5,620,900, leaving a much larger portion to meet the payrolls of laborers engaged in the construction."

CARLSTROM AIDS BOARD TO FIGURE PREVAILING WAGE

Excludes Farm Labor from Consideration.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Attorney General Carlstrom today cleared up for the wage rate appeal board the question as to what forms of labor should be considered in establishing rates under the new "prevailing wage" law. He said factory labor should be included, but held farm labor did not meet requirements of the law.

OSCAR CARLSTROM.

Mr. Carlstrom's opinion was given in response to a request from George C. Ottens of Chicago, chairman of the state wage scale appeal board, following a discussion during the wage rate hearings, when it was suggested that the prevailing wage for farm labor could be considered in determining the rate for similar work done on public works.

Attorney General Carlstrom's opinion says:

"It would seem quite clear that the legislature intended to apply the act to the work of laborers and mechanics which resembles, or is somewhat like, the work in question. It does not mean the same or identical work. If it has a general likeness or is in many respects like the construction work in question, it will be sufficient.

"Farm help or labor is usually paid upon a basis entirely different from other labor and in fixing the compensation paid by farmers to their workers on the farm, such elements as board and lodging are generally included in addition to the wages paid. For this reason it is my opinion that farm labor would not be work of a similar nature as contemplated by the prevailing wage law, but the work of a common laborer, whether in a factory or elsewhere, for which he receives compensation upon a fixed rate of wages—in my opinion comes within the contemplation of the law."

HOLD LANDLADY AFTER 10 DEATHS AMONG ROOMERS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—(AP)—A mother and her son were held by police today following the death by a fall from a window of a roomer in their home, and the subsequent discovery by police that ten men, on most of whom the woman held insurance policies, had died in her rooming house during the last eight years.

The woman, Mrs. Rose Veras, 48, whose rooming house is in this city's Hungarian colony, is held on a technical charge of homicide. Her son, William, 18, was arrested for investigation.

The death of Steve Mak, 62, a roomer at Mrs. Veras' home, opened the police investigation. Mrs. Veras told police Mak fell from a ladder while repairing an attic window. Other witnesses said Mak was not at work on a ladder, and that it appeared he had been pushed from the window.

Insurance Policy Valid.

George M. Stutz, assistant prosecuting attorney, said he had learned there was one valid insurance policy on Mak's life for $4,000, of which Mrs. Veras was the beneficiary. He said he had learned Mrs. Veras recently borrowed money to make a payment on the policy.

Mrs. Veras told them it was customary in the Hungarian colony where she lived for a landlady to insure her roomers in her behalf. Police said seventy-five policies were found in her home.

Detective Lieutenant John Whitman said he had learned Mrs. Veras paid the funeral expenses of seven of the men who died at her house.

Post-Mortems Held.

Police examined their records to determine the cause of the death of the ten and announced that post-mortems had been held on the bodies of two who died of alcoholism, and that no evidence of criminal activities had been found.

The ten men who died in Mrs. Veras' home, they said, were Hungarians.

Frank M. Kenney, Mrs. Veras' attorney, presented a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Mrs. Veras and her son, but Recorder's Judge Henry S. Sweeney said he desired to give the police "all the time they want in investigating the case."

Kenney declared the action against Mrs. Veras to be the result of neighborhood gossip. Detectives said the woman had a record of six previous arrests, but no convictions.

5 DIE IN FIRE; BABY SAVED BY GRANDMOTHER

Richland Center, Wis., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Five persons, two children and three adults who attempted to rescue them, died today as the result of a fire which destroyed the home of John Falkner near Port Andrew. A three-months old baby was carried to safety by its 70 year old grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Falkner, who rushed back into the burning home.

The children, Esther Falkner, 2 years old, and her sister Bessie, 3, died in the burning house. Their parents were fatally burned in attempting to rescue them, as was the fifth victim, Frank La Gene, 38, who roomed at the Falkner home.

A gas stove explosion is believed to have been the cause of the fire. No fire fighting equipment was available and the neighbors who quickly responded were unable to stem the flames.

With the first rush of the flames Mr. and Mrs. Falkner, La Gene, and the grandmother fled outside. Instantly they realized the children were in the house. All four rushed back. The grandmother emerged unscathed with the baby in her arms, but the others were so seriously burned that they died soon after arriving at a hospital here.

POLAND TO TAKE FOOD FOR TAXES; FEED JOBLESS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Aug. 25.—The ancient form of tax collection in kind is to be revived by Poland to help the unemployed. Grain, potatoes, sugar, and coal are to be collected and distributed among the workless who cannot qualify for the dole under the insurance scheme. It is calculated that over $100,000,000 tax arrears, which cannot be extracted from the cashless and hard-hit taxpayers in money, would be willingly paid in goods.

Of the nearly 300,000 of registered unemployed only a quarter receive the $1.75 and $3.30 dole weekly.

At a special unemployment conference today measures were proposed for a more just distribution of work available—through shorter hours.

GOVERNOR GIVES 400 MINERS WHO SEEK RELIEF $10

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Declining to give other than personal aid because the "state laws do not permit it," Gov. William G. Conley today gave his second $10 bill to a delegation of miners who marched on the capitol and demanded state relief from "starving conditions."

Two months ago a committee representing a march of some 400 men approached him with a similar plea. He gave the spokesman $10, to which other statehouse contributions were added for foods.

Spokesman for the miners at today's conference, the Rev. John Harlow, 60, of Gallagher, accepted the contribution and told the 250 miners who waited for him outside the city, "Now take this $10 and go buy mirrors and watch yourselves starve. That's all we can do."

He had told the governor "something has to e done to keep these miners law abiding." He said the delegation represented 69 mining camps from three principal counties in the state, Kanawha, Boone, and Putnam.

POLITICIAN SHOT IN MEETING OF PANAMA COUNCIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLON, Panama, Aug. 26.—Dr. Arnulfo Arias, brother of Panama's minister to Washington, Dr. Harmodio Arias, and head of the sanitation department, was shot twice today in the city council chamber here by Councillor Armestica after an argument.

Dr. Arias was wounded in the neck and hip. Physicians say that although his condition is serious, he probably will recover. Dr. Arias is president of the Accion Comunal, the organization which overthrew the Arosemena adminstration last Jan. 2.

Colon has been a hot bed of the administration's opposition, and during the recent revolution stood out against the new régime. At this afternoon's meeting, which was called to elect the president and other officers of the council, Dr. Arias supported administration candidates. This angered Armestica.

SOME UNSOUND TAX PROPOSALS.

Mr. Ray Wantz of Rockford, a member of the governor's revenue committee, has called attention to the relative failure of Cook county to collect taxes upon personal property. He is no advocate of the tax in theory, but he believes that its enforcement will go far toward bringing about a general reform of the state's revenue laws. He says Cook should follow the example of other counties in assessing automobiles, industrial machinery, pianos, and stocks of merchandise.

Mr. Wantz seems to have given inadequate consideration to the fact that the underlying difficulty in Cook county is not the failure of the taxing officials to assess but the failure of spending officials to economize. The taxpayers in this community may be said to be on strike. They are tired of giving their money over to spendthrifts. The real estate taxes now assessed are not being collected partly, of course, because of hard times, but to a very considerable extent, as well, because of the conviction in the minds of the citizens that some means must be taken of calling public officials to their senses. It is altogether probable that the assessment of personality on a more rigorous basis would lead to an even more striking protest.

It follows that the way to restore order to the finances of the local governments and reëstablish local credit is not by making chaos more chaotic with new, uncollected levies. Not more assessments but stringent economy and the liquidation of government extravagance are the remedies which will restore the willingness of taxpayers to support their government.

Little is to be expected, too, of another proposal which the committee is said to have under consideration, this one providing for the creation of a state commission to supervise local government expenditures. Unless such a commission reduced expenditures it could work no improvement in the temper of the citizens and there is no reason to suppose that a state commission would have greater consideration for taxpayers in Chicago than has been shown by Chicago officials. The present elected officials, at least, are accountable sooner or later to the voters.

The taxpayers of Cook county have no slightest reason for placing faith in the beneficent intentions of a commission chosen at Springfield. The experience of recent years, including the refusal of the legislature to accept a reapportionment and the outrageously unjust division of the motor taxes, is convincing evidence of the determination of downstate to prey upon Chicago and its taxpayers. That being so, Chicago may be counted upon to resist to the limit any proposal for fiscal control from Springfield. Our situation may be trying, but it is not that desperate.

THE NEW MODEL AMERICAN CITIZEN.

The news gathering and distributing agencies of the United States have agreed to a postoffice department request and will not carry stories of the British racing lotteries. The tales of fortunes dropping down on obscure citizens in various parts of the world with the running of one of the English races are supposed to excite the American populace and dispose it to bootleg traffic in sweepstake tickets smuggled in for sale in the highly paternalized United States.

The thought of big and easy money is a distraction from sober ways, and, although not in itself necessarily an illegal thought, it is, in the opinion of the government, an inadvisable one. It disturbs the moral composure of the citizenship and leads to temptation. A wretch, excited by reading of a colored boy whose rabbit foot worked incredibly in the sweepstakes, may begin thinking of lucky gold, and the postoffice knows that will do him no good.

Under a less considerate government there might be a toleration of this. Let the poor devil read about it. But the American government is of a sterner moral stuff. It knows human frailty and weakness, particularly in the American republic, which, it is true, began mature, intelligent, and self-reliant, but which has been going back to childhood. From the bold theory that the people were competent to create their own government by periodic elections, without the existence of hereditary rulers, the development has been toward the doctrine that they are incapable of any adult responsibilities.

What the postoffice undertakes to do with this censorship of news relating to winnings in lotteries is from the same moral pattern used by the treasury department in closing the international bridges from Texas to Mexico at 9 o'clock at night. That is not relevant to customs regulations. It has nothing to do with them. It is to prevent, so far as it can, a citizen from following an impulse to make a fool of himself in a gambling or drinking joint over the border. Under treasury rules he must think of it in the early evening and be willing to stay all night.

It is wholly improbable that a nation can make a democracy work very long with the theory that the adult citizen, unaided by government, cannot raise his own wheat or cotton, market his own fruit, choose his own table beverages, select his own reading, or go abroad for any reason he sees fit when neither the laws nor the customs of the other country prohibit him.

Democracy was supposed to be possible only with an exceptionally capable and self-disciplined citizenship. The new supposition is that self-government implies a congenital incapacity for self-control.

ANOTHER TOUGH ONE IN THE BUFFALO DISTRICT.

A federal prohibition agent was arrested in Buffalo charged with corrupting the morals of a minor. He was the agent previously arrested for disturbing the peace while intoxicated. He was then with an intoxicated girl of seventeen who also was arrested and charged with drunkenness. The two were in an automobile and their car ran into another. The girl explained that she had been hired by the prohibition agent to accompany him and make liquor purchases. In the course of this assignment, she said, she had drunk four quarts of ale and a dozen or so spirituous drinks.

A news dispatch from Buffalo says that when the agent was arrested on the charge of corrupting the morals of a minor and arraigned before Chief Judge George W. Woltz in the City court, Richard H. Templeton, U. S. district attorney, made efforts to obtain his immediate release. The dispatch reported the following conversation:

"'It's only a minor offense,' he [Mr. Templeton] told Judge Woltz over the telephone.

"'Yes, but we are not sure but what it will grow into a much bigger case,' Judge Woltz replied."

It has grown big enough to bring about a formal order by Prohibition Director Woodcock to all dry agents forbidding any employment of women as informers.

District Attorney Templeton finds that prohibition enforcement in the Buffalo district brings him tough cases. The policy of the department of justice makes him responsible for the defense of agents charged with crimes. The department policy reflects the higher prohibition view that a crime cannot be committed in the enforcement of the Volstead act. Whatever the offense may be, of whatever cruelty or turpitude, it derives grace from its authority. A prohibition agent, in the eyes of the U. S. government, can't be wrong. If he is charged with crime in the state courts it is the duty of the district attorney to have his case removed to the federal court in the district and to appear as his attorney in his defense. It is permissible if not mandatory to transfer the hearing to a remote part of the district to get it away from any local sentiment aroused by the nature of the crime charged.

Mr. Templeton had the tough case of Jacob Hanson, the good citizen killed on the Lewistown road by a customs patrol. He was shot on the suspicion that he might have liquor in his car and before he died he had lost first his eyesight and then his mind. Mr. Hanson had a character above suspicion and when he was shot he was innocently driving home. Mr. Templeton got his killer off in a federal court trial, but it was a hard case and the verdict seemed to establish the fact that under prohibition enforcement there was no redress whatever if a reputable American citizen lost his life to wanton authority.

Now Mr. Templeton has another hot one. In this case the agent is charged with corrupting a young girl in order that the noble experiment might advance along its glorious way. The debauchery of youth has not been regarded as a minor offense except in the mores of Volstead. To be sure it appeared to have the sanction of the eighteenth amendment and of the government supporting the same, and if the department of justice is not shocked by man killing it might dismiss the morals of minors as of minor importance.

The important thing, of course, is the service of the law of laws. Crime committed in its name is a virtue because the cause is holy. One of the persistent doctrines of bigotry is that persons employed in any campaign of extirpation shall have an indulgence for all acts.

Editorial of the Day

THE DOLE CONDEMNED.

[The Danville (Ill.) Commercial News.]

Returning from a two months' visit in England, Dr. Walter Scott Athearn, new president of Butler university, Indianapolis, gives his impressions of the "dole system" in operation in that country and its effects upon those who receive a dole from the public treasury.

It is Dr. Athearn's opinion that it is the dole, perhaps more than anything else, that is impoverishing England and tearing it down, and he warns congress against adopting anything suggestive of it.

"The people of England," he says, "are being made dependents rather than independents. Rather than doing something for the government too many people are doing things to the government. Why should we work, anyhow, when we can work the government for something, appears to be the attitude of many. I am glad that organized labor of America has taken a stand against the dole. It is unfair to the workingman of thrift, initiative, and industry."

Dr. Athearn states that the dole in England is very unpopular. He says the fellow who is getting a dole out of the government complains because he thinks he is not getting enough. A man of industry has no cause for remaining industrious. If others work the government for a dole why shouldn't he? A dole is a curse on the people and the country.

"But the dole," he says, "now that it is fastened upon the country, is looked upon as a necessary evil. Those who are working the government for a dole would rebel against its discontinuance. No one knows how to change it or get rid of it without the risk of plunging the nation into an economic revolution that would give Russian sovietism or German Hitlerism a chance to sow its seeds of discontent and promote its radicalism.

"American citizens, the working man as well as the business man, should be sure to defeat any candidate for congress who tries to make political capital of economic unrest and promises to vote for anything smacking of the dole system in any form. Our people must retain their initiative. We must not kill thrift with a dole. We must work for our government rather than work our government. Surely we should profit by Great Britain's distressing mistake."

LOGICAL.

"May I ask you how old you are?" said the vacationist to the old villager.

"I be just a hundred."

"Really? Well, I doubt if you'll see another hundred years," said the other, trying to make conversation.

"Well, I don't know so much about that," was the ready response. "I be stronger now than when I started on the first hundred."—Capper's Weekly.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

QUESTING.

On a placid pool o'er which the willows swung
Their pliant pendants and the wavelets flung
Back to their shading canopy the transient gleams
Of flickering sunlight, soft as starlight beams
Which come to earth through filmy clouds of white
When day finds peace in quiet robes of night—
There, resting on the tranquil water's breast,
A water lily raised its creamy crest
To offer tribute to the master mind
That its exquisite entity designed,
When lo, with wings of texture finely spun
Flashed, like a meteor, across the sun,
Stayed its flight and lighted on the flower,
Finding repose and discontent's surcease,
To drink of fragrant beauty in a realm of peace.

Vain is the search for dubious treasures sown
Or weary wanderings o'er paths unknown;
And vain to heed the lure of idle dreams
When earth, with fair realities, around us teems;
Or questing beauty tempt a ruthless doom

BERT SMILEY.

SENATOR J. HAMILTON LEWIS of our own Illinois envisages Russia "girding for war" against the United States through nonaggression pacts with other nations. If the urbane and suave Senator Lewis envisages aggression by any one let us not remain dormant in fancied security. Let us be adequately prepared. His urbanity and suavity are among our choicest legislative possessions. Any conditions, or fancied conditions, which might cause worry and thus mar those attributes, are not to be countenanced.

WHILE R. H. L.'S AWAY.

Dear Harve: Now that he's away, it can be told about R. H. L. here . . . he, a beneficent Haroun-al-Raschid, and I, a sorely pressed conception of an amateur Boswell, floundered through the snowdrifts that gave impudence to Michigan boulevard traffic and at length lurched into Madison. Christmas Eve, that I recall, of 1924.

Almost helpless in this twitching antenna of the last-minute shopping polypus . . . then a manner of sanctuary in loop store book department. A girl approached. She was charming—a charm intensified by the very resistance with which it had met the grotesque demands and enervating assaults of a terrible day. "A Line Book; I Want a Line Book," said Dick. "I'm sorry, but they're all gone," she answered. "Gone!" roared Dick. "And darned glad of it," she said. "What!" boomed Dick. "My feet are a wreck," she replied. "And where's your copy?" he asked. "I—I sent it to a friend so he could read 'In Some Far Land,'" she explained.

Dick floundered in his overcoat and drew out a Line Book bound in hand-tooled goatskin that an admirer had brought him that afternoon. "What's your name?" he asked. "Maisie." Dick scribbled in the book, "To Maisie: May she find the fairy castle of her dream.—R. H. L." She swayed a little as she read and said: "You—you are Mr. Little!" In the moment I yearned for an eternal impression of her smile.

As we left he chuckled. And I—I forgot that I had been the giver of the Line Book with the hand-tooled goatskin binding.

NATURE OF AN OATH.

Wake-Line: That recent question of profanity on the golf links reminds of a kindly judge and a young boy who was a very important witness in a case before the judge. When the boy was called he was much confused. When the clerk was ready to swear him the judge said: "Now, my boy, you have to be sworn. Do you understand the nature of an oath?" The boy hesitated, so the judge repeated, "Do you understand an oath?" Then the boy's face brightened as he replied: "Oh, yes, sir, I do now, fer I caddied for you last Saturday." BILL SHARP.

And she looks up to plead her final vow,

Four walls encompass, she's immured again,

CLARENCE MILLIGAN.

TO HELPER T. W. we are indebted for the information that W. D. (Bill) Knight of Rockford, state's attorney of Winnebago county, is being mentioned as a candidate on his record for the Republican nomination for attorney general. Bill, if you remember, is a Big Ten official during the gridiron season, having acquired football lore at Dartmouth.

THIS IS "PEACH WEEK."

Sir: In view of the fact that Illinois orchards are producing tons and tons of peaches, which farmers are trying to sell at any price, we wonder if Mr. Woodcock would have any objections to a farmer-orchardist telling city dwellers how to handle the fruit so that there would be no danger of fermentation into peach brandy à la grape concentrates? REPAIR AFTER INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

THE best known institution for rebuilding muscles wasted by infantile paralysis is that located at Warm Springs, Ga. It has been in operation for a considerable number of years, and so successful has it been that it is kept full all winter long and practically full even during the hot season.

Patients come there from as distant places as Hawaii and various parts of Canada, as well as far and wide in the United States. It is under the auspices of a foundation created to keep it on a firm basis so long as there are paralytics in need of muscle rebuilding. It is not a hospital for the treatment of infantile paralysis. About the only relation it has to that disease is that it was the cause of disability of the people there for treatment, though a cause that ceased to operate actively several years before the patients went to the springs to take the cure.

In this instance the cure is nothing more than a system of rebuilding wasted muscles and retraining nerves and nerve centers. When a patient arrives he is thoroughly examined as to the condition of each major muscle in his body. These are rated in one of five groups as to the strength left in them. A second rating relates to the degree of muscle wasting and a third as to the amount of functional impairment.

Treatment is then outlined. This consists in a period of muscle training given in the treatment pool of the warm springs. Since the water supports the weight and keeps the body in position, the patient's muscles and nerves are spared all the tasks that these ends require. Confidence in one's muscle capacity and nerve control is soon established. The exercises in the water are prescribed to use just the muscles and nerves that need it in exactly the right way and to the right extent. Next follows a sun bath. These generally take up the morning. After lunch there is time for an afternoon nap, and then follows a period of relaxation. During this period the patients are encouraged to play games, according to their capacities. Later in the afternoon various forms of physiotherapy are given by physiotherapists.

A few weeks ago when infantile paralysis began to threaten the country the patients agreed to supply as much convalescent serum as they could. A prize was offered to the boy who would give the most serum. I have just seen the prize winner. He gave nearly a quart and he was able to boast not only that he won the prize but that he nearly doubled the donation of Gov. Roosevelt.

WORK MAY BE TO BLAME.

Mrs. M. E. P. writes: For some time I have been bothered with a rashlike condition that reappears on the backs of my hands only and lasts four or five days. It comes on with a redness and fever and burns and itches. My stomach gets slightly upset, but otherwise I am well. Could this condition come from my stomach?

I have used all kinds of ointments. Should I take a tonic? I am in my late thirties.

REPLY.

What is your type of work? The probability is that your skin is being poisoned by some chemical. The range of possibilities is exceedingly broad. While there is a chance that something you eat is responsible it is a poor one to gamble on.

Your blood is cleared of charges.

Trying to cure with ointments is another gamble, unless you avoid the cause.

YEAST AND WARTS.

H. A. S. writes:

1. Will yeast, if eaten three times a day as directed, help one to put on weight? I am 16 pounds under weight and, in spite of everything, I do not gain.

2. You recently stated causes of warts. Whenever I have a sore or cut, after it heals a wart appears. Can you give an explanation of that?

REPLY:

1. It may help. Yeast is rich in vitamin B complex. If there is plenty of this vitamin in the diet appetite is promoted. This tends to cause a person to put on weight. We have a leaflet on putting on weight, which we send on request, provided a stamped and addressed envelope is sent.

2. Many warts are caused by infections. Perhaps this is true of yours.

THYROID PILLS.

J. L. R. writes: I have been taking a thyroid pill for reducing. I have recently heard that the thyroid gland has something to do with the height? Is this true? Does it increase the height? I am 18 years of age.

REPLY.

The thyroid is a factor in growth, but taking it will not make you grow. Since you have stopped, that need not be considered.

FROM THE G. A. R.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The 32 comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic who were privileged to be the invited guests of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at the Chicagoland Music Festival Saturday last desire me to express to you their grateful appreciation of the courtesy so unexpectedly tendered.

Unquestionably this event proved to be the greatest tribute ever paid the G. A. R. on any single occasion. The entrance at the appropriate time in open cars, four of which moved slowly down on each side of the field, to their reserved platform seats, with the happy announcement from the grandstand, brought the more than a hundred thousand members of the audience to their feet with vociferous cheers which through the radio reached across the continent. Could anything have been more complete?

THE TRIBUNE is to be congratulated on the pronounced success of this remarkable gathering in Soldiers' field of the music loving public. The boys in blue will not forget.

JAMES C. THOMAS,
Assistant Adjutant General, Department of Illinois, Grand Army of the Republic.

A GREAT PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENT

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Again THE TRIBUNE has earned the praise and thanks of the entire community, if not the country at large, for its vision and public spirited enterprise in promoting a great public entertainment in the music festival at Soldiers' field, Saturday, Aug. 22. May we hope that it may be repeated and made a permanent feature of Chicago's educational program? Your Chicago Jubilee of last spring was local in character, but far reaching in effect. It also should be an annual affair and the expense should not be borne by THE TRIBUNE exclusively. H. F. M.

AN APPRECIATIVE LISTENER.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—As one who attended the musical festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, I would like to give utterance to nothing but words of praise for the management of the entire affair, the manner in which the massive crowds were handled, the carrying out of the program without delay, the manipulation of the wonderful lighting system, which added to the beauty of the scene in Soldiers' field, already canopied by a moonlit heaven above, and lastly the high type of music presented, truly indicative of the refinement and culture of our city of Chicago.

ADELAIDE M. THOMASON.

ARCHITECTURAL NOTE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Please inform Quin Ryan that he needs to brush up a bit on his architecture. Every time he broadcasts a football game or some other event from Soldiers' field he will invariably refer the Stadium's "Gothic pillars" or "Gothic arches" when elaborating on its picturesque setting. Tonight when broadcasting the Chicago Music Festival he again mentioned its "Gothic" beauty.

The architectural idea carried out in the design of the Stadium is that of the classic, it being "Doric," the oldest of three Greek orders. J. J. LANE.

FELLOWSHIP.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I want to thank you most sincerely for the musical feast I enjoyed so much. I had the pleasure of being present at the first one and thought it wonderful. It seems to me that the second one surely surpassed the first. In looking up into the southern sky it seemed as though the moon was a part of the festival. One thought struck me especially during the "Trooping of the Colors." It was this: What a wonderful friendly feeling existed. How I wished that same feeling existed throughout the world. In going home with the crowds you could actually feel that every one seemed to be a little happier because of being present on that occasion. GRANDPA THOMPSON.

THE OLD SCHOONERS.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 24.—Old time mariners of this port have been greatly interested in the letters on old boats. Now, can any one tell us what became of that vast fleet of great schooners that sailed the lakes in the early '80s?

What was the fate of the four masted Geo. W. Adams, the five masted David Daws, the Moonlight, the Sage, the H. A. Kent, the David Vance, Geo. Murray, and hundreds of others? Of all that mighty fleet the writer knows of only one—the fine big schooner J. I. Case—still in existence. Built in Manitowoc in 1874, now owned in Montreal and in service on the St. Lawrence, the old ship was last year in winter quarters in Sorel, Quebec? J. A. RODIGAN.

TRAIN JERKS.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Replying to the complaint of H. W. Munster of Lotta, Ia., regarding the rough handling of stock trains, Mr. Munster is entirely under the wrong impression as to any hazing or intentional hard jolts to the train by the engineer either at the end of the trip or any other place. As an engineer on the largest stock hauling road coming into Chicago let me say to Mr. Munster that an engineer has too much responsibility and too much on his mind to be thinking about any such horse play as hazing or jolting the rear end. He is doing all he can to make the running time and handle his train in an efficient manner, and any excessive hard starting or stopping may tear his train in places, causing delays, derailments, injuries and the like.

In a modern box or stock car there is from 3 to 6 inches of slack in the drawbars, necessary on account of curves, etc. In the stock train of today there are hauled from 60 to 100 cars of stock, making about 40 feet of slack in a train, so that when the engineer is stopping sets the brakes, especially at low speed, the brakes on the head end will set first and hardest and before the rear end can set the slack will rush in against the set brakes and then often run out again on account of the recoil in the drawbar springs causing the jolting and jerking experienced. The engineer endeavors to overcome this by working steam on the engine with the engine brake off and the train brake set to keep the slack stretched until he comes to a stop.

The only remedy I can suggest is to cut these long trains, thus eliminating so much slack and permitting the brakes to set more evenly throughout the train and also give added ease in starting the train. A. R. Q.

VULGAR AND DISGUSTING.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 24.—We are wondering why the three vulgar, disgusting, nude pictures glaring from your Sunday paper of Aug. 23.

FLORENCE M. QUAINTANCE.

UNDER THE GUISE OF ART.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—To me this picture was an insult to womanhood. No wonder men stare at us when we have done nothing to warrant it. It is not pleasant to be visualized mentally as just the figure in that picture. True, there are people who will swallow this picture under the guise of art, but I will not, and there are millions upon millions who will not.

I am also voicing the attitude of the woman who has held together our nation since the time it was brought forth. You must remember it was woman who was last at the Cross and first at the Sepulchre. Woman on whose shoulders the government of respectability has rested from time immemorial will not let dirty, low down pictures pervert this standard. BEATRICE BELL.

DISTILLATE.

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 23.—I am an ugly old bachelor, 67 years old. Born and raised in this county. Read your "World's Greatest Newspaper."

I am not a church member. Spent 17 years, 1887-1904, in Colorado. Some rough mining towns. Four in San Francisco, 1907 to 1911. Rough seaport town.

Your editorials for return of the worst curse this country ever had, the liquor traffic, are too much for old E. M. H.

E. M. HARPER.

OLD BOATS.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 22.—Check in another old boat fan. The Wisconsin, referred to by Arthur W. Leaf of Kenilworth in your issue of Aug. 22, lies on the bottom in Jackson harbor, at Washington island, Wis., unless she was removed recently. She was last used as a stone barge. Now only the hull and after deck of her upper works remain. Will Cap'n Ole Christiansen of Detroit harbor or some other old lake skipper correct me if I am mistaken?

Those who have pumped church organs in their youth now have a national organization. Why not an "Old Boat Fans' Association of Chicago"? The members could correspond with one another, hold more or less regular meetings, swap yarns, and compare snap shots. [I have a valued collection of the old Nyack, Georgia, Sheboygan, Chicago, Fannie and Eugene Hart, Thistle, etc., and one of the last of the old three-masted lumber schooners, the Oscar Newhouse.] Dinner meetings could be enlivened by talks by active or retired lake captains, and the good old days lived over again. MORTGAGES AND BANKS.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—Legal Friend of the People.]—A has a mortgage on his house, securing loan from bank. B bought the mortgage from the bank. 1. B's name does not appear on any papers in his possession. 2. Papers show that principal and interest are payable to the bank. 3. In the event of bank receivership, if A has an amount on deposit in the bank to offset the mortgage, what would B's position be? 4. If B would be a common creditor of the bank, how can he safeguard his position before the bank closes?

M. S. S.

1. This is the common procedure.

2. We doubt if you have accurately stated this. If you reëxamine the paper you will probably find that the principal and interest are payable to the holder of the notes at the bank. The holder is probably also authorized to designate some other place of payment.

3. If you mean that A is merely carrying an account there, intending to draw on this account to pay the notes as they come due, this would not be in any sense the payment chargeable against B.

4. As we understand the facts, B's position would not be affected by the failure of the bank. The failure of the bank has no necessary connection with your action upon the bonds. You should continue to look to the maker whose name is signed to the bonds and to the pledged security. This should have been your principal reliance from the first. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIBRARY POSITIONS.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Please advise me whether or not the Chicago public library offers a course of training in library technique. What are the necessary qualifications to be eligible to a position as librarian in a Chicago high school? Is a civil service examination a requisite and, if so, what subjects are covered? B. S.

The public library does conduct a training class in library work and would suggest that the writer communicate with them regarding same. The only examination scheduled at this time for library positions is for page, called for Aug. 15, and I am enclosing application. We have also placed the writer's name on our mailing list for notification of the next examinations called for the positions of junior library clerk and junior library assistant.

JAMES S. OSBORNE,
Secretary Civil Service Commission.

BOND INTEREST.

Berwyn, Ill., Aug. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A bank is closed and a few days after the officials rent a store in order to carry out some of their business. A person has a coupon on a bond due and it calls for $3.25 interest. Can they deduct the 25 cents and say that it goes to them to help them pay for the rent of the store? They paid the person the money in full when the bank was open last time. C. S.

If they had previously made no charge for the collections, we would say that the same individuals could not collect such a charge on a subsequent transaction where they had not stipulated for it in advance.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 27, 1915.

BERLIN.—Germany, through its imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, made clear the following principal facts: That the sinking of the Arabic, if caused by a German submarine, was not a "deliberately unfriendly" act, but if the version of the incident as published proves true the arbitrary act of a submarine commander, and not only not sanctioned but decidedly condemned by the German government, and that Germany is anxious to meet demands set forth in President Wilson's last and original Lusitania notes.

WASHINGTON.—If the news from Berlin is as true as it appears President Wilson has won a great victory without the firing of a shot. If Germany meets all the demands made in President Wilson's note on the Lusitania and the subsequent notes it is taken to mean that Germany will meet demands even to the extent of payment for the deaths of Americans on the Lusitania and other ships sunk by German torpedoes, and that it will modify its submarine warfare to such an extent that the travel of Americans on the high seas in unarmed merchant vessels of any nation may be considered safe.

LONDON.—Brest Litovsk, the main Russian fortress and the most important concentration point in the present Russian line, fell to the Germans.

CHICAGO.—Edwin G. Foreman, Chicago banker, philanthropist, and clubman, died in San Francisco, where he had gone a month ago to spend his vacation.

BOSTON.—Open air camps for consumptives will be pitched throughout this section and scattered throughout the country if the plans of a Boston scientist and philanthropist whose name has not been divulged are realized. He claims fresh air and proper living will arrest the progress of the disease and invites consumptives of all stages to join the campers. The plans are the result of experiments made last winter in a tent in this city.

PITTSBURGH.—From an authoritative source in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers it is learned definitely that the end of the great steel strike is in sight—that is, supposing the Steel corporation will consent to deal with the association at all. When Prof. Jenks and President Mitchell left Pittsburgh they took with them the consent of the Amalgamated association leaders to a settlement based upon the last terms offered by the Steel corporation.

CHICAGO.—Testimony of a serious nature and reaching up to Capt. Luke P. Colleran was secured during the three hour session with which the civil service commission began an investigation of the detective bureau scandal. The inquiry into the "fake" expense account by which Lieut. Peter Joyce and Detectives John J. Tracy and John Cramer collected $75.80 from the state promises to bring out further and weightier charges. Colleran's connection with the expense account is shown by his letters, and other testimony indicated that he knew it was faked.

AUGUST 27, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Garfield at 2 a. m. is not as restless as he was in the early part of the night, during which, at intervals, he has slept with comparative comfort. Upon the whole he is believed by his attendants to have slightly improved since yesterday. The members of his family are resting and apparently his physicians do not expect the occurrence of more alarming and dangerous symptoms within the course of the next few hours. The President's mind was clearer yesterday than on the day before. The pulse and temperature were somewhat higher than on the previous day, however. The bursting of the abscess in the parotid gland and the spontaneous discharge of pus through the ear has given the President at least temporary relief and has revived, though in a faint degree, hopes that he will improve. Dr. Boynton said that he had informed Mrs. Garfield of the gravity of the situation. She has not abandoned hope, however, and prays for a favorable turn in the case.

PARIS.—Clemenceau has left Paris for Marseilles to fight a duel with the editor of a paper who had insulted him.

NEW YORK.—Although no special effort has been made by the promoters of the movement, anxiety over the condition of the President has directed attention to the Garfield family fund and subscriptions have been coming in more rapidly. Thus far $156,757 has been subscribed.

SENATORS VOTE IMMUNITY FOR NEW YORK QUIZ

Tammany and Roosevelt Seen Near Break.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The senate today, in its first test ballot of the special session, voted along strict party lines to adopt the favorable report of its judiciary committee on the bills to extend immunity powers to the Hofstadter committee which is investigating the New York City government. Twenty-six Republicans voted for the report; twenty-three Democrats voted against it.

SENATOR J. J. DUNNIGAN.

This followed immediately upon a speech made from the floor by Senator John J. Dunnigan [Dem.] which bitterly attacked Samuel Seabury, counsel of the Hofstadter committee, and denounced the city investigation as a "glorified publicity bureau of scandal mongers."

West Upstate Inquiry.

Senator Dunnigan's speech served no important purpose. It prepared the way for a Tammany demand on Gov. F. D. Roosevelt and the legislature that the investigation be extended to the Republican upstate. That probably will come on Friday when the Republicans, thus far unmoved by his charges, have passed the immunity bills and turned to other subjects.

Senator Dunnigan's speech was a carefully prepared indictment of the Seabury committee and for the first time sets forth fully Tammany opposition into the investigation.

It is more than an indictment, however, it is an open defiance of the committee and Gov. Roosevelt. The senator hurls the warning to the democratic governor and the Republicans that before this episode is ended they will receive a lesson that will not soon be forgotten.

Tammany Out in Open.

With this open declaration of its policy and purpose, Tammany threw away all disguises covering the politics involved in this tense and dramatic episode which has developed entirely in the Democratic party in this state.

Tammany is ready for a finish fight not only with the Seabury committee but with Gov. Roosevelt if the latter refuses to side with the investigation as now being conducted. There is little doubt here that Roosevelt and Tammany will come to the cross-roads and that the Roosevelt candidacy for President must be considered hereafter as secondary to the organization's interest and preservation.

Nothing without equivocation that it was speaking for the Democratic organization of New York, Mr. Dunnigan told the senate that his party is not trying to hide or protect crime. Tammany recognizes, as must any other citizen, that the corrupt official and the grafter is not only a public menace but is harmful to a political organization. The matter of self-preservation alone, he said, demands that the crook be driven out of office.

"Cheap Political Publicity."

Tammany's objection to the Hofstadter committee is not that it is trying to uproot crime and improve government, but that it is trying to smudge the Democratic party in the city by means of innuendo and insinuation and has degenerated into a "cheap political publicity bureau."

The committee has not yet revealed any crime or grafting in the city government and Mr. Dunnigan said in his opinion it would not, except of the small petty variety.

Contrasted with that ballyhoo method of investigation, Senator Dunnigan spoke at length of Comptroller Tremaine's inquiries into upstate counties and gives revelations of official wrongdoing. His conclusion was that if the Republican legislature and the Democratic governor are sincerely interested in running down grafters in public office they must turn the official investigation to the upstate cities.

Tammany Stand Clear.

That is Tammany's case and that is what it is going to stand on. Mr. Roosevelt must assist Tammany in every possible way to start the backfire against the Republican organization upstate or he must look elsewhere for help in his candidacy for the presidency. That has been hinted at and intimated in every move made here this week; today it is proclaimed openly and officially on the floor of the senate.

With the witness immunity question out of the way, the legislature will then turn its attention to unemployment relief, the second subject named by Gov. Roosevelt in his call.

DIVORCE CAUSE

FRANCES WHITE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Frances White, musical comedy actress, received virtually all the attentions of Fred S. Baker, bond firm executive, Mrs. Edna V. Baker, his wife, testified in Superior court here today in winning a divorce.

"My husband courted Miss White, and sent her flowers. In short, it was a case of infatuation," said Mrs. Baker. "I pleaded with him to stop his attentions to her but he disregarded me absolutely."

FIVE DAYS MORE OF CITY SIGHTS FOR TEXAS BOY

Two sun tanned boys from the Texas prairies scowled at each other in United States Commissioner Walker's court yesterday. The accused and accuser said not a word, but John [Jake the Barber] Factor's reputed $100,000 legal staff joined counsel for the crown of Great Britain in opposing the United States in a $35 auto theft case.

WOODROW WILSON RAMPY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The legal squabble ended with a five day continuance, giving the star witness, Woodrow Wilson Rampy, 17 years old, that much longer to amuse himself in the big city at the government's expense.

Entertained in Style.

Young Rampy arrived in Chicago Monday from Lubbock, Tex., with a letter from United States Commissioner Lindsey to Commissioner Walker asking the latter to look out for the Texas youth, who had never before been in a big city like Chicago. To Robert Dawes Ross, assistant to United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and nephew of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, was assigned the task of entertaining young Rampy. Other previous engagements interfered, so Mr. Ross solved the problem by calling the office of City Greeter George D. Gaw. Mr. Gaw's secretary enlisted the assistance of George Brumlik, assistant manager of the Hotel Sherman, and on Tuesday young Mr. Rampy was entertained like the King of Siam, with official motor car and everything.

The defendant, Wayne Rogers, also 17, is charged with renting a car from Rampy at Lubbock and driving it to Chicago. Attorney David D. Stansbury sought his dismissal on the ground that the complaint was not a certified copy.

Asks for Continuance.

Assistant United States Attorney Walter Wiles asked the five days to look up authorities. He expressed the opinion that the complaint was properly certified, and that if it were not the certification was not essential any way.

"I'm going to protect our rights on every technicality and fight this case as vigorously as if it were paying me a million dollars," said Stansbury.

"Your honor," said Wiles, "this is a serious case, and even if certain morbid publicity seekers have tried to make a mountain out of a mole hill I'm not prepared to treat it lightly."

Factor, the former Halsted street barber, who gave the defendant $50 with which to pay for the stolen car, was in court during the hearing, although his extradition case was not scheduled until the afternoon.

INQUEST SET FOR TODAY.

An inquest will be held today into the death of John T. McCauley, 35 years old, 710 West 76th street, who died suddenly in his home yesterday.

Wins for Governor

MARTIN S. CONNER.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Martin Sennett [Mike] Conner, lawyer-farmer, will move into the governor's mansion here next January. Conner, son of a saw mill owner, was winner in Tuesday's Democratic runoff election over Hugh L. White, millionaire south Mississippi lumberman, by 25,000 votes. Conner, an independent, will assume the office to be vacated by Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, leader of a faction that was turned down by the voters in both primary elections.

RIP TIDES DROWN TWO; RESCUE 53 AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Two deaths by drowning and fifty-three rescues were reported today with a return of the dangerous rip tides to the beaches of southern California. Life guards expressed fear of many drownings over the coming week-end when the intense heat drives thousands to the public beaches for relief.

A drop of three degrees from yesterday's maximum of 97, the highest of the year, provided only slight relief for Angelenos today. Discomfort was increased by humidity of 39 per cent, according to the weather bureau.

WAGON AND AUTO CRASH; BOY DIES, MOTHER INJURED

Collide on Street Blocked for Repairs.

A 6 year old boy was killed and his mother was critically injured yesterday when a horse drawn wagon collided head on with an automobile in which they were riding in the 3600 block on Archer avenue. The wagon tongue crashed through the windshield of the car and pinned the boy to the seat.

Rudolph Consiglio, 1102 South Hermitage avenue, was killed. His mother, Mrs. Louise Consiglio, 46 years old, suffered a fracture of the skull and was taken to the county hospital. Rudolph's brother, Joseph, 20 years old, who was driving, escaped injury.

How Crash Occurred.

The sedan in which the Consiglios were riding was going northeast. The wagon was moving slowly southwest in the path of a street car, the bell of which was clanging to get the wagon driver, Christ Kats, 5358 South Ashland avenue, off the tracks. To the right of the wagon the street was blocked for repairs. Confused, Kats turned to the left and directly into the path of the automobile. He was arrested by the Brighton Park police.

An unidentified woman, between 50 and 60 years old, was fatally injured last night when she was struck by a hit and run driver at Ashland and Ogden avenues. The alleged driver of the automobile, James Kucera, 22 years old, was captured by C. R. Vrana, 1519 West Adams street, when Kucera, with two others, tried to flee from the car. Kucera, who said he was not driving, was held by the Warren avenue police. His two companions escaped.

Vrana, who captured Kucera, told the police his mother had been killed by a hit and run driver eight years ago. He is unemployed and was returning home after looking for work when he caught Kucera.

These deaths and four others raised the toll for the year in Cook county to 747. The other victims:

A. R. Haven, 70 years old, 2315 Kent North, Seattle, Wash. Fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile at Glenlake avenue and Sheridan road. The driver, Mrs. Ethel Marqus, 1230 Loyola avenue, took him to the Edgewater hospital. Mr. Haven was visiting in Chicago.

Roy Domies, 10 years old, 1633 West 33d street. Crushed to death beneath the wheels of an automobile at Ashland avenue and 33d street when he attempted to cross in his coaster wagon. The driver of the car, Paul Sheridan, 5700 Elizabeth street, was not held.

Michael Minardi, 42 years old, 225 West 24th street. Died in the Mercy hospital. He was struck Tuesday at South Park way and 24th street by an automobile driven by Charles O'Reagan, 37 years old, 7303 South Marshfield avenue.

Earl Crouch, 7 years old, 3230 West 115th street. Died at the Little Company of Mary hospital, Evergreen Park, from injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was struck by an automobile at Kedzie avenue and 111th street. The driver, Henry McCage, 2720 Fulton street, was held.

Hoover Orders Inquiry Into Capital Police "Brutality"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A vigorous investigation of charges that the Washington police department has been guilty of third degree practices including extreme brutality was obtained today by Thomas D. Thatcher, solicitor general of the department of justice and acting attorney general.

The government inquiry was ordered immediately after President Hoover had arranged for a conference between the district commissioner and the justice department. The President acted after Luther R. Reichelderfer, president of the board of commissioners of the district, together with Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, had appealed to the President for aid at a conference last night.

Newspapers Feature Inquiry.

The action of the President in supplying federal aid to the district to curb one of the police practices which met with such severe condemnation at the hands of the Wickersham commission aroused reports that Mr. Hoover planned to wage a more active campaign against gangsters in the immediate future. No confirmation of this was available, however, at the White House.

All Washington newspapers today carried sensational headlines featuring the third degree inquiry. All other news, including the British financial crisis, has been subordinated to the latest developments including the entrance of the federal government into the inquiry. Some newspapers go so far as to say that sweeping investigation of the entire Washington police department is imminent.

Result of Suspect's Charges.

Commissioner Reichelderfer's fight for an investigation of the police department began last week following charges made by James Henry Harker, a robbery suspect, that he had been subjected to a brutal third degree examination at the hands of officers. Since Harker made his charges many others have been brought to the attention of the commissioner. One local paper, for the last two days, has printed signed statements by inmates of district penal institutions to the effect that they were beaten into confessions by police.

The official police department report on the Harker charges was submitted to Commissioner Reichelderfer today by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, chief of police of the district. While it notified Mr. Reichelderfer of the suspension of the policemen against whom Harker's charges were made, and recommended that they be tried before a board composed of men having no connection with the police department, it is understood that the commissioner was dissatisfied with it.

No decision had been made today as to whether the trial board which will hear the cases of the four policemen suspended on the Harker charge is to be made up of employes of the District of Columbia or of citizens not connected with the district government.

"Red Women," by Alec Waugh [Farrar and Rinehart].

IT IS one does not fall in love in a city in the same way that one does upon a liner or on Eden Rock. The same [illegible] will grow differently in different soils. And to a certain extent I have tried to show in this book, not how the Martinique woman is different from the Malay, or the English woman from the American, but how in different settings the same emotion will flow differently." Thus speaks Mr. Waugh about his more precisely than any one else could speak that it is more to the point to quote him than to try to paraphrase it.

"Red Women" is a combination travel book, book of adventure and novel. Its author is a great traveler for his far places, a lover of strange peoples, and a commentator on them. He is also a fiction writer and he sets down either a factual tale or a fictional one about all of the places which his pen traverses in this volume, and each story has to do with the love of man for woman—or woman for man.

The first is about an English woman and her slightly older, very settled husband and a young half caste West Indian with whom she falls passionately in love. It takes place on a boat to the West Indies and in the West Indies themselves, where she is going for a friend of her husband's to take the native life culminating with the Bal Lou-Lou which cures her of any idea about running away with her West Indian suitor. It is difficult to say whether it is more a story or a descriptive picture of the lazy, undemanding life at sea and the tense, active life on shore.

The second chapter tells of the strange spell which the Martinique women can cast when they care to—a spell of wakefulness, of illness, of death, in fact. "They have secrets that are dark to us," says a doctor in the story. "When they want to commit suicide they do not shoot themselves or cut their throats. They lie upon their beds and die. They can kill with alcohol or death upon their enemies."

Mr. Waugh retells the story which was told to him about an incompetent waitress from whose table he and his friend had departed against her will. The girl had been responsible for the lifelong chaining to the mast of her lover. Mr. Waugh and his companion, after not having slept, decided to go back to her table after leaving the title. "We had a thoroughly uncomfortable meal," he remarks. "But that night we slept."

The next story is about an ocean liner which included a strange, tight-mouthed Englishman who turned out to be a Don Juan choosing Panama as his geographical rendezvous.

There is a story of the reason why Polish women wear a white flower behind the left ear—a legend-romance, a Spanish tale of a Polynesian husband who put on the wrong coat and found himself possessed of a fortune with which he was able to revile his wife in the best champagne and in grandest manner.

"Mating" draws what Mr. Waugh says is a typical picture of the white woman's gestures toward love in the east.

"Pan" tells the story of a man in the tropics who said to himself when his life seemed over, "A woman saved you there; a woman kept you there. But it was a man's life which got down to it."

There is a grisly story of a white man who thought that he had leprosy.

The epilogue concerns a calm, lovely woman in Villefranche-sur-Mer, and in the rest of the book is about America—San Francisco, the middle west, New Orleans, and New York. In each of those geographical backgrounds Mr. Waugh either imagines or chronicles the facts of a romance. "San Francisco" is supposed to be a comment on the typical American woman's getting and keeping her man. The man in the story is an Englishman who fall in love with an American girl in his youth and, through extravagance and always keeping in debt, is unable ever to leave India and go back to England. Then he finally, in his sixties, breaks down from overwork, he finds that she has kept his nose worn off on the grindstone for his own good, because he is naturally lazy and, moreover, has had stones made of all the jewels he has ever given her and has salted away the money so that she can present him with a fortune. That, according to Mr. Waugh, is typical of the American woman. Well . . .

In [illegible] typical New York love story, he says: "I began to wonder whether the only way to write a New York love story would not be to make New York itself the central character, showing how the conditions of New York affect, regulate, and control the course of love." It is just that he writes what I quoted at the beginning of this piece. There's truth in them thar observations.

C-R-A-C-K-E-D
By Darrow and you and Darrow and me.

Produced by Universal.
Directed by George Cochran.
Presented at the Woods' Theater.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Honestly, you ought to go over to Woods'!

Whether you shout with the theory of evolution or against it, you can't fail to be engrossed in the pictorial treatise on the subject for which Clarence S. Darrow, famous criminal lawyer, is responsible.

"The Mystery of Life" is one movie that has in no way "gone Hollywood"; but is one of the most absorbing productions that has ever come out of Hollywood. It has no "it" and nary a bit of hokum. Of heart interest it is peculiarly free. As for subtleties—well, find them if you can among the amœbas, apes, bipeds, Java men and the mud from which these sprang. The picture's "punch" lies solely in Mr. Darrow's oral contribution, which consists of questions thoughtfully propounded and comment caustic, kindly, and informative addressed to Dr. H. M. Parshley, professor of zoölogy at Smith college. The latter answers the questions to the best of his ability and responds to the comment with instructive remarks of his own. You are given occasional glimpses of the two men holding this converse in a book-lined library.

Says the one time defender of Leopold and Loeb and the man who rooted for apes versus Adam in the famous Tennessee Scopes "monkey trial" re the activities of some bees discovered enthusiastically working together for a common weal:

"If they were men they'd sting each other." And, again, concerning the relationship between fossils and the crib:

"I know some fossils who act like crabs . . ." And so one. Nice! It brightens things up.

The movie starts out with the beginnings of the earth. You see the hot mass as it was after cooling into the mountains and waters all set for the business of the ages. From the mud life emerges, breathing through gills, laying eggs . . . Come the first mammals to be anatomically compared with man. You may not think you look like a horse and probably you don't, but peel you and the horse, stand horsie's skeleton next to yours and—you'd be surprised! You also will see the equine hoof as evolutionists believe it once was [a three-fingered business] and will note with interest if not with pride the resemblance between the ape and the Neanderthal or lowest form of man.

The picture, a fulfillment of an idea Mr. Darrow has had in mind for years, is an intelligently compiled work prepared for the consideration of thinking people. The dust lecture is simply delivered and compels attention. Continuity and photography are excellent. What should make a big hit is the fact that no attempt is made by Mr. Darrow to force his belief down the other fellow's throat—meaning yours and mine. He just tells you what looks reasonable to him and leaves you with a smile and the feeling that you and he have had a nice, comfortable, instructive powwow on a subject regarding which you are both ready to admit you really KNOW nothing.

I've been trying to decide—without result—why the censors have decreed this unusual production for "Adults Only." THEY are the mystery of life to me.

See you soon!

WALDORF-ASTORIA TO BE RUN FROM CLARIDGE'S, LONDON

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—For the first time two great hotels 3,000 miles apart shortly will be directly controlled by one man.

A farewell luncheon was given today for Commendatore Gelardi, general manager of Claridge's here, who is being "lent" for the first season of the new Waldorf-Astoria in New York, opening in October. He won't relinquish control of Claridge's while in New York, but will hold morning telephone conferences with the hotel staff in London.

Gelardi will return to Claridge's in November in connection with the opening of an extension and will shortly thereafter go again to New York.

144 Children Who Have Heart Disease Will Get Vacation

A group of 144 children sufferers from heart disease will leave Monday morning for a two weeks' vacation in the country, arranged by Mayor Cermak and Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive director of the Chicago Heart association.

The vacation will be in a camp adjoining the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium at 6601 North Crawford avenue, where portable shelters have been erected on a tract of city land for the use of the children.

The campers will be excused from the first four days of school when classes open next month, by order of Superintendent of Schools Bogan. He held that the outing would be of more benefit to them than the first few days of class work. A similar outing for other child cardiac sufferers was held last month at Camp Reinberg in the county forest preserves.

Lacon, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—This city, the seat of Marshall county, will observe its one hundredth anniversary with a one day celebration tomorrow. Over ten thousand visitors are expected. The city's early history will be depicted by a parade of floats. This city gave early promise as an industrial center, having at one time the largest meat packing plant west of the Allegheny mountains. This city also had two previous names, Strawn's Landing, and Columbia. The first land sites were bought by persons from Somerset, O. The land patents bore the signature of Andrew Jackson as President of United States.

Children Will Play as Parents Fight in Court

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—No longer will children have to sit in family court listening to their parents berating each other and telling reasons for marital discord. An alley in the rear of the court building was opened as a playground today, with a nurse in attendance, plenty of see-saws, and sand boxes, and a refreshment stand where the children will receive crackers and milk at noon. Twenty small boys and girls whose parents were in the court airing their family troubles used the improvised playground today.

Pope and Duce Near Pact on Youths' Career

To Divide Training Into Civil, Religious.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 26.—Negotiations for settlement of the row between the Fascist régime and the Vatican over the education of youth have reached a point that a definite announcement of the terms of settlement may be expected within two weeks, according to trustworthy Vatican sources tonight.

The settlement is said to be the result of the skillful maneuvering of Padre Tacchi Venturi, a Jesuit father, and friend both of Pope Pius XI. and Premier Benito Mussolini. Formulas have been reached through the clever definition of the respective spheres of influence and training of the Catholic Action society, on which depend the clubs which Premier Mussolini dissolved at the beginning of the summer, and of the national Balilla organization or Fascist institution for training youth.

This definition will provide that the Balilla organization has the exclusive prerogative of giving the youth of Italy physical and civic training, and preparing them for a career as Italian citizens, while the Catholic Action society, through its clubs, directly under the supervision of the bishops and the pope it will be charged with strictly religious education.

In this way the church will not be excluded from its share in education and at the same time it is expected that the Fascist party declaration of incompatibility of belonging to both the Catholic Action society and to the Fascist party organizations will be rescinded.

It is not known what form this agreement will take, or if it will be embodied in an amendment or alteration of the concordat. In any case it is held that by defining more accurately the respective fields of action of the Fascist institutions and the Catholic Action society the young people of both sexes may belong to both organizations without risking any conflict between their consciences and their patriotic allegiance.

Old Fashioned Men Are Shy of New Women

Some Yankees Prefer Styles of the Past.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Any American who has lived in Europe for some time must have encountered a number of male compatriots who, if they were bachelors, declare they would marry a European rather than an American woman, or, if they are married, declare that a second time they would marry a European.

Any woman of spirit wants more than equality; she wants domination. To secure it, she has a convenient means in the utilization of all the liberties of the new dispensation combinded with all the privileges which, to compensate inferiority, were accorded women by the old dispensation.

It makes little difference that in practical affairs the feminists have been taken at their word, that most business firms give women no better a break than men. The moment she steps out of an office, the woman resumes all the special prerogatives of custom, most galling of which is the right to insult with impunity. Has any man every found a woman who stood on the principle of absolute equality in an argument?

Among Americans more than any other people it is easy for women to establish their domination. The American man can be bludgeoned into helplessness by two reproaches—that of not "being a gentleman," and that of not being up with the times, of being a dead one. Thus both women's rights and chivalry have their innings, and can be used alternately.

Only in big cosmopolitan centers is there much evidence that the Frenchmen have let themselves be caught in this trap. Women are still kept, even where they have become most emancipated, under heavy legal liabilities, some of them oppressive. Still these help maintain the balance, and some of them, such as the property rights of a husband, can be made to work backwards to the man's disadvantage.

On farms the woman has her own sphere into which the man never intrudes; she is mistress of the kitchen, of the dairy, and of the poultry yard. More important, most women of the provinces are still married with a dowry.

With it the wife becomes her husband's associate in every sense of the term and has an equal voice in all affairs. The rights the dowry gives her are legally protected; she is likely to find herself despoiled only if her family were stupid, soft hearted, or negligent when the marriage contract was drawn up.

Milk Canners Hope for Medical O. K. on Product for Babies

Indication that a forthcoming issue of the Journal of the American Medical association would contain a report of the association's committee on foods, giving a ranking of parity for canned milk for all uses of milk including the feeding of babies was made yesterday by Frank E. Rice, executive secretary of the Evaporated Milk association, in its monthly meeting at the Blackstone hotel.

The session was attended by representatives of manufacturers comprising more than 90 per cent of the industry that last year in American plants produced 1,435,817,000 pounds of the evaporated milk, most of which was consumed in the United States.

The manufacturers yesterday voted to continue a campaign in home economics and medical magazines for another year in an endeavor to overcome prejudice against canned milk as compared to fresh milk for certain uses.

Fannie Hurst Says Reds Present a "Tourist Russia"

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Fannie Hurst, novelist, who returned today from two and one-half months spent abroad, said tourists in soviet Russia leave with a "machine stitched and fanciful version of the country," instead of a true picture.

Russia, Miss Hurst said, has opened its arms to tourists and crowds are being rushed through "tours" under guidance of the soviet travel agency. Tourists, therefore, leave with a version of Russia molded by what is shown them by soviet conductors of the party, she added.

"If you are over 22 in Russia you feel middle-aged and reactionary," she declared. "The youth of the country hears nothing except what it is fed through the soviet press and that is synthetic food. Pervading all of the youth there is a superb arrogance. It is a country where the old people belong to yesterday."

Courtney Barber May Head Brotherhood of St. Andrew

Prediction was made yesterday at the headquarters of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, 664 Rush street, that Courtney Barber, Chicago insurance man, will be elected national president of the Episcopal Brotherhood of St. Andrew at its triennial convention next week at Sewanee, Tenn. Mr. Barber is the national vice president of the order.

A caravan of automobiles left Chicago for Sewanee yesterday carrying the members of the Chicago delegation. The convention will represent the half million members of the brotherhood throughout the world. It was organized by the late James L. Houghteling at St. James' Episcopal church, Cass and Huron streets, 50 years ago. Bishop Herman Page of Detroit, former rector of St. Paul's church, Kenwood, will be the principal speaker at the convention.

Naval Cadets Back from Training Voyage to Europe

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Several hundred midshipmen scattered to their homes on a month's leave today at the end of the annual Naval academy training cruise to Europe. Nearly 1,000 of the future naval officers disembarked at dawn from the battleships Wyoming and Arkansas. About 300, however, it was announced, will remain aboard ship for a cruise to Halifax, because of the expense of visits to homes in distant sections of the country. About 75 others will remain at the academy for the same reason.

Two Railroads Get Space for Chicago's 1933 Fair

Contracts for exhibit space for the 1933 World's Fair were signed yesterday by presidents of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul and the Pennsylvania railroads. Although details have not been worked out, it was said the exhibits will emphasize the progress of railroading brought about by electrification, show how mountain streams are utilized for power to haul huge freight trains over the mountains, and depict scenic points of interest along the lines.

New Yorkers Cite Skyline to Their Critics

Some Reply Chicago's Has More Beauty.

BY TOM PETTEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The skyline of Manhattan is New York City's greatest ballyhoo. Every visitor is expected to rave about the town's skyscrapers. One may speak scornfully of its lack of parks, its grimy subways, its corrupt judges or even point a finger at its polyglot population, but its architecture must be praised. It approaches actual idolization of monumental piles of steel.

As a matter of fact, Manhattan's skyline is an esthetic disappointment to many visitors. Its architects today are beginning to wonder if they have not gone too far in their search for bizarre effects. One critic recently described the celebrated skyline as "a lot of architectural jesters erected to serve the exigencies of the hour."

Chicago's skyline is more beautiful than New York's for the reason that its buildings have individuality and beauty—and space between them. They are not huddled together like the pipes of a giant pipe organ. There is more freedom in building and less faddism in architecture in the western city. Its skyscrapers were built to fit a plan. In New York they are still trying to fit a plan to the skyscrapers.

The average New Yorker likes to swell with pride and point to the piles upon piles of floors in the setback buildings huddled together like tombstones in a crowded cemetery. In the congested part of Manhattan the buildings must grow smaller as they grow taller and after the first 250 feet they look like diminishing penthouses piled one on top of the other.

Nevertheless the New Yorker continues to swell to the bursting point and finally delivers himself of the inevitable statement that there is "nothing in the world like lil' ol' New York."

"Fortunately," mutters the visitor to himself.

The Empire State building—Manhattan's great god Buddha—is just a big building and, thanks to a "mooring mast" for passing dirigibles, the tallest in the world.

It seems necessary to the peace and contentment of the architects of this community to put a "crown" on every building they design—the Daily News building being one of the few that just grew up to the top and stopped. The American Radiator building is a black edifice with a gold crown; there is a great dome on the Grand Central building, and over between Eighth and Ninth avenues at 42d street they are putting the finishing touches on a bluish-green building with something that looks like a swimming tank to top it off. It is the McGraw-Hill building. Greenish black piers support it, its windows are separated by belts of blue green and light green bars of steel form the sashes.

The buildings along Fifth avenue for the most part are plain and ugly. There is nothing to approach the beauty of the Tribune Tower, the Wrigley building, or other of Michigan boulevard's well planned skyscrapers. For that matter, there is nothing in all New York to touch Michigan boulevard.

Despite all the ballyhoo about its skyline, Manhattan is composed of buildings with an average height of about five stories. Of the approximately 700,000 buildings of one kind or another in the entire city, only about 2,500 are more than ten stories tall. Only 200 are over 20 stories and there are exactly 89 skyscrapers [buildings of 30 stories or over] in the city.

The slipshod nature of most of the talk about New York's lofty buildings and the aerial city of the future is evident. If Manhattan island should be built to even a fifteen story level it would be so crowded the people would have to bring their food and beds to work with them and be buried in the basements.

Architecturally, New York City suffers when its topsy turvy mass is compared to a planned city like Chicago. It has its beautiful buildings—a lot of them—but nothing has been done and little ever can be done to give them a setting. The fault lies in the past.

Nowhere in the world are there more drear stretches of tumbling down bat roosts than in New York. The lower east side is a teeming rookery; the brownstone front—that monstrosity of the nineties—still lines the cross streets and drafty loft buildings are crowding Times square, which, for the most part, is surrounded by buildings too antiquated even to serve as loft buildings.

Such things mean nothing in the mind or life of the average New Yorker. His ears are not overly wide apart at the best. He knows where Roxy's movie palace is, but considers the Metropolitan museum a place for tourists. The library, an architectural mistake from its stone lions to pigeon-nested roof, is a spot to meet a friend.

300 Children Join in the School Board 'Mardi Gras'

Three hundred children, representing sixteen south side playgrounds, yesterday took part in the first of the four sectional mardi gras sponsored annually by the bureau of recreation of the board of education. The event was featured by a parade in 55th street between Ashland avenue and Wood street of floats depicting peace. Prizes were awarded to the playground with the best float and children most appropriately costumed.

Camp and Ice Funds Lagging; More Is Needed

A lull in the financial affairs of the Camp Algonquin fund and TRIBUNE free ice fund yesterday gave cause for concern to both funds. To have contributions stop short immediately after a publication because the camp fund had reached the $4,000 mark and the ice fund more than $2,600, gave the appearance that readers may feel enough money is already subscribed.

This is far from the case. Neither fund is rich enough to complete its task for the summer. The job of giving vacations to more mothers and children than ever before, and ice to more families because the last winter has left its mark on the poor, is by far a harder one this year. Thousands more pounds of ice run high in dollars and cents, just as the cost is increased in the giving of more vacations.

Only three weeks are left for the enjoyment of the Fox river camp, then the last tenement family will return to Chicago to face the coming winter. A little while longer for ice to be delivered. But the bill for a summer's service in both the camp and tenement homes will have to be paid. This is why TRIBUNE readers who in the past have been friends of the funds are asked not to forget them this year.

Newest Exercise Is Merely a Classic Shrug of Shoulders

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I heard the other day about a young woman ordering her fall suit and asking for a bit of padding in the shoulders. It's a long time since the girls have asked for that. But the rumor being that wide shoulders are wanted for the fall things, we'll probably hear more about shoulder padding. So, I'm going to try to beat the tailors to it and tell you how you can put a bit of real stuff in shoulder padding on you.

There is an amazing number of young women whose shoulders are without the flesh padding that an evening dress wants awfully! In afternoon or street dress, no one is much the wiser. But with only a strap for shoulder coverall at night you can't keep the region of skin and bone from survey.

I've just run across a peach of a shoulder exercise. It's been tried out by a young miss of 18. She's been working on and with it since April, to be exact. And her whole neckline, shoulder and bust line are immeasurably improved. Meanwhile, of course, she's been taking her doctor's advice about getting more milk, eggnogs, and olive oil into her system. But the exercise, nevertheless, has straightened her up and it has done quite a bit of filling in on the shoulder hollows.

I'd suggest that any of you girls who want to make your shoulders over do this. If your shoulders are too fat, you may do it, too. If the lower back of the neck is getting bunchy, by all means do it. But do it often. At first you'll feel sore a bit, or may be more than a bit.

It's so simple, maybe you won't believe it can do what I promise, but it will if you do it twenty times to start, gradually increasing to fifty high wide shrugs.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I. M. P.: CUT THE NAILS straight across. Don't try to round off the corners. Avoid shoes that are too narrow—and you will prevent ingrowing toenails.

D. P.: A GIRL OF 19, 5 FEET 6 inches, should weigh 131 pounds. A girl of 18, 5 feet 3 inches, should weigh 117 pounds.

Thrifty Courtship Often Results in Generous Husband

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Regarding the question of entertainment which the boy friend provides, here is 'just another case':

"The boy's business requires an automobile. His entertainment consists of automobile rides with a stop afterward at an ice cream stand. This has been going on for several months.

"The girl's friends think and say that the boy doesn't really love the girl if he doesn't provide a little more entertainment. Never a show, never a movie, never a flower or a piece of candy, or anything.

"The girl says she realizes that in these bad times the boy may not have the money—but her protests are growing weaker and weaker. She wonders what marriage will be with such a man, one whose 'beauing' is so unsatisfactory. The girl is beginning to lose her respect for the man. Her common sense says: 'He can't afford it.' And then she wonders, 'If he could, would he?' What do you say?"—Perplexed Ann.

I say, Ann, that you cannot always judge the future mate on his present spending ratio. I've seen men who, as suitors, seemed incredibly remiss on the spending for entertainment feature, but who, after marriage, played quite an opposite rôle. Maybe it was wifely cleverness. It is clever to make a husband spend and like it after he has shown symptoms of niggardliness, or shall we say, then, excessive thrift.

Also, the big spenders before marriage frequently turn out to be mean on providing for the home. So I don't think you can apply any hard and fast rules to the financial conduct during the courtship.

Man's usual desire is to spend to show his girl a good time and to show her that he can show her a good time. But it's a better man who hasn't it to spend who doesn't try to put up a bluff. If common sense dictates, "he can't afford it."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Don't Take Him Seriously.

"Dear Miss Blake: My fellow claims he loves me, but when marriage is spoken of he says he does not expect to get married. PAULINE."

He would have different ideas were he in love with you, Pauline. He should not stand in the way of other admirers.

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Joe Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved his cattle. School friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her brother, Ranse Brennan, partly on account of a new hand named Smith she hired against his permission and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged and swears revenge. Dunc Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, who killed Daggett's father. Dunc owned a nearby mine and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells Daggett he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leases a Mexican ranch and goes to the best there. Mrs. Doris Silver, a flirtatious friend of Lee's, goes on ahead to the Brennan ranches. Brennan drops in on her just before Jack Hadley, who has been sent by Lee, arrives. Hadley drives to Palo Duro for supplies and takes Doris with him. They become off and is abducted and Hadley has to fight several natives to rescue her.

INSTALLMENT X.

JACK IS FORGIVEN.

Doris sank down on the bed and wailed.

But Hadley spent no time in comforting her. He went to the window and threw it open. He caught a spread from the bed and tied one end around her waist. Hand over hand he let her down as far as he could before releasing her. She dropped into a flower bed. In a moment he was beside her.

She swayed. "I'm faint," she told him. "I—I—I can't—"

He neither comforted nor argued. What he did was to slap her cheek smartly.

"None of that," he ordered roughly. "This is serious business."

Grabbing her wrist, he started to run. They came to a lane and turned toward the street. Shouts drifted to them. Looking to the left, Hadley could see a man craning out of the window from which they had just dropped. He knew pursuit was on. A man came to a door and shook a fist. A second one called as though to stop them and thought better of it. Without stopping the first man snatched from him his heavy walking stick.

They reached the car at the same time as a man in uniform came running down the street. The officer flung a spurt of Spanish at Jack and barred his way into the car. It was no time for argument. He swung the walking stick and brought it down on the head of the policeman. The hands of the officer dropped. He swayed, then staggered across the sidewalk to collapse against the wall.

Jack pushed Doris into the car and clambered over her. Fortunately he had not removed the key. He turned on the ignition switch, put his foot on the starter, and let in the clutch.

Some one leaped on the running board and demanded that he stop. The car shifted to second and then to high, swung around the corner, and increased its speed. He was on a narrow side street.

For the first time he found leisure to attend to the incubus clamped to the footing board. As Jack's left hand crossed in front of his body swiftly to the man's chin he slumped down and slid into the street.

Two minutes later Palo Duro lay back of them.

It was no time for argument.

"Our luck certainly stood up fine," he presently said cheerfully, slacking the pace a little for a series of bumps. "All the way. Lucky I got up when I went into town instead of waiting. Lucky I parked where I did. Those fellows didn't have guns and the cop didn't think of drawing one till it was too late. Every break came our way."

No answer from Doris, unless a deep sob was one. Big tears rolled down the baby blue eyes. She was, he guessed, feeling sorry for herself.

"What's the matter, lady?" he asked. "You were looking for an adventure and you've surely had one."

"I'll never forget it," she wailed. "Never as long as I live. They—and me. One of them carried me upstairs and held his dirty hand over my mouth to keep me from screaming. He smelled of garlic . . . or something. It was horrible."

There was a flash of sardonic mirth in his eye, the one that had not closed. He had barely escaped with his life and she from agony worse than death—and what impressed her was that one of the ruffians smelled of garlic.

"You struck me—in the face," she charged, and again her eyes were filled with tears.

"Treatment recommended by the best doctors," he defended. "I couldn't keep you fainting on my hands just then."

"You didn't have to hit me. You could have talked to me." The indignity of what she had endured flamed up in her. "And you don't even apologize. Are you used to striking women, Mr. Smith?"

He looked at her and laughed. It was as though he found in the situation some source of amusement hidden from her. This made her furious.

"Very well," she said with cold dignity. "Since you think it's funny to laugh at me. Since you're so far from being a gentleman."

For as much as ten minutes she said nothing. Then she spoke in a cold, contrite voice. "I'll forgive you if you ask me pretty please."

"All right." He grinned. "I'm sorry I had to hit you."

She put a hand to her soft cheek. "Did you leave a mark?"

"Ya. Shall I kiss it to make it well, muchacha?" He made of the drawling word almost a caress.

"Please."

His cut lips touched lightly her cheek. "Must be a good deal like being kissed by a gargoyle," he suggested.

Her eyes passed over him. Bruised and battered and gory though he was, he was still a prince of vagabonds. The bare arms and shoulders showed long rippling muscles lithe as those of a panther. She thought she had never seen a head set so gracefully on a finer neck column. He was one of those rare men who strip well. A hot flash passed through her. He had fought for her, against overwhelming odds.

Tenderly she put her hands on that hammered head and drew it to her. Gently, very softly, the closed eye, the bruised cheek, and the cut lips.

"Account squared," he said gayly. I'll have to hunt up some more debts to put you in my debt again.

She preferred to keep him a creditor. "I'll be in your debt forever and ever," she said fervently.

For the first 20 miles Hadley kept going. He did not know whether there would be any pursuit, but he did not want to take any chances.

Then he drew up on the edge of a brook. "Ten minutes for repairs," he announced.

The cool water was very soothing to the fevered face and body. When he returned to the car he was a less grewsome individual, though he still looked much the worse for wear.

At sight of her battered vaquero the girl's brown eyes opened wider. She did not ask any immediate questions. None were necessary. Doris flung herself upon her with exclamatory explanations.

"Darling! Darling! The most awful thing happened. You would never believe it. Some brutes lured me into a house. They said they had some lovely horses to sell. They carried me upstairs. I couldn't even scream. I nearly died of fear. Then Jack came . . . and fought them . . . and got me out. And afterward he knocked down some more men . . . and brought me home."

Lee looked at Hadley. She had listened to her friend's exaggerations long enough to accept her version of any occurrence at face value.

The young man grinned. "That's about the way it was," he agreed.

"Yes."

"And you had to fight to rescue her? How many of them?"

"I was too busy to take a census."

"There were eleven," Doris said promptly.

"Eleven," echoed Lee. "You fought eleven men. What with?"

"With a chair and a beggar's stick and whatever else came handy. But I don't think there were eleven. I'd guess eight or nine."

"Not eight or nine of them. Good heavens! No wonder they nearly killed you. I don't understand how you got away. Doesn't seem possible."

"Luck," he told her jauntily. "We were on a patio balcony, and while we were waltzing around the rail broke. Four or five of them went down with it. We got the gentlemen by surprise and they didn't have much room to maneuver. We got all jammed together in a huddle. By the way, I didn't get the rascalities. Some were in the car, but the last lot I couldn't wait for."

"I should think not. You must be all in. Better let me do some first aid, unless Doris is handy about it."

Bright Sayings of the Children

Jack, aged 5, a regular visitor, came over to tell me about the children's picnic. While opening a box of chocolate candy I asked if he had had plenty of ice cream and cake to eat.

With eyes fixed on the box, he replied: "Yes, but I had no chocolate candy."

M. M. G.

Marion looked at the dessert in silence for a moment, and then, pushing it back, remarked: "I'll wait till it freezes!"

Carolyn Walker Is Engaged to W. M. M'Coy

BY THALIA

MRS. JAMES A. FIELD of 10 East Schiller street announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Carolyn Walker, to W. Milton McCoy of New York City and Sheridan, Wyo.

The foregoing announcement, of wide interest in Chicago, is relayed from Mrs. Field, who is at Fish Creek, Wis., for the summer. Miss Walker is descended from one of the city's most prominent pioneer families. She is the daughter of the late Judge Charles M. Walker and the niece of the late William Ernest Walker and the late Dr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker. She is the niece and namesake of the late Mrs. William J. Goudy of London, and the countess of Portsmouth (Marguerite Walker) and Mrs. Malcolm Moncrieffe are also her aunts.

Miss Walker made her debut at a dance given by her sister, Mrs. John Paul Welling, at the Caddie and Cycle in the fall of 1920, having been graduated from Vassar the previous June. She studied dancing under Michio Ito, and made a professional debut as a dancer in New York City. I remember seeing her give a delightful program of dances at the old Woman's Athletic club several years ago. Later, because of the strenuous demands on her health, she was forced to give up the dancing, and I understand she became an associate editor of Harper's Bazaar. She resides at 230 East 71st street in New York. No date for the wedding has been announced.

Jeanette Peterkin's Studio at Lake Geneva "Deserted."

Jeanette Peterkin's little vine covered studio in the Peterkin garden at Lake Geneva has been unoccupied most of the summer, and her implements have lain idle while their owner has been dashing about over the country for visits here and there. She returned last week from a stay at Woods Hole, Mass., and went immediately up to Charlevoix to spend a few days with Dorothy Moorehead. She leaves again this week for New Mexico and a longer stay at the William B. Greenlees' ranch at Abiquiu. She'll probably spend a little more time in September at Lake Geneva, as her parents, the Daniel Peterkins, are keeping Oak Lodge tenanted until Oct. 1.

We understand . . . that the Cecil Barneses and their trio of sons, Edward, Benjamin, and Cecil Jr., have concluded their "grand tour" of Europe and are aboard the S. S. Resolute bound for home. . . . that Mrs. Alexander F. Stevenson and Miss Mary Stevenson landed in New York City the other day after their European trip . . . that Mrs. George R. Nichols Jr. plans to take a European trip this fall . . . that Mrs. Nevins Johnson will, too . . . and that Miss Leslie Thorne, who has been with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thorne, on a cruise on their new yacht, the Halonia, is now with her brother and sister-in-law, the Hallett Thornes, in Winnetka.

Winifred J. Cagney Is Married to Charles Mather-Smith II.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Jay Turner of 1129 Pratt boulevard announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Winifred Jane Cagney, to Charles Mather-Smith II., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Mather-Smith of Highland Park and Florida. Miss Cagney is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Cagney. She is a graduate of the Sacred Heart convent at Lake Forest. The ceremony took place in the rectory of the Holy Name cathedral last Saturday morning and was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Blackstone for members of the immediate families. The bride and groom are motoring to Florida and will fly to Cuba. They are to be at home Oct. 1 at La Casa Encantada at Oakland, Fla., where Mr. Mather-Smith is to look after his father's interests.

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Putnam to Edward B. Fish, son of Mrs. Charles King Corsant, is to take place at Dr. and Mrs. Corsant's summer place, Chedna farms at Big Bay, Mich., on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 5. Bishop Hayward S. Abelwhite of the Episcopal church is to perform the ceremony at 4 o'clock. Mr. Fish and his bride are to occupy one of the cottages on the farm.

Miss Huntington Sets Her Wedding for October 10.

Miss Solace Huntington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Gwynne Huntington of Columbus, O., and Robert Willett Wales, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitwell Wales of Winnetka, have set Oct. 10 as the date of their marriage. The ceremony, of course, will be held in Columbus, and the groom's sister, Miss Betty Wales, will be one of the bride's attendants. The other members of the wedding party have not yet been selected. Miss Huntington returned to Columbus last week after a visit with her fiancé and his family, and Mr. Wales has gone to Beverly Farms, Mass., to continue his work as secretary to Justice Holmes of the United States Supreme court. He will join his father in the law firm of Miller, Gorham & Wales in the fall, and after their marriage he and his bride will reside in Chicago or one of the north shore suburbs.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Time was passing rather slowly, and the guests had fallen back on the old time diversion of looking over photographs.

"What a pretty girl!" I exclaimed of one I came to. "How I would like to meet the original."

"That is easy," said my hostess, rather stiffly. "I sat for the likeness about a year ago." A. H.

Velveteen Wrap Last Word in Paris Chic.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—As far as the eye could reach during the last week of the Paris social season, the smartest women were wearing velveteen wraps, long or short, over their frocks at all the fashionable daytime events.

To a wrap the velveteen jackets and coats worn by the elect here are dark in color, though they are usually worn over white or pale frocks. Being made of cotton the velveteen wrap is comfortable on hot days, and it looks quite appropriate when the wind turns acid and cold.

One of the velvet wrap ensembles of smart Paris is shown in our sketch today. It is from Molyneux and has a simple jacket of dark red velveteen worn over a frock of palest dusty pink. The combination is too stunning to describe in mere words.

The jacket, as you can see, is tailored in line with a mannish collar and revers, and has a set-in velveteen belt. The cuffs that finish the straight sleeves are made of pink crêpe romaine to match the dress.

The dress has a simple waist with long sleeves. A bias band circles the round neckline and ends in a double jabot in front.

At the waistline there is a belt of self material, and the skirt is flared by four set-in panels. These panels are cut in one piece with the deep hip yoke, which is crossed surplice fashion at the front and back.

Sally Tells Address of Hall for Her Show Party This Afternoon

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Here's an important notice to all the boys and girls who are to attend the party this afternoon. In the invitations, which were sent to you, the address of Shotwell hall, where the performance is to be given, was northeast corner of Harper avenue and 55th street. It should have read northeast corner of Blackstone avenue and 55th street.

I hope you are all prepared for a marvelous time for that's just what we're going to have. Morisse Wagner, director of Mobet's Puppets, has been busy getting her characters in form and we expect them to put on a good presentation of "Rumpelstiltskin." I trust that nothing will happen to prevent your coming.

This morning I shall select my guests for our party at the Oriental theater next week and I hope that every boy and girl in Chicagoland who loves an exciting picture and is a real race horse enthusiast has his or her letter written, posted, and on its way to me by this time. It will be a glorious picture and the hundred boys and girls who win invitations to see it may look forward to a thrilling day in the theater. The names of the winners will be published in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE.

MOVIE GOSSIP

(Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Aug. 26.—An attempt of Constance Bennett, Warner Brothers star, to take the same boat for New York incognito as Gloria Swanson's marquis failed yesterday before the observant eyes of newspaper men who were watching the boat train leaving for Le Havre.

They came sprinting down to St. Lazare station platform at the last moment. The marquis, who is known as Hank to his friends, was dressed in the usual gray flannels, while Miss Bennett was togged out in a smart tweed suit.

Confronted by THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent's remark, "I suppose you are merely saying good-by to the marquis since your name is not on the passenger list," Constance said she was taking the same boat, the liner Paris. "I must rush back to Hollywood and start work on another film. Business matters are calling the marquis, so he is coming along," she declared.

They both indignantly refused to discuss the question of marriage.

The marquis, from whom Gloria gets her decree of divorce next November, has been riding around in Connie's Hispana-Suiza showing her Paris.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Hollywood has decided definitely not to screen the novel, "Queer People," which lampoons the film colony. Producer Howard Hughes, asserting he had spent "more than $100,000" on a projected film story of the book, said today he thought it would "provide excellent entertainment" for the movie public, but that plans for a picture had been indefinitely suspended "because of inability to obtain satisfactory players."

Definite Knowledge Will Always Be Best Protection of Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

What an advance we have made in some ways with our children. Think of the old "delicate" days when children were taken into a garden and told how their mothers found them under a rosebush, or in the heart of a cabbage, or how the stork brought them.

And then think of this told to me by a father: "I have a son who's started a sort of club for boys around eleven years old. He's a boy around eleven himself, but the other day he went to his mother, very worried.

"'Mother,' he said, 'I don't know what to do about Ted. He thinks babies are found in lilies and you beat it! His mother told him—isn't that silly? Somebody ought to wake him up out of that fairy tale stuff and tell him straight. I would, but maybe his mother wouldn't like it. But some day somebody'll tell him some of this mixed-up stuff you know, what boys pick up. Lilies! It's silly, isn't it?—but it sort of bothers me, too, for him to believe such bunk.'"

So we're getting on with our young ones. But what occurred to me as I listened was that in addition to seeing that our children's questions are answered and that they have the information they need, we should also at some time give them what might be called a protection talk.

Such a conversation as the above would lead up to it, or one could make a similar beginning. Then just explain simply that some parents think their children can't understand about babies and such things and believe in waiting until they're almost grown up to tell them. Go on to say that as a result lots of boys and girls get curious ideas, sometimes even unpleasant ones. And that, if your children should hear what seems strange and new, to tell you about it so you can straighten them out. Your own variation on this to fit your own child might be a rather concrete help to a child.

We know that wise sex education is its own armor—still a suggestion like this may be an added insurance of wholesome knowledge.

Parents and nurses of young children will find helpful suggestions in our leaflets, "Don't Touch," which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Food Talk.

Friday seems to be, universally, a day on which to serve fish, and it provides me with an excellent opportunity to emphasize again the importance of this food in our daily or weekly diets. The digestibility of fish—its great economic value as well as its nutritive value—inspire me to persuade you to give more attention to it than most of you now are.

Many women buyers err in the purchasing of seafood because they are unable to recognize a fresh cod, halibut, or perch, as the case may be. Look for bright red gills, bright, bulging eyes, firm flesh which leaves no finger impressions—and don't accept a fish which floats when it is placed in water. If you are unable to trust your own judgment, buy from a dealer whom you know to be reliable.

Our subject for today, the haddock, is a close relative of the cod. It may be had the year around, though it is found in abundance in the summer along the Atlantic coast, particularly off the shores of Massachusetts. Like the cod, the haddock is the dry meated variety with but little oil in its muscle. The flesh is white and firm.

When the haddock is not obtainable fresh, buy the salted or frozen fish, and you will find you have a most acceptable substitute. It is an interesting fact, too, that fresh haddock has a food value of 159 calories per pound, while salted, dried, or smoked haddock has a food value of 290 calories per pound.

In the curing process the fish loses a large percentage of water by extraction, and the remainder is almost all food. But, if you have to count calories, eat the fresh haddock!

TURKISH PILAF

3 lbs. stewed beef. ½ teaspoon onion juice.
1 can tomatoes.
2½ cups boiled rice. Salt and pepper.
¼ cup butter.

Grind the meat and mix with the other ingredients. Bake in a buttered dish in a moderate oven [350 F.] 25 to 30 minutes.

SPANISH MEAT BALLS.

1 chopped onion.
1½ lbs. chopped round steak.
1 egg.
Salt to taste.

Cook the tomato and onion together. Mold the meat, bread, and egg into small balls. Salt and then cook in the tomato for three-quarters of an hour.

Look at these VALUES then ask yourself:

Wouldn't it be a thrill to start out on that Labor Day drive with a new set of handsome, safe, trouble-free Goodyears on your wheels?

Wouldn't it be a comfort to know you are going into the fall and winter motoring season with the best tire equipment on your car that money can buy?

Of course it would! Why don't you do it? You can afford it—with prices as low as these listed here, mileage is selling cheaper now than ever before.

If you have any doubt about this, just remember that for 16 years it has been a fact that "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

Again, a great and unbiased public institution recently completed a nation-wide survey, asking American car owners "What tire is best?"

The vote, uninfluenced in any way, shows a preference for Goodyears nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

It takes a great tire—an outstanding tire—to win public approval in this decisive fashion; it takes the kind of tire you would like to own.

You can have that tire, at no extra price, if you'll guide your buying with the simple question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It was a game made to order for those 35,000 ladies' day fans who turned out to Comiskey park yesterday to see the Yanks bid farewell for the season and don't forget that the big event of the day was the realization by the Sox and that the Sox had beaten the mighty Yankers, 8 to 5, thus preventing the proud visitors from making a clean sweep of their 11-game season series on the south side.

The game contained every element required to please a big home crowd. There was early ecstasy when the Sox made two runs in the first inning without the aid of a hit. There was joy when the Yanks were deprived of their potential first run, Babe Ruth was deprived of a hit, and a rally was halted because Rhodes failed to touch third as he dashed home on a single smack to right by Ruth.

Ruth didn't get credit for the hit because technically it became a force out when alert Billy Sullivan chased for the ball and stepped on third base the putout after Rhodes had gone into the dugout with what he thought was the first Yankee run.

Gals' Spirits Revive.

The gals didn't like it when, in the sixth, Chapman scored the first New York run, but spirits were revived when the inning ended with a nifty double play and Old Red Faber won the ending, 2 to 1.

There was deep, dark gloom when Lazzeri walked in the seventh, stole to second on a sacrifice, stole third and then after he had been trapped cold between third and home, scored the tying run because Sullivan's throw hit him in the back.

And you can imagine how some of the girls felt when the Yanks made it right on for a 2 to 2 lead in the remainder of that seventh, sad especially because up till that time the Sox had made a total of two singles off Rhodes.

Sox Put on a Big Inning.

Then came the big Sox session. Benny Tate opened up with a double to left and Fothergill batted for Faber. Lazzeri fumbled Reynolds' grounder, so Tate was safe at third and Fothergill was on first. Then Rhodes drove his No. 13 triple of the year right out there between Ruth and Combs, and Tate and Fothergill sauntered home. The score, Sox 3, Yanks, 2.

In came Henry Johnson, a cons

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

LOUIS KAPLAN, a former feather-weight champion, whipped Sammy Mandell, a former light-weight champion, in every one of the ten rounds in their bout at Hartford, Conn., Monday night.

How many more trimmings will it take to convince Mandell he is at the end of the road?

SAMMY MANDELL.

After Singer stopped the one time Rockford Flash in the first round at the Yankee stadium a year ago Sammy decided to retire from the ring. He said he had saved enough frogbacks to live in comfort the rest of his life. Later he yielded to offers for comeback bouts against small fry. He said he felt he still had something on his gloves and wanted only two or three tests to prove it.

Sammy has had eight or ten tests. They have served to convince everybody except himself that he no longer is the Sammy Mandell who brought thousands to their feet at Chicago Stadium, the Coliseum, Aurora and East Chicago.

This department has been singing the Mandell Blues for almost two years. He has been slipping nearly that long. The last impressive performance he turned in was against Tony Canzoneri in defense of his title in August, 1929. He shook off a couple of terrific wallops in the second round of that battle and went on to win one of his greatest victories.

Since then his work has been spotty and mediocre. Fellows out on the tank town circuits have been hitting him with right hands too frequently. Three years ago they couldn't have laid a glove on him.

Mandell's success was built upon speed. Speed is something a boxer has less of with each passing year, also with each added pound. At 135 pounds Mandell was one of the fastest and most skillful workers the ring has known. At 143, his present weight, he is just a guy in there trying to get along. He may be as clever with his fists as he was when he was making monkeys out of the leading fighters of his day, but you can bet all the furniture factories in Rockford that his legs aren't what they used to be.

Had Sammy retired with that one round knockout he suffered at the hands of Singer his passing would have been dramatic, like his rise to the heights. The route he has chosen is funereal.

NIGHT BASEBALL FAILS?

The problem of getting the boys out of the speakeasies into the bleachers is giving the minor league baseball magnates a lot of concern. Dale Gear, president of the Western league, was quoted the other day to the effect that night baseball had lost its appeal. It was his opinion that something had to be done soon or most of the minor league clubs would have to close their gates. Similar expressions have been made by leaders in the Three Eye and Mississippi Valley circuits.

A year ago night baseball was hailed as the salvation of the game in the smaller cities. In fact, some of the major league owners looked upon the innovation with mild enthusiasm. They contended that if Maurice Chevalier could entice the old man to leave his home to visit the cinema after a long day at the office, then Babe Ruth's diamond exploits would not leave him unmoved.

But there now is evidence that the old man has decided a high ball at night has nothing to do with a putout or assist. He prefers his baseball in the sunlight.

JUST A SUGGESTION.

Carl Reynolds is said to be the fastest runner on the White Sox club. Kiki Cuyler of the Cubs is regarded one of the speediest in the National league.

Suggestion has been made for a match race between Reynolds and Cuyler as an added attraction at the Cubs-Sox 100 per cent charity game at Comiskey park Sept. 9.

Seat Sale for Sox-Cubs Game to Open Today

The demand for premium boxes for the charity baseball game between the Cubs and the Sox Sept. 9 has been exceptionally large. However, a large block of reserved seats in the upper deck are still unsold.

All the box tickets remaining after the premium boxes have been selected will be placed on sale at Wrigley field, Comiskey park and The Hub at 9 a. m. today. Prices for all tickets in the advance sale will be $1.50.

"General admission tickets will not be sold at this time. An announcement covering these tickets will be made later.

If the game cannot be played Sept. 9, the alternate date is Sept. 24, and in the event the game cannot be played on either these two dates, the proceeds from the ticket sale will be turned over to the joint emergency relief fund.

RUSH SUN BEAU HERE TO RACE IN LINCOLN STAKE

BY FRENCH LANE.

He is scheduled to arrive shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and will go immediately to Lincoln Fields, where there is a matter involving $25,000 awaiting his attention.

It has to do with the renewal of the Lincoln handicap on Saturday afternoon. The race carries an added money purse of $25,000. Old Sun Beau, with winnings of $334,044 to his credit already, is evidently developing a passion for gold.

Bad News to Owners.

He couldn't resist the chance to pick up this $25,000 in a week-end visit here, then hurry back to Saratoga Springs early next week to take a crack at the mighty Twenty Grand in the Saratoga Cup at a mile and three-quarters on the following Saturday afternoon.

Announcement that Willis Sharpe Kilmer, the Binghamton, N. Y., sportsman, was sending Sun Beau here for the Lincoln handicap just a week ahead of his Saratoga Cup engagement came totally unexpected and surprised racegoers throughout the country. The news was hailed with cheers by the thousands at Lincoln Fields, who like to see the stout hearted and famous son of Sun Briar run. It brought grief and dismay to the owners of some 15 other candidates for the rich race, for with Sun Beau out the Lincoln promised to develop into a wide open affair.

Now it appears to be old Sun Beau against the field. He must be at the very top of his condition or he would not have been sent here on such short notice.

Sun Beau must carry 129 pounds in the Lincoln. This is two pounds less than he had up when Plucky Play beat him a length and a half in the recent Hawthorne handicap. But in that race Plucky Play carried only 106 pounds. So he had a pull of 25 pounds in weight.

As Plucky Play on Saturday must shoulder 114 pounds, Sun Beau will be giving him only 15 pounds in this encounter. Bargello and Paul Bunyan are other high weight carriers in the Lincoln, Bargello packing 115 and Paul Bunyan, 113. This is the best break in the weights Sun Beau has gotten this year and he is sure to rule an overwhelming favorite.

Neither Kilmer nor Trainer Whyte would announce the name of Sun Beau's jockey for the Lincoln. C. Phillips rode him when he was beaten in the Hawthorne handicap. Many persons blamed Phillips' ride for the old champion's defeat.

Connie Mack

The Life Story of Baseball's Grand Old Man

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—How any one could have foreseen a moderately prosperous future in the new profession of baseball when Connie Mack left home to join the Meriden, Conn., club as a meat-hand catcher in 1884 is something that Connie himself, with a long backward glance to that day is unable to explain now. Probably he foresaw no better future than a year or two or three of fairly gainful employment at a job that was play to him. If baseball shouldn't amount to much, he could go back to his bench in the shoe factory, but for the time being he was young and if the customers would pay him wages for playing a game that he would have been glad to play in his leisure time for fun, then he could spare them a few summers.

BAN JOHNSON.

There were no separate sport sections in the newspapers then, as the brittle pages in the old files attest, and the ball players pursued their work in such a state of obscurity as would amount to a journalistic boycott of the game today. In fact, there was still some indecision as to how baseball should be played.

It had just been decided that the pitchers should be allowed to throw with a free arm motion, delivering the ball from a level with the shoulder, probably the most important single departure from the original rules ever permitted. Up to this time the pitchers had been restricted to a cramped and false style of delivery, flipping the ball from the hip at the top of the arc of the swing. Now, in recognition of the fact that few pitchers could get the ball away with more than just enough carry to reach the plate, the magnates decided to let the pitchers haul off and throw,

Connie Was Playing When White Established Curve.

But even so, a few exceptional pitchers of the old style had learned to spin the ball into plainly perceptible curves and the game had had the advertising benefit of a learned controversy on the proposition that a moving body with no power of its own could be made to deviate to the right or left. One professor had held that it couldn't be done and had explained just why, calling the curve an illusion. Another went into ballistics to prove that it could be done, and finally, in a practical demonstration on a surveyed course in Cincinnati, Will White established the curve ball as a fact by bending several pitches around a stake.

Connie was not a meat-hand catcher in the literal sense, for Spalding and several other pioneers, with a resourcefulness that seems to have amounted to something less than sheer genius, after much suffering had hit upon the notion of wearing a kid glove, reinforced in some cases with cloth pads inserted in the palm.

So, although Connie's accouterments were by no means as comforting as the armor catchers clatter around in now, he was better insulated than the catchers of a few years before. And the catchers, thus emboldened, were inching up toward the plate from their traditional position far enough to take the ball, somewhat cooled off, on the first bounce. They were beginning to catch the ball rather than field it and Connie came up at a time when his job behind the bat presented great opportunity to experiment and refine the technique.

Connie Was a Slicker—He Manufactured Trick Fouls.

The rules still conceded that for a catcher to grab and hold a foul tip warm from the bat was something in the nature of a miracle, indicating how naïve the catching had been up to then. And Connie Mack, as his first contribution to the new art, developed a trick of patting his little glove with his right hand at the precise instant when a hitter swung and missed, thus counterfeiting the sound of a foul tip. The umpire, standing behind the plate, would call the hitter out, and the only trouble with young Mr. Mack's invention was that it worked too well. The magnates decided that if it was so easy to catch foul tips they had better reduce the reward for catching them. So the

MISSES VAN WIE, BEEBE ADVANCE IN WOMEN'S GOLF

Miss June Beebe of Olympia Fields, western open champion, defeated Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., one up in the second round of the Women's Western golf championship tournament at Exmoor yesterday, in the closest match of the day.

Mrs. George W. Tyson of Kansas City, the defending champion came through easily, defeating Miss Ann Webster, Kansas State champion, 3 and 1, and Mrs. O. S. Hill, trans-Mississippi champion, also of Kansas City, triumphed, 6 and 4, over Rena Nelson, Exmoor. She will meet Mrs. Tyson in a quarter final match today. In the upper bracket Miss Virginia Van Wie, Beverly, and Mrs. Charles Dennehy, Onwentsia, won their second round matches and will meet today.

By eliminating Mrs. Roy Green, Glendale, Cal., Mrs. Leona Pressler, Los Angeles, heading the lower bracket, became the only Californian left in the tourney. She meets Miss Helen MacMorran, Indian Hill, today. Mrs. John Arends, a former Chicagoan now representing Detroit, was taken to the 19th green yesterday before she won from Mrs. Austin Pardue, Indian Hill. Mrs. Arends is paired with Miss Beebe today.

All Square at Turn.

In the Wall-Beebe match Miss Wall gained an advantage at the second hole when Miss Beebe three-putted. Both had birdie fours on the third and pars on the next four holes. On the eighth both shot into the rough for the first time, but Miss Beebe laid her approach up to within six feet of the pin. She dropped the putt squaring the match. Par threes at the ninth made them all even at the turn. Both had pars on the next two holes, Miss Beebe continuing with another par on the twelfth to take the lead.

At the 13th Miss Wall's tee shot fell into the water, but her third was an excellent approach to within 15 feet of the pin and she negotiated a difficult downhill putt for a four to halve the hole. At the 14th Miss Wall trapped her tee shot and took three to reach the green, permitting Miss Beebe to go 2 up. Miss Wall's birdie four on the 15th, however, cut her lead to one hole. Both shot par on the 16th and 17th, and they came to the 18th with Miss Beebe dormie 1.

Putt Beats Miss Wall.

Each drove a second shot up to the green for short approaches. Miss Wall's next shot stopped three feet past the pin. Miss Beebe tried a run up shot which stopped 9 feet short of the pin. Miss Wall tried valiantly to hole the putt and carry on to the 19th hole, but the ball rimmed the cup and remained out. Miss Beebe

BRUINS BATTLE 12 INNINGS FOR SECOND VICTORY

Malone and Bush Winning Pitchers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—The Cubs were out for the blood of their ancient enemy today and they got it. First they sent the Giants spinning back by 4 to 3 before a brilliantly pitched effort by Pat Malone. Then they tore loose with all the dramatics in the book.

They were apparently hopelessly beaten until the eighth inning of the second game, when they rallied. They were still one shy of a tie. Manager Hornsby, in the rôle of pinch batter, supplied that highly valuable run with a homer in the ninth. And then the fight went on to the twelfth, when the Chicagoans pounded Freddie Fitzsimmons and scored enough to win, 7 to 4.

In the first game Malone was a pitching fool. Only the misdeeds of his mates jeopardized what should have been an easy whitewash. Successive infield blunders, coupled with a pass and a fluke single, paved the trail to three Giant runs in the fourth. That left only a trace of a four run lead the Cubs had taken on Bill [Lefty] Walker, against whom the most distressing blow was Vin Barton's ninth homer with a mate on base.

Malone Keeps Bearing Down.

Losing most of his lead made Malone bear down the harder. Nobody got to base against him in the fifth. In the sixth, after fanning Terry for the second out, he walked Ott and then nailed Hogan on a pop foul. Ott, so far as Malone's terrific fast balling was concerned, should have been the last Giant to reach base, but Wilson put the game in the balance at the start of the ninth by losing a two base fly ball. That's when Malone really pitched. He had to.

Johnny Welch, making his first start since his return from Reading, tried to emulate Malone in the second game, but didn't even come close. Before the first inning was over a cluster of hits, including two homers, removed him from the scene. He left behind him a sad record of four runs. That the Giants scored no more can be attributed to the fact that Hornsby conceded nothing. He called in Bob Smith, one of the regulars. Smith remained until a pinch man was needed in the eighth. Jakie May was next, but only for one inning. Then Guy Bush took over the job in the ninth and stayed until it was completed.

Mooney Good for 7 Innings.

That the second game came uncomfortably close to being a loss was due to the skill with which Jim Mooney southpawed. For seven innings he protected his four-run lead by holding the Cubs to three hits. Then the pitching school teacher was blasted from the premises in the eighth for the first time in his four major league starts. What crushed him was a homer by Cuyler with two on. It was when this happened that Fitzsimmons came on to get himself prepared for Hornsby's tying home run in the ninth.

Here's what happened in the stampede that sent the Cubs to victory in the twelfth inning of the second battle: English started it with a two bagger to left. Cuyler almost ripped a leg off Fitzsimmons with a drive which rolled towards third. Fitz picked it up and chased English back toward second. English jockeyed along slowly, then suddenly dove into the bag and was safe. Barton bunted and Fitzsimmons threw wild to first base, English scoring and Cuyler going to third.

Hack Wilson then caught up with fleeting fame. He slashed a single past Hunnefield, scoring Cuyler and moving Barton to third. Grimm kept

CON AMORE WINS AMERICAN LEGION BY STRETCH RUN

Defeats Flying Heels by Nose.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A single filly and ten colts came out for the fifth running of the American Legion handicap today, and the filly came home the winner after a gallant drive down the stretch in which she overtook Flying Heels, earner of more than $100,000. The winner was J. W. Y. Martin's Con Amore, and she was as good as 6 to 1 in the betting.

Attorney General John J. Bennett, past commander of the American Legion, presented the piece of plate which goes with the victory to Bill Irvine, Con Amore's trainer and a veteran of the 77th division. The value to the winner was $3,950.

Flying Heels Concedes 10 Pounds.

Con Amore is by High Cloud-Billet Doux and was well ridden by Pat Remillard, the lad who attracted attention at Bowie last spring by his good riding. Flying Heels, under 124 pounds, was conceding ten to the filly and led from the break to a point just a few yards from the wire when Con Amore poked her nose in front. The time for the seven furlongs was 1:24.

Half a length back of the two which had such a keen duel for chief honors finished J. G. Lang's Footmark, surprise winner of the Burgomaster handicap on Monday. After that the order was Mr. Sponge, Jubilate, Surfboard, Commuter, Martis, Blind Bowboy, Instigator, and Ormesby.

Footmark, Mr. Sponge Favorites.

Footmark and Mr. Sponge went to the post joint choices at 9 to 2 but there was considerable support for other starters, among them Surfboard, which was considered a very smart horse last spring. He was backed down from "tens" to "eights" but did not run as in the past.

PLAY SEMI-FINAL OF OAK BROOK POLO TOURNEY

Fort Sheridan will meet Onwentsia in Lake Forest and Ginger Creek will play Oak Brook at Oak Brook, York road and 22d street, today in the semi-final round of the Oak Brook handicap polo tournament. The winners meet Sunday afternoon at Oak Brook for the title.

Onwentsia will depend upon Charles F. Glore at No. 1, Prentice Porter at No. 2, Richard Simmons at No. 3, and Earle Reynolds at back. Against this combination Fort Sheridan will have Lieut. J. H. Horton at No. 1, Lieut. H. D. Reed at No. 2, Capt. C. E. Davis at No. 3, and Maj. C. C. Smith at back.

INFINITY, a quick beginner, soon went to the front and, shaking off DON ALVARO and EL RELICARIO after going half the distance, opened up a long lead and won in hand. GUIDE RIGHT closed fast to set BILL LOONEY. Latter went well and loomed up dangerous at the stretch turn, but could not get to the leader. BARON KING met with some early interference. DON ALVARO stopped badly in the stretch. EL RELICARIO showed flash of early dash of speed.

BLACKSTRAP, well up from the start, came over to take a good lead approaching the stretch turn and left to victory under urging. CHATTER QUEEN met with some interference from the winner, but continued well and was going gamely at the finish. CEE TEE closed strongly on the outside. LATE DATE showed a good effort. MARSE ROBERT was in close quarters all the half way mark. BREAKER, LADY was forced to pull up leaving the back stretch. ELEANOR'S CHOICE and BRYONIA were in trouble early.

LADY DEAN ran well to the stretch turn, but, after finishing near the outside entry resistance, raced very wide in the stretch and, after finishing near the outside fence, pulled up lame. CULLODEN was in close quarters in the stretch. SUITOR was prominent to the stretch, then tired unexpectedly. SKIRL set the pace, but dropped out of it when the real racing began.

SANTON improved his position gradually in the early running and, catching HIS LAST A LOVE in the stretch, took command and, responding gamely to the whip, drew away from DRASTIC DELIGHT, finished strongly on the inside and would have won in a few more strides. VERMICULITE was going strongly at the finish after racing fairly well up throughout. ELYSIUM held on fairly well. HIS tired in the last furlong after taking command in the early running. SWEEP FAST bore out badly when leading during the back stretch run and her rider, unable to control her, eased her up in the stretch. OUTBURST lacked the speed to keep up in the early stages and showed nothing when put to a drive.

Winner trained by F. Schaffer. Start good for all but Host. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:46¾. Off at once.

SHOW DOWN followed the early pace under entrance and, entering the stretch turn, took a short lead which proved to be the finish. ROYAL MANAGER, probably best, was permitted to race wide in the stretch and closed with a belated rush. WATERGAS came gamely through the stretch and was going well at the finish. ANNAN weakened in the last furlong and was in close quarters near the finish. KENTUCKY ACE weakened. HOST dwelt at the start and was off several lengths back of the field. LADRONE was outrun all the way.

WIZARDRY gained steadily in the early running and, taking command in the stretch, lasted to hold SEARINGTON in a driving finish. SEARINGTON was always close up, lost some ground at the stretch turn, but staged a good finish. MADCAP MARVIN was close up under restraint in the early stages and finished well. BRUSH went wide around the first turn, then saved ground by hugging the rail around the far turn to reach a contending position only to be in close quarters repeatedly thereafter. DELMONICO weakened in the final run. PRINCESS EDITH tired badly.

Long Shots Win Two at Lincoln Fields

Long shot players had plenty to cheer about after the running of the two best races on the Lincoln Fields program yesterday. For Blackstrap, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago, won the Four o'Clock purse for 2 year olds and paid $30 for a $2 ticket, while Lady Dean, a Kentucky filly, scored in the Hotel Louis Joliet purse at a mile, paying $22.06.

Blackstrap, a son of Tryster-Pongee, acquired only recently by Mrs. Denemark, won the Four o'Clock easily by a length from the favorite, Chatter Queen, after heading into the stretch three lengths to the good. Jockey Jones was easing him up near the finish or his margin of victory would have been much wider. Cee Tee closed quite a gap to get third money, but never threatened the leaders.

Lady Dean, Prose and Poetry, Willa and Culloden fought it out all the way down the stretch less than a length apart in the Hotel Louis Joliet after Skirl, from the C. V. Whitney stable, had made a torrid pace to the head of the stretch. Forty strides from the finish Prose and Poetry poked his nose in front and appeared to be certain of victory. A second later Lady Dean came with a belated rush that carried her to the lead in the last stride. Willa had been the favorite, and was the victim of a timid ride on the part of Jockey T. Roderick.

A very shifty looking 2 year old was uncovered in the Geranium purse, which opened yesterday's program. The youngster's name is Kakapo and he is owned by R. S. Clark, wealthy New Yorker, and trained by Jack Baker of Kentucky. He went to the front early and smothered his field the rest of the way to beat Bright Beauty from Admiral Cary T. Grayson's stable by four lengths with Susu third. Kakapo's advance agents had been at work and he went to the post the odds on favorite. Earl Pool rode him and it was the veteran's first victory at Lincoln Fields.

Infinity, from the far west, made a show of eleven other $2,500 plater sprinters in the second race yesterday. He tow roped them all the way and had plenty left at the finish when he flashed past the winning post ahead of Guide Right and Bill Looney, which split up the rest of the purse.

The burnt orange and black jacket of the famous old Keeneland stud was flashed to victory for the first time in Chicago this year by Santon, which won the mile and a sixteenth fifth race. He came from behind in the last strides and beat Drastic Delight, a long shot, by a head. Vermiculite was right with them and got third money. Santon is a son of Sand Mole.

The Marchioness Wins $4,000 Race on Grand Circuit

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Marchioness, a bay filly owned by Ralph R. Keeler of Auburn, N. Y., today defeated a select field to win the $4,000 horse review futurity for 2 year old trotters, going an extra heat to beat The Lad and Calumet Chuck in a race that produced two season records.

In the first heat the filly trotted the mile in 2:04¾, and went the last half in 59½ seconds, the fastest half of the season by a 2 year old. Calumet Chuck duplicated the time in the second heat and The Lad took the third in 2:05½. The Marchioness came back to win the extra one in 2:07½, to round out the four fastest heats of the season among 2 year olds.

JACK WESTLAND PLAYS NOVOTNY FOR TITLE TODAY

Justin, Armstrong Lose in District Semi-Finals.

Jack Westland, defending champion, and Gus Novotny of Edgewood today progressed to the final of the Chicago district amateur championship at Knollwood yesterday and will clash today in a 36 hole match for the title.

Westland fairly burned up the course yesterday in winning from Frank Justin, 5 and 4, in the morning and from Don Armstrong, 3 and 2, in the semi-final round. Against Justin he accumulated five birdies in 31 holes, scoring four of them on the five holes coming in. He was three under par for 14 holes when the match stopped.

Novotny encountered more difficulty in winning his way to the finals. He won his quarter-final match against Jack McKinlay Jr. of Beverly, 1 up, and they proceeded to upset Tom Frainey, 2 and 1.

Frainey Beats Par.

Frainey and Art Sweet hooked up in the hardest fought engagement of the day when they met in the quarters, with the former winning, 2 and 1. Frainey turned in 72, one under par, for the only par breaking round of the tournament and Sweet shot even par for his round.

In the first nine Frainey got under way with a birdie 3, dropped the second to a three putted, but birdied the third with 2. He played the remaining holes of the nine in par to lead 2 down at the turn. Art dropped the 10th and 11th, which he three putted, to go 5 down and 7 to play. He won the next three to go only 2 down, but lost the 15th with a bad shot. At the 16th Sweet put two full mashie shots dead to the pin for an eagle 3, but Frainey tied the 17th with the match, 2 and 1.

Frainey Can't Hold Pace.

Frainey continued his stellar game in the first nine holes of his semi-final clash with Gus Novotny. He had a two under par for the nine holes, a par 35 at the turn. He had birdied 4 on the sixth and seventh holes, making the others in par.

He was unable to keep up such a fast pace, however, winning only one hole on the way in, the 14th, which Frainey three putted for 5. Gus took a bird on the 16th with a birdie 3 and finished the match on the 17th with a par 3 while Frainey was down 2.

Westland's victory over Justin in the quarter-finals found both players making fine golf despite the fact that the former won, 5 and 4. Frank's total score for the 14 holes was one over par, but this was not good enough against the brand of golf which last year's title winner was unleashing. Westland was out in front of his way. He won the first, third and seventh holes, dropped the sixth, while Justin had a birdie 4, and the rest were halved.

Westland Turns on Heat.

In the way in Jack displayed some of the hottest golf of the tournament, getting off three birdies in a row—on the 10th, 11th, and 12th. On each hole his approach shot was dead to the pin. They halved the 13th in 4 and then Westland terminated proceedings with another birdie, his fifth of the match. The results:

QUARTER-FINALS.

Jack Westland, Sunset Ridge, defeated Tom Frainey, Edgewood Valley, 5 and 4.

SEMI-FINALS.

Joe Novotny defeated Tom Frainey, 2 up.

Day Conquers Smith, 4-3, in Junior Golf

Winfield Day of Elmhurst continued his march toward the first Chicago district golf championship yesterday by defeating Paul Smith in the third round at Marquette park, 4 and 3. Day turned a 36 over the par 33 course on the first nine, while Smith finished the nine in 38.

Robert J. Eddy, Lincolnshire Country club, scored a 5 and 3 victory over Tom Lawler to reach the quarter-final round. Another favorite came through when George Cisar, Marquette, shot par in the first round and one stroke over par in the second round to eliminate Stark Humphreys, 7 and 5.

Other players who will compete in the quarter-finals are Frank Ghiselli and Jack Hutchison. Ghiselli won from E. Krider, 2 and 1, while Hutchison defeated Joe Jemsek, 1 up.

This morning, Eddy will meet Day in the quarter-final round. Cisar is paired with Ghiselli and Hutchison will meet D. Malbrough, who won from Furman Wolf, 4 and 3. The semi-finals will be played tomorrow, with the 36 hole final match for the title scheduled for Saturday. Yesterday's results:

Winfield Day beat Paul Smith, 4 and 3.
R. J. Eddy beat Tommy Lawler, 5 and 3.
George Cisar beat Stark Humphreys, 7 and 5.
Frank Ghiselli beat E. Krider, 2 and 1.
D. Malbrough beat Furman Wolf, 4 and 3.
Jack Hutchison beat Joe Jemsek, 1 up.

Miss Beebe—Out	564	555	343—40

Mrs. Tyson started her match with Miss Webster in business like fashion by sinking a 30 foot putt for a birdie four. She scored another birdie four on the third hole to go 2 up. She went over par on the fourth when she three putted and dropped the hole to Miss Webster's par five. They exchanged the next two holes and halved the seventh in fours.

Mrs. Tyson shot par on the eighth and ninth, giving her a 3 up advantage at the turn. Miss Webster sank a long putt for a birdie four on the 10th to reduce Mrs. Tyson's lead to two, but the latter retaliated with a four on the 11th to reestablish her 3 up lead. On the 12th Mrs. Tyson trapped her second and lost the hole when Miss Webster took four. The next four holes were halved and at the 17th Mrs. Tyson's par five won the hole and the match, 3 and 1, when Miss Webster's third shot overran the green. The cards:

Mrs. Tyson—Out	464	645	443	—40
In	645	355	55
Miss Webster—Out	565	554	454	—44
In	464	355	56

Mrs. Pressler won the second hole from Mrs. Green when the latter three putted and the fourth when Mrs. Green shot out of a trap over the green. Mrs. Green's birdie four on the fifth reduced the lead, but on the seventh Mrs. Pressler's par three reestablished it at two up, when Mrs. Green trapped her tee shot and her recovery again overrolled the green. Hooking into the woods on the eighth gave Mrs. Pressler another hole and par threes on the ninth left her 3 up at the turn.

The lead was short lived, however, for in the next four holes Mrs. Green had squared the match. A stymie cost Mrs. Pressler the 10th. On the 11th a birdie three gave Mrs. Green another hole. Both approached to within three feet of the pin on the 13th, but Mrs. Pressler's putt went awry, as did her lead. Two well hit wood shots and two putts on the 14th gave Mrs. Pressler a 1 up lead again when Mrs. Green was in the rough with her second, on in three, and missed a six-foot putt for a half. They halved the 15th, 16th and 17th with par 5's and at the 18th they halved with birdie 4s, giving Mrs. Pressler the match, 1 up.

Out	564	565	353—42	2
In	645	445	554—42	—84
Mrs. Green—
Out	574	645	563—45
In	563	355	554—39	—84

The bulk of the day's gallery followed Miss Van Wie as she eliminated a fellow Chicagoan, Miss Jean Armstrong, Indian Hill, 2 and 1. Miss Armstrong won the first hole with a par five, but lost the lead on the next hole when Miss Van Wie took a par 5. They halved the third with birdie fours and Miss Armstrong's 25 foot approach dropped on the fourth to give her another half. Miss Van Wie then won the sixth with a five and increased her lead at the seventh when Miss Armstrong's tee shot hit a tree and dropped into a trap. At the eighth Miss Armstrong chipped dead for a short putt to win the hole, while Miss Van Wie two putted, but par threes on the ninth left Miss Van Wie one up at the turn.

Miss Van Wie Wins.

A par 4 on the 11th raised her advantage to two up, but Miss Armstrong won back a hole with a par 4 on the 14th. Miss Van Wie's par four on the 16th, where she sank a 40 foot approach, gave her the hole and the match, 3 and 1.

Yesterday's results and today's pairings:

SECOND ROUND.

Mrs. G. W. Tyson, Kansas City, defeated Miss Ann Webster, Leavenworth, 3 and 1.

Finn and Murphy Lead 500 Golfers in Olympia Frolic

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Olympia Fields, the world's largest golf club, held its annual invitational tournament, the Frolic, yesterday, and more than 500 members and their guests traveled over the four courses in search of a share of one of the most handsome prize lists of the season. The reward roster was so large, in fact, that it's difficult to name an individual winner for the entire day, for both members and guests got their share of prizes.

Joe Finn, who learned his game on the public park links, and Eddie Murphy, former professional at Ridge, shot the best gross rounds of the day to share the honors for special members. Both Joe and Eddie had 72 for the morning round, 74 for the afternoon, and 36 hole totals of 146. George Hilton, manager of the Jackson park course, wasn't far behind them, however, and took first low gross among the guests with a card of 72—75—147. Ira N. Soper was the best gross performer among the members, turning the morning round in 73 and the afternoon round in 81 for a total of 154.

LEROY ANDREW SIGNS TO COACH CHICAGO CARDS

Leroy B. Andrew, coach of the New York Giants professional football team for the last two seasons, was signed yesterday by Dr. David J. Jones, president, as coach of the Chicago Cardinals for the coming season. Andrew is a graduate of Kansas State Teachers college, and has spent seven years in professional football as player and coach.

His all time winning record in professional leagues is over .800, and against the ten leading professional elevens in the United States his average is .700. For the last two seasons his New York Giants have finished second in the National league and missed the top position by .004 percentage points in 1930. In eight games with the Bears his teams won seven times and took five out of six with the Cardinals.

Andrew, after graduating from Kansas State Teachers, was a member of the Great Lakes Naval Training station team which won the service football championship in 1918.

Ernie Nevers, coach and captain of the Cardinals last season, will continue to serve as field captain, but will surrender all of the coaching duties to Andrew.

Favorites in U. S. Amateur Golf

FRANCIS OUIMET.

A young fellow by the name of Francis Ouimet startled the golfing world in 1913 at the age of 20 by turning back Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, a couple of British oldsters, in an 18 hold playoff for the United States open championship. The majority of the watchers at the country club of Brookline, Mass., didn't give Ouimet a chance at the beginning of the playoff, but, of course, they didn't know that the youth lived near the course and only a few years before had spent hours pitching an old golf ball into a water bucket in his father's barn. He shot a 72 in the playoff against Vardon's 77 and Ray's 78, and he's still credited with giving modern American golf its first real impetus.

FRANCIS OUIMET.

That open championship was only the first of a long string of championships for Francis, and today, at 38, he still commands the respect of every golfer in any national amateur. After his 1913 victory he won the national amateur title the following year and tied for fifth in the open; was runner-up to Chick Evans in the 1920 amateur and semi-finalist in 1923, 1924, 1925, 1927, and 1929. He won the French amateur open in 1914, and was a member of the American Walker cup team in 1922, 1923, 1924, 1926, 1928, and 1930. He was amateur champion of his home state in 1913, 1914, 1915, 1919, 1922, and 1925.

DEMPSEY WHIPS THREE FOES IN SEATTLE RING

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, gave neat boxing lessons to three assorted opponents last night in four rounds of exhibition work. He scored no knockouts.

Dempsey apparently made no effort to knock out his opponents. There was no doubt, however, of his ability to do the trick with little trouble against the big green fighters.

Dempsey toyed through two rounds with Denny Lenhart, Portland; let Bob Frazier, Seattle Negro, stand up for one round, and helped Red Tingley, Seattle, stay on his feet for another. He knocked Tingley down twice, helped him to his feet the second time, and then let his opponent whale away at him for the remainder of the round.

James Colt, Coast Polo Captain, Dies of Injuries

SAILOR LAD PUTS ADAM SMITH OUT OF A. A. U. MEET

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Adam Smith, Rockford baker boy heavyweight, who has been a member of two Golden Gloves intercity boxing teams, last night met defeat in the second round of the Central A. A. U. tournament at the Northwest stadium. Duffy Dvonch, husky sailor lad, turned the trick in three rounds, rallying for a victory after he had been thoroughly whipped in the opening session.

Four thousand watched the second night of the tournament, which eliminated all except four boxers in the welterweight, middleweight, light heavyweight, and heavyweight classes. Preliminaries in the other classes were held Tuesday night. Tonight the semi-finals and championships of all divisions will be held.

Smith Knocks Out Susnis.

Smith had no trouble reaching the second round, for he scored a knockout in the first minute of his bout with Anthony Susnis. Dvonch also knocked out his first opponent, Nick Ingebretsen, in jig time. Adam was handicapped by a shorter reach and permitted Dvonch to forge ahead on aggressiveness.

Nick Arnold, welterweight from Streator, Ill., knocked out Arne Jansen of the Norwegian-American A. A. in a second round bout which for gameness eclipsed all other matches. Jansen was the less skilled boxer, but he packed a right hand full of dynamite, as an earlier knockout demonstrated. In the second round Jansen sent Arnold down for a nine count, but the Streator fighter came back, and after boxing carefully the remainder of that period caught Jansen with a right to the jaw which ended the battle.

Lehmann Whips McAdam.

160 POUND CLASS.

Jimmy Huck, Jones A. C., defeated John Phagan, Lawndale gym [3].

U. S. Citizen; Exiled Self Because of Books.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Aug. 26.—Frank Harris, naturalized American, and internationally famous critic, author and playwright, died in his sleep early this morning at his home at the age of 75. His death was caused by bronchitis.

He had completed reading proofs of his latest book on the life of his old friend, George Bernard Shaw, only last week, and he had written some 20,000 words on the life of King Edward VII., whose friend he was.

Harris' wife, Nellie, cared for him during his last illness. His burial will take place here or in Ireland, although he maintained an affection for the United States, the land of his adoption, despite his difficulties with American authorities due to his unorthodox utterances during the war and his too great frankness in some of his books.

Fond of Eating, Drinking.

His health, which was shaken last winter by a particularly violent attack of bronchitis, apparently had returned to normal before last Saturday's recurrence. He ate heartily and drank copiously, indulging in his daily favorite pastime of sunning himself on the café terrace with a whisky and soda or brandy and soda before him. He preserved the gay habit of carrying whisky or brandy in a flask in his hip pocket, replenishing the drink before him and complaining to the waiters that he was never served with big enough drinks.

He also maintained his custom of giving princely luncheons and dinners in his pleasant apartment. These repasts always were well attended for Harris was generous in passing out invitations, asking almost anybody he met, however obscure to "come up for lunch tomorrow." His sartorial elegance also continued to the very end.

Born in Ireland.

Born on Feb. 14, 1856, at Galway, Ireland, he ran away to the United States at the age of 15. He roamed west from Brooklyn, became a cowboy and later entered the University of Kansas. He was admitted to the bar in Kansas in 1875, but after practicing for two years went back to Europe to complete his education.

In London he met Thomas Carlyle who influenced him toward a literary career. Later on he became one of the best historians of the decadent school of writers and the biographer of Oscar Wilde.

He returned to the United States and became owner and editor of Pearson's Magazine. He sold this journal in 1923 and went to the Riviera to write his confessions. His last visit to America was in 1924. Then he came to sell some senational letters and make a lecture tour. Fear that he would get in trouble over "My Life and Loves" prompted him to return to Europe after a visit of ten weeks.

At Work on Shaw's Life.

His work on his latest book on George Bernard Shaw's life proceeded to the accompaniment of a constant exchange of friendly acerbities between the two distinguished literary men and old friends. Shaw protested that Harris was not fitted to write his biography, but nevertheless from time to time, and under protest, he contributed valuable data and letters by way of documentation. Harris at first was determined never to let Shaw see his work—which is said to be astonishingly ruthless for a book by one old friend about another—before printing, but he was finally persuaded to allow Shaw to see the final proofs. The argument used to persuade him was that he could use Shaw's objections in his footnotes and then write his own scathing refutations to these notes.

Shaw's First Employer.

NICE, France, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Frank Harris, who died here today, was critic, author, editor, and playwright. His "Life and Confessions of Oscar Wilde" brought him renown. His "Life and Loves," his autobiography, brought him notoriety. For it was suppressed in various countries, including the United States, on the ground that accounts of his love affairs, some with prominent women, were "obscene."

As editor of the Saturday Review in London he gave Shaw his first job as music critic.

MEXICAN PARTY EXPELS FOUR AS DEATH PLOTTERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—Four deputies from Jalisco, one of them a brother of Gov. Ignacio de la Mora, were expelled from the National Revolutionary party today after it had been charged that last night's shooting in the chamber of deputies, in which one deputy was slain and another wounded, was the result of a plot by the governor's friends to assassinate his enemies, who have recently attempted to have him ousted.

Those expelled were Esteban Garcia de Alba, Heliodoro de la Mora, brother of the governor; Amado Fuentes, and Angel Ladron de Guevara. A motion to lift congressional immunity and turn them over to the authorities for trial on charges that they plotted the shooting was presented, but a formal meeting of the chamber is necessary before such action can be taken.

Gen. Sebastian Allende, head of the group which is seeking to oust Gov. De la Mora, was recovering from his wounds today. He has been mentioned as the probable successor of the governor, and it is believed he was the principal object of the attack. Deputy Manuel H. Ruiz, a friend of the governor, who was killed in the fight, was buried this evening.

A. Stirton, Peter Biegler, David Braid, Joseph Close, John J. Gillan, Edward Rooney, Charles West, and Harry Cronin.

Mrs. Morton caused Johnson's arrest on Aug. 18 after he had called to her from his automobile at Lawrence and Western avenues and invited her to take a ride.

Bullets Climax Quarrel Over Still; One Wounded

A quarrel over the disposition of a basement still resulted in the shooting last night of Thomas Fovozzo, 28 years old, 831 South Claremont avenue. He was struck in the chest and left arm, but was not seriously wounded. His assailant, Vincent Millo, 35 years old, 833 South Claremont avenue, in whose home the shooting occurred, was arrested. WOMAN'S BENEFIT BODY RENTS NEW STATE OFFICES

Takes Space on 13th Floor of Republic.

BY AL CHASE.

Illinois headquarters of the nationally known insurance organization known as the Woman's Benefit association, are to be established in the Republic building, southeast corner of State and Adams, as a result of that body yesterday leasing a large area on the Adams street frontage on the thirteenth floor. The lease is for ten years at an undisclosed rental. L. J. Haller of Gordon Strong & Co. was broker. The Northern Trust company, trustee under the will of the late Henry Strong, was the lessor.

BINA W. MILLER.

The lease is one of the largest upper floor deals negotiated on State street in several months, the space comprising approximately 2,250 square feet. Extensive remodeling already under way calls for several clubrooms, a reception room, officials' offices, space for bookkeeping department and the association's health center.

Organized by Bina W. Miller.

Mrs. Bina West Miller, wife of George W. Miller, a member of the Chicago law firm of Busby, Weber, Miller & Donovan, was the organizer of the association and has been president since 1911. She also is editor of the Ladies' Review and in 1925 was president of the National Fraternal congress. She is a member of the Republican national executive committee.

The Woman's Benefit association has national headquarters in its own building at Port Huron, Mich. It started operations Oct. 1, 1892, as the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World. The name was changed in 1915 to the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees and in 1926 the title was reduced in size to the present name. The Illinois quarters have been located in the Singer building, 120 South State street, for the last five years.

Again Recalling Mr. Hankins.

The old three story apartment on the north side of East 36th place, extending from Michigan avenue to Wabash avenue, originally built by George V. Hankins, millionaire gambler of the nineties, has been acquired from Alex Weinberg, who recently took title to the property, by Stanley Zabello. The latter then conveyed it to the People's National Bank and Trust company as trustee, subject to an incumbrance of $66,000. The property was quitclaimed to Mr. Weinberg a few weeks ago by Joseph I. Hollander of Los Angeles.

John G. Gallagher of the Bancamerica-Blair corporation has leased from C. S. Alexander the nine room residence at 2516 Colfax street, through O. H. Armstrong of the Evanston office of Quinlan & Tyson. F. Fletcher Garlock, associated with the Chase-Harris-Forbes corporation, has leased the residence at 109 Fuller lane, Winnetka, through F. M. Orndorf of the Winnetka office of the same realty firm.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

Joseph Givner has been appointed retail general sales manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co. He has been connected with the merchandise department for about three years. His new office includes direction of the merchandising, sales promotion, advertising, and display programs of all the retail stores.

The Chase Harris Forbes corporation, security affiliate of the Chase National bank, will move its Chicago headquarters during the coming weekend to the third floor of the Standard Trust building, 112 West Adams street. These are temporary offices until the company accupies its permanent quarters in the new Field building, which is to replace the Home Insurance building.

DAVIS—

BETTER TIMES MAY BE SEQUEL TO OIL UPTURN

Seagraves Predicts Rise in Business.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It is almost a truism that both good and bad times are largely the product of psychology. When conditions are contracted and depression

O. B. SEAGRAVES.

[illegible] will hear the comment every [illegible] in the New York and Chicago financial districts that what is most needed at present is some outstanding development that will motivate public confidence; that will turn fear and hesitation into optimism and confidence. It is not, perchance, improvement in the European situation? Might it be [illegible] cessation of prohibition restrictions? Or will it result from the current developments in the petroleum industry?

Will Help General Improvement.

The latter possibility is raised by O. A. Seagraves, chairman of the Republic Gas corporation and vice chairman of the United Gas corporation, [illegible] has been for some years a successful oil and gas operator in mid-continent fields. He predicts a general improvement in business probably will follow closely on any sustained improvement and higher prices in the oil industry.

"The oil industry is probably the largest in the country, excluding agriculture," he says. "Its investment is more than 12 billion dollars, and it employs approximately 2,500,000 persons. Its stockholders are estimated to number over 2,000,000. Betterment among this great mass of people connected with the oil industry is bound to prove of widespread benefit to business generally. In addition, the tremendous expenditures of companies for higher royalties, [illegible] transportation, and wages will stimulate business improvement.

"Oil was one of the first commodities to be deflated, the movement having started in 1925, and it is logical that it should be the first to turn upward. As this occurs, other commodities should reflect the trend in varying degrees, depending on conditions in individual industries. Oklahoma, Texas, and California together produce about 82 per cent of the crude oil of the country. With California and Oklahoma regulating their wells [illegible] with Texas enforcing proration, an improvement is already shown by increased prices being offered by [illegible] purchasers throughout the country.

Steel Output Recedes.

The steel industry again this week [illegible] failed to show the seasonal expansion that usually appears with the approach of September. Both of the [illegible] mid-week reviews report a [illegible] recession in mill activities, the Iron Age placing current ingot production at an average of 31 per cent [illegible] capacity, compared with 32 per cent a week ago and "Steel" estimating [illegible] operations at 32 per cent, compared with 33½ per cent last week. "Evidences of improvement in business to date have been little more than [illegible] on a scale which remains at a low ebb," Iron Age says. "The return in specifications from the automobile industry has not been followed by gains of sufficient magnitude to indicate a measurable expansion of motor car output in September. The requirements of other leading users for iron and steel show both increases and decreases, largely offsetting each other, while releases from [illegible] consumers disclose almost no significant changes.

"Construction activity, although general, offers the best promise of making heavier demands on the steel industry. A good volume of structural inquiry has been accumulating and while many projects, particularly public undertakings, have been slow in reaching the contracting stage, there is reason to believe that awards will soon show an appreciable upturn."

Sterling Exchange Again Improves in Wall Street

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Sterling exchange showed further improvement today as confidence in the [illegible] of the British currency [illegible] ground with the formation of [illegible] national cabinet. The pound [illegible] at one time yesterday as high as [illegible], only three-eighths cents below parity, and the best price reached on the current recovery. Later it receded [illegible] to finish at $4.86¼, a gain of [illegible] thirty-seconds on the day.

Oats Prices Lead a Sharp Upturn in Grain Market

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The grain markets executed a right about face movement yesterday and advanced sharply, with oats in the lead, the activity and independent strength shown in the latter grain being a distinct surprise to the trade in general.

In addition there was a report that a moderate amount of domestic hard winter wheat had been sold for direct export by a local firm, the first claim of this character in a great many months, and which some traders took as indicating that prices here had at last declined to the world's level.

A marked expansion in the trade was noticeable in all grains, and while a liberal percentage of the buying was regarded as short covering, brokers claimed that some professionals who have been doing little for some time past were buyers during the day.

Oat Markets Show Strength.

Pronounced strength in the northwestern oat markets, with Minneapolis around 2c above Chicago on cash grain, and reports that the northwest had started to draw grain from Iowa served to call attention to the limited movement of this grain to terminal markets, as well as the small percentage of contract grain in the arrivals. Less than 10 per cent of the total of late received here has been of sufficient heavy weight to grade No. 2 white. According to information received by the trade Minneapolis bid well above Chicago for large lines of cash oats in Iowa in the last few days, but was unable to secure any counter offers of consequence.

At no time were oat prices yesterday more than ¼c below the finish of the previous day and the close was about the top with net gains of 1⅞c. September being 21⅝c, December 23⅛ to 23¼c, and May 25⅞c.

Wheat Reports Unfavorable.

Wheat traders continue to practically ignore domestic developments and are watching the outlook for the new crop in Europe. A wet harvest prevails in northern Europe, and practically all reports received of late suggest that a downward revision in crop estimates will be necessary. A semi-official German report said around 50 per cent of the cereal crops in the southwestern part of that country had been lost, and Germany was credited with having been the buyer of the hard winter sold during the day by Chicago handlers.

While the seaboard reported only 500,000 bu hard winter and Manitobas sold for export in all positions, the business that has actually been done of late is understood to have been much larger. Official exports of wheat and flour from the United States in July aggregated 17,417,000 bu, compared with 12,446,000 bu the previous month and with 16,344,000 bu last year.

A government report indicating farmers' intentions to plant winter wheat and rye for the crop of 1932 will be given to the trade late today, and is expected to suggest a decrease of 15 to 20 per cent in the wheat acreage. Argentine official estimate on the acreage for the new crop is 17,051,000, a decrease of 4,266,000 acres, or about 20 per cent from last year.

Wheat Closes Near Top.

The local wheat market showed a firm undertone from the start, and advanced 1¾@1⅞c from the low and finished with net gains of 1⅛@1⅜c, with September 47⅞@48c. December 52@52¾c, and May at 57¼@57⅝c. Winnipeg was ⅞@1⅛c higher with October at 55⅝c, while Liverpool was ⅛@¼d lower with October 56¼c. According to available records the decline of $3.05 in cash wheat in Chicago between January, 1920, and the price of 45⅝c at which No. 2 red winter sold here on Tuesday is the greatest in the history of the trade, the largest decline known heretofore having been from $3.10 to a low of 33c at Strassburg, Germany, between 1636 and 1646.

Further short covering developed in September corn yesterday and it advanced 2⅝c over the finish of Tuesday to 43⅝c, or 4¼c above the low of the previous day, and finished 2¾c higher at 43⅛@43⅝c. New crop months were 1½@1⅝c higher, with December 38⅝@39½c, and May 43⅞@44c.

DENIES REQUEST FOR INCREASE IN SWITCHING RATES

Ill. Commerce Body Opposes Boost.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Denial of intrastate rate increases, ranging from 25 per cent upward, which were sought by the railroads in the Chicago switching district, was announced today by the Illinois commerce commission after the completion of a cost survey that showed the railroads demands were not justifiable.

The commission order is of special significance in view of the fact that the interstate commerce commission, just two weeks ago, held that the railroads' demands were reasonable, and ordered them effective on interstate traffic on or before Nov. 10, 1931.

Would Mean Diversion.

Early in 1927, the proposed rate increases were filed by the railroads. Both the Illinois commerce commission and the interstate commerce commission suspended the schedules and since have held a number of joint hearings to determine the facts in the case.

In announcing its order, the commission cited evidence showing that the Lowrey basis has benefited both the carriers and shippers, and that the substantial increases, proposed by the railroads, would result in the diversion of traffic to the highways and waterways.

Coincident with the denial of the rate increases in the Chicago switching district, the state commission also denied the railroads' request to boost the rates from Chicago Heights to the Chicago switching district. The commission declared that the evidence in its possession would not support the increase.

Movement of Traffic.

Discussing the interstate feature of the order, the Illinois commission pointed out that 53.3 per cent of the total traffic involved in the case is Illinois intrastate traffic; 6.4 per cent Indiana intrastate traffic, and that the interstate traffic over which the interstate commerce commission has jurisdiction amounts to but 40.3 per cent.

The Illinois commerce commission's findings also showed that the average distance for one line hauls in Illinois intrastate traffic is 14.7 miles, while the interstate haul is 15 miles; the average for two line hauls on Illinois intrastate traffic is 15.9 miles while the interstate traffic is 27.5 miles; the average three line haul for Illinois intrastate is 23.4 miles, while the interstate is 34.2 miles.

Indiana Denies Increase.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Indiana shippers will be saved from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 annually by an order approved by the public service commission today denying increases in freight rates on 30 Indiana lines. Railroads affected are mostly in the Calumet district.

O. R. Livinghouse, chief of the tariff department of the commission, and Howell Ellis, member of the public service body, who conducted an investigation, said they conferred with members of the Illinois public service body and were advised similar increases would be denied in that state. The order was written by Livinghouse.

Finds Ice Industry Is Now Enjoying Record Business

BY SCRUTATOR.

The ice industry occupies an enviable position, for despite the slowness of the times its business has never been better.

The reason for this is quite apparent when one examines the figures for the last ten years. The ice industry was the first to enter the operating room, have its appendix removed, and start on the road to recovery. Its period of depression occurred in 1926 and consequently during the big boom of 1928 and 1929 it was not yet far enough out of its readjustment period to be caught in the general inflation.

From 1919 to 1925 total sales of manufactured ice increased substantially each year. In 1925, due to a combination of favorable circumstances, sales leaped 13.4 per cent.

Business Suffers Setback.

Bankers became interested. Mergers were effected. There was a sharp inflation, the extent of which is seen in the fact that the average capitalized value of ice properties per ton of productive capacity increased from $1,500 in 1925 to $3,900 in 1927.

The natural result of this was to divide profits by about 2½.

Then came 1926, an unusually poor year for the ice companies, sales decreasing 2 per cent. This was the only year of the last twelve to show a decline in sales. But to bankers, investors, and many ice manufacturers it seemed at the time that the handwriting was on the wall.

Subsequent events have proved that such pessimism was unwarranted. Ice manufacturers have done more business than ever since 1926, and their prosperity, peculiarly enough, has been due largely to precisely what in 1926 was regarded as the nemesis of ice—mechanical refrigeration.

Pick Up Backwash.

And the cause of this unexpected revitalization of the ice business has been a campaign of public education, a large part of which has been carried on by competitive interests—the manufacturers and distributors of mechanical refrigerators. This the ice people readily admit. They have been keeping alert and picking up the backwash of a tremendous advertising program for mechanical refrigerators.

At first timidly and then more wholeheartedly they began to tie in with this campaign by launching one of their own. They found that many people who hitherto had used no kind of refrigeration were becoming sold on the idea. From 1912 to 1930 the percentage of families using some sort of refrigeration increased from 42.3 per cent to 48.6 per cent. Furthermore, in 1930 gross output of ice per capita was nearly 1,100 pounds, against only 450 pounds in 1912.

Upon request Leslie C. Smith, secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries, supplies the information that 56,239,416 tons of manufactured ice were sold last year, 5.34 per cent more than in 1929, and a new high yearly record. Increases in previous years were as follows: 1929, 5 per cent; 1928, 7.25 per cent; 1927, 3.5 per cent.

Car Icing Increases.

"The improvement," he says, "has been due to increased domestic sales and growth in car icing sales. The quantity used for car icing has gone up an average of 6 per cent a year for the last twelve years because of the vast increase in the consumption of perishable products. We believe that we still have room for a 50 per cent growth in the domestic field. Members of the association today are spending five times as much in telling the public about ice as they spent in 1925."

Ice manufacturers, having got their second wind, are out to boost their sales in many ways. Five years ago less than 1,000 refrigerators were sold by ice companies. This year they expect to sell 100,000.

The ice manufacturers and the makers of mechanical cooling devices are selling the public an idea and they are both profiting by it.

35 RAILROADS SHOW JULY EARNINGS OFF SHARPLY FROM 1930

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—July net operating income of the first 35 railroads to report showed a sharp decrease from the like month of 1930. The total for these carriers was $15,496,000, a drop of 38.7 per cent from $25,288,000 reported for the like month of 1930. The same roads reported June net operating income of $17,329,000, a reduction of 15.4 per cent below the corresponding month last year.

J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, said that from present indications he would be surprised if earnings for this year did not exceed $4.50 a common share. He added that no additional financing was anticipated for the road during the rest of this year.

I. C. C. Puts $47,062,000 Value on Great Western

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today placed a final valuation for rate making purposes of $47,062,000 on the Chicago Great Western railroad as of June 30, 1916. The Mason City and Fort Dodge Railroad company properties, which are leased to the Chicago Great Western, were valued at $13,825,000, and the Wisconsin, Minnesota and Pacific railroad, also leased, at $5,725,000. The Great Western has 1,160 miles of tracks of its own and leases 817 miles.

Farm Witnesses Oppose 15 Pct. Rail Rate Increase

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Testimony inended to show that a proposed 15 per cent railroad freight rate increase would add materially to the woes of an already distressed agriculture was given by witnesses today and tonight at an interstate commerce committee hearing here.

Many of them were introduced by the national committee of farm organizations which Clyde M. Reed, rate counsel and former Kansas governor, said represented groups in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Montana.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—For no particular reason that anybody could quite make out the share market suddenly came to life in the late trading today and went scampering forward in the liveliest fashion it has deigned to affect in two weeks or more.

Gains of from a fraction to more than 2 points or more were run up by the entire list, many of them replacing minus signs of quite substantial proportions.

All kinds of explanations were offered for the impromptu rally, but none of them held water very well. One bevy of self-styled experts thought it might be attributed to the improved tone of the listed bond market and to the strength in sterling. Another saw the reason in "bargain" buying attracted by the moderate recessions in second grade railroad bonds as well as in common stocks of the carrier group. Others guessed that the growing belief that England will yet "muddle through" her present great difficulties might have furnished the necessary impetus.

Industrials Do Best.

One guess on the whole sounded about as puny as the others when held up to the light but the fact remained that the market greatly improved its rating and this after all is all that counts with speculative Wall street these days.

By major divisions, the best performance was given by the industrials some of which had behaved rather disgracefully during the first two or three hours of trading.

American Can for instance, after hiding behind a minus sign during the entire afternoon, suddenly perked up and at the close was boasting a net gain of nearly 3 points. Estimates placing the corporation's earnings at $6 a share against $3.08 in 1930 and a supplementary report that the usual extra dividend would be declared at

STANDARD FIRMS AVER MERGER IS "LOGICAL" MOVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—After a conference lasting a week at Lake Tahoe, Cal., officials of the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and California announced today that a merger of the two would be "logical and advantageous," indicating at the same time that early agreement on details of the consolidation was expected.

The merger, which has been under consideration for about two years, will unite properties with recorded assets of $2,400,000,000 and thus create the largest single industrial enterprise in the world, not excepting the United States Steel corporation. The conference looking to the amalgamation will be resumed later and terms will then be worked out for submission to stockholders.

Transamerica Corp. Plans to Regroup Its Interests

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 26.—Officials of the Transamerica corporation have under consideration a number of plans for regrouping the interests of the holding company, including a scheme for divesting the organization of its principal banking investments here and in California.

One plan contemplates the distribution to stockholders of the corporation of the holdings of Transamerica in the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, a California bank having 438 branches with deposits of nearly $1,000,000,000, and the sale of the Bank of America National association in New York, which has deposits of $218,000,000.

The Transamerica corporation, organized originally as a holding company for the interests of A. P. Giannini, California financier, holds a dominant interest in banking institutions throughout the country which had aggregate resources of $1,703,676,847 on Dec. 31st last.

Shell Pipe Line.

Will you please give me a report on Shell Pipe Line corporation debenture 5s, due 1952. I am considering them as part of an investment in a class suitable for a business man's funds. —H. M. N.

Shell Pipe Line corporation is a subsidiary of Shell Union Oil corporation, a part of the Royal Dutch system. Its $28,579,500 debenture 5s, due 1952, are unconditionally guaranteed by the parent company.

In 1930 the latter earned only 23 per cent of interest charges on its own bonds. In 1929 interest charges were earned 4.69 times; in 1928, 5.95 times, and in 1927, 6.79 times.

President J. C. Van Eck stated that unsatisfactory results of operations in 1930 were due to curtailment of production and the "demoralized condition" of the marketing side of the business.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets of Shell Union Oil corporation were $101,863,701 and current liabilities were $28,394,178. Cash and cash assets were about $25,500,000.

Shell Union Oil corporation and Shell Pipe Line corporation agree not to mortgage or pledge any of their properties without securing these debentures equally and ratably.

For the first half of 1931 profit of Shell Pipe Line corporation, after all charges except federal taxes, was $7,524,433, against $7,734,015 for the corresponding period of 1930.

For 1930 total income available for interest and retirement charges was $16,726,203, against $15,673,392 for 1929. Interest charges in 1930 were $1,500,591 and for 1929 $1,579,187.

Missouri Edison.

Please give me your opinion on Missouri Edison company, Louisiana, Mo., 7 per cent preferred stock.—H. B. C.

Missouri Edison company is controlled by Inland Power and Light corporation, a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities. It furnishes electric light and power to 15 communities with a population of 9,500 in Missouri. It also serves Louisiana, Mo., with gas.

Gross revenues have increased steadily in the last six years. Net income for 1930 was $33,506, against $34,874 for 1929, $16,134 for 1928, and $18,811 for 1927.

Due to increases in the number of preferred shares, per share earnings on the preferred have not followed the same trend as net income. For 1930 they were $18.06 against $28.26 for 1929, $16.13 for 1928, and $18.81 for 1927. At the close of 1930 there were 1,855 shares of $7 cumulative preferred outstanding. Funded debt consisted of $650,000 first 5½s due 1947.

The preferred is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

A DIVERSIFIED LIST

Some Primary Definitions

COMMERCIAL PAPER • A corporate promise to pay in three to six months.

• These security types, obviously, differ materially in essential character. And within each type, vast differences are apparent between individual issues.

• This wide variety of investment forms makes possible exact conformance of the investment to the individual need. But it does much more. Securities of various types can be brought together to form an investment whole which more nearly meets the objective of the investor than the individual securities do themselves. After all, the investor wants many things—protection of principal, as large an income as is consistent with safety, a hedge against changes in the purchasing power of the dollar, the chance of moderate appreciation. No individual security can offer him all of these, but a proper combination of securities can approximate this investment ideal.

• Because we approach the investor's problem from his point of view, this organization offers a wide diversity of offerings, not only within a class of security but also as to classes of securities. There is at hand then here the material for making a sound investment plan thoroughly effective.

SEES SECURITIES UNAFFECTED BY GRAND JURY ACT

Amer. Bond & Mortgage Issues Not Jeopardized.

The indictment of William J. Moore, former president of the American Bond and Mortgage company and other officials of the firm by a federal grand jury in New York on Tuesday does not jeopardize real estate securities issued on Chicago buildings and those in other cities by the bond concern, according to a statement made yesterday by Edward P. Morse of Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson, attorneys for the bond holders' protective committee.

"The indictment will have no effect on the bonds issued by the company," Mr. Morse said. "We are in a panicky bond market and owners of the bonds should be cautioned against dumping their securities on the market or letting them get into the hands of scalpers. Before selling they should consult their own counsel or some one who has some knowledge of the intrinsic value of the properties.

Protects Buyers' Interests.

"The bond holders' protective committee has on deposit a vast majority of the bonds on every American Bond and Mortgage building on which there has been any default. The committee is national in scope and is working to protect the interests of those who bought bonds through the company. It has no connection either with the Moores or with the company.

Craig B. Hazlewood, vice president of the First National bank, is chairman and the other members include the following: Joseph C. Otis of the Central Illinois Bank and Trust company; Dayton Keith; Frank Blair, chairman of the board of the Union Guardian Trust company of Detroit; Wallace T. Perkins, vice president of the Chatham Phenix bank of New York; Frederick G. Curry, vice president of the Bank of America; N. A. and H. K. Hallett, president of the Atlantic National bank of Boston.

Mr. Morse stated that the reorganization plan worked out by the committee for the Jackson Towers, whose bonds were in default, has been highly satisfactory as has been the case on buildings in other cities.

Among the Chicago buildings on which the mortgage company sold bonds are the Albion hotel, Churchill, 20 East Cedar street, Engineering building, Garden-Court apartments, Harbor View apartments, Graemere hotel, etc.

Calls Charges Unfair.

Harold A. Moore of Chicago, who with his father, William J. Moore, and three other officials of the company were indicted in New York on charges of using the mails to defraud, yesterday declared that "the same charge could be made against any bank or firm doing real estate bond business.

"These charges really constitute an indictment of the general policy under which the real estate bond business has been conducted during the last twenty years," he said. "For the government now to single out any one company and read into this policy a charge of bad faith on the part of officers of that company seems most unfair."

WILL FURNISH BAIL.

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Attorneys for William J. Moore, former president of the American Bond and Mortgage company, and four other officers today said they would appear tomorrow in federal court to furnish bail on the indictments filed yesterday against them which charge use of the mails to defraud and conspiracy. The indictments on sixteen counts charge the fraudulent sale of bonds, preferred stock and debentures totaling more than $58,000,000. The bonds were issued on thirty-four buildings consisting of business offices, apartments and hotels in seven cities, Chicago, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Palm Beach and Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 16,000; sheep, $12,000.

A buying wave swept the hog market into a stronger position soon after a slightly lower opening yesterday and producers at the close were advising their commission men to hold their hogs off the market for a time in hopes that receipts would let up some.

Yesterday's arrivals exceeded expectations at 19,000 and were largest for Wednesday since middle of June, but today's estimate calls for only 16,000, the smallest Thursday receipts in more than a month. There was a marked decrease in the number of extremely light and underweights in yesterday's offerings, but spring pigs averaging 150@220 lbs comprised a big share of receipts.

The deluge of unfinished stock showed signs of abatement and traders hope that the slashing of quotations has been halted at least temporarily. The extreme top for hogs was unchanged at $6.65, but the general average came up 10c at $5.55, the two prices showing the narrowest August spread since 1924, barring 1928, when only $1.00 separated the top and average. Butcher hogs averaging 210@230 lbs are topping the price list and 240@260 lb averages are selling in line with 160@190 lb lightweights.

Hog Futures Slow.

Although trading was practically at a standstill in the hog futures market yesterday, December contracts were not available at Tuesday's quotations. The lowest offer stopped at $5.50 on December heavy and at $5.60 on December mediums. Heavy hogs were offered for delivery during the first half of September at $6.50 and carried bids of $6.25, while contracts for the last half were bid $6.50, but no offers were made. September lightweights for the last half of the month were offered at $7.50.

Outlet for best grades of beef steers continued good at the recent advance in prices, but short feds and plainer kinds weakened off in midsession and finished in a 25@35c slump. Some choice grades of cattle exceeding 1,100 lbs in weight shared in the weakness, most orders calling for 1,000@1,100 lb averages. Fancy 1,000@1,082 lb yearlings topped the list at $10.35, while the bulk of all steers sold at $7.50@9.75, against $7.75@10.00 Tuesday.

Scarcity of Top Yearlings.

There was an abundance of good fat 1,200@1,400 lb steers, but the scarcity of top yearlings is still acute. Butcher stock met fair demand at steady to strong prices. Most grassy cows are selling at $3.50@4.50, but those that were finished out well on a grain ration ranged upwards to $6.00. Fat yearling heifers were quoted at $9.00@9.75. There were signs of weakness in the market for calves and some were considered lower at the close.

The number of cattle feeder buyers in search of stock suitable for the feed lots is growing daily and prices in the feeder division have improved 50c to $1.00 in the last three weeks. Farmers are buying best quality range feeders at $7.00@7.50. Shipments of feeding stock have increased 65 per cent from leading points, compared with a year ago, and it is the concensus of opinion that there is danger of an overproduction of beef cattle in the next few months.

Production Slowly Rising.

Many of the feeder cattle are going to Illinoisans who are planning on marketing them as short feds in December and January, when there is likely to be a shortage of highly finished steers and yearlings suitable for the holiday trade. Production of bovine stock in this country, due to reverses suffered by the cattle men the last few years, reached low ebb the last two years, but is gradually increasing. The number of cattle slaughtered in the United States during 1930 totaled 8,170,000. Only one yearly total since 1915 has been smaller. The record cattle slaughter at 11,829,000 was made in 1918. However, the slaughter figures for the first seven months of 1931 show a slight increase compared with the same period of 1930.

Strength was evident in the lamb market soon after the opening yesterday and bulk of offerings changed hands at steady to strong prices, despite the increase in receipts. Arrivals were expected to total 20,000 head, the largest for Wednesday this year. "Tops" from the 10,000 western range lambs unloaded on the market sold at $7.50@8.10, while native went to packers at $7.75@8.00.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

Butter was in better demand with prices ¼@1c higher. Receipts 8,282 tubs. Fresh eggs were unchanged with receipts 6,942 cases. Live hens and Leghorns advanced 1c as did heavy white ducks. Receipts 4 cars and 28 trucks. Potatoes steady with receipts 76 cars and 249 cars were on team track.

COTTON NEWS BETTER; PRICES TURN UPWARD

A combination of strengthening market factors brought stronger and higher prices for cotton yesterday with the close around the top figures. Liverpool was stronger and closed 6@7 points net higher with spot sales 4,000 bales. The government weather crop report was regarded as favorable, southern selling was of lighter volume and short covering, with a scarcity of offerings, were the important factors. Trading, however, was not heavy, but the market was more sensitive to strengthening influences. The advance in grains and stocks also helped to create a better feeling. Chicago futures closed 14@18 points higher, with other markets up 15@17 points. Spots closed 20 points, with New York, 7.30c; New Orleans, 6.90c; Galveston, 7c; and Houston, 6.95c.

Rains were reported from the Mississippi valley eastward and cotton picking has been delayed. Reports from Oklahoma said growth was good, although rather poor to only fair on dry uplands of the central west. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet again today but the undertone was easier owing to the setback in the futures. The only sale confirmed was 1,350 bags of Cuban to an outport refiner for prompt shipment at 3.45c, duty paid, and there were further offering at this level with local refiners showing no interest.

Futures just about lost yesterday's upturn owing to a less active demand for the spot month and scattered selling by houses with trade and Cuban connections. The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and continued to sag throughout the balance of the session, closing at the lowest and at net declines of 3 to 7 points. Approximate sales were 34,700 tons. Prices follow:

NOVEMBER EGGS LOWER

November eggs failed to hold an early advance on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, dropping back under pressure at the close, ending with a decline of ¼@¾c. November butter also moved higher at the opening but lost part of its gain, closing unchanged to ¼c higher. Round white potatoes moved up 5c, but Idahos and Rocky Mountains lost a point. There was little in the news to encourage the early support in November eggs, other than the fact that storage reports indicated somewhat less forward movement, but the outward movement still is sharply under that of last year. Butter news remained bullish, production reports being fair and the storage movement normal. However, profit taking appeared and the price drifted lower at the last. Potatoes were quiet. Sales, butter, 1,305,600 lbs; eggs, 164,000 doz; potatoes, 960,000 lbs. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Not in recent weeks has sentiment in the grain trade been more hopeful of a change for the better than at the close yesterday. Traders said it was more difficult to buy than to sell wheat, the reverse of conditions the last several weeks. All markets are said to have been well liquidated by tired holders. The short interest however, is not regarded as heavy and close observers of pit conditions said at the close they expected a little setback from the extreme advance of the day and mostly favored the long side of the market on all breaks. Those who have waited for prices to reach bottom in numerous instances are inclined to the belief that the low prices were touched on Tuesday.

"Wheat itself is making no new pressure," says the Uhlmann Grain company. "Stocks in Kansas City, Duluth, and Minneapolis show a net increase for the week of only 1,000,000 bu, indicating that even though the movement is now on in the northwest there is hardly any increase. Australia, which has been a big factor this year, and shipped 154,000,000 bu during the 12 months ended July, 1931, undoubtedly will have a much smaller acreage. Stocks of United States wheat in Canada have increased to 32,000,000 bu, against 4,000,000 bu last year and of course such items prevent taking too bullish a view of the situation, even though slight changes upward in prices may occur."
